My dearest Mother,

I have detain'd Willem the Abby Green very near three Hours, as the Prince was asleep & I had not as yet seen her, & I was determin'd not to send you a hearsay account but such a one as might be depended upon having satisfied my self with my own eyes first. She has peep'd an exceeding good night & has had much sleep in the course of the Day as you may perceive by the length of time that the Green has been detain'd, & is as well as be can possibly ^{be} under her present circumstances I have given every direction for her being kept as quiet as possible, & will certainly take the liberty of writing James as many an account & will send it down by one of my own servants, in order to save you the trouble of sending one of James. I should wish to say a great deal to you, but shall defer it till the first moment I have the happiness of seeing you again, pray give my best love to Miss Elija & thank her most cordially for all her kind letters, & remember me most affectionately to all the rest of the Family; may I beg of you my ever dearest Mother to present my humble duty to the King & say how truly happy I am to hear that His Majesty is so much better. I will not now detain the Servant any longer, & therefore subscribe myself, my dearest Mother,

Your most dutiful & affectionate Son
 John 3^d.
