Lord Shelburne, knows enough of Mr. Eden not to be surprised I am certain of his warmth on the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland being removed more coolly than ever was known before, the account of the Conversation with Mr. Laurens is very curious and I should ~~think him the best person to send to~~ to Mr. Adams; the getting Mr. Oswald at the same time to send Mr. Franklin cannot be improper; I was thoroughly resolved not to open my mouth on any Negotiation with America, but as it falls to the share of Lord Shelburne the very handsome part he has acted in the whole Negotiation for forming the present Administration obliges me now and then to give an hint.
