I have just recollected my dear Countess, that the Review is so early & tomorrow morning, that even if I wait till eight o'clock tomorrow I shall be too late to attend the King; you will therefore be so good, as their Majesties as well as myself are very desirous of seeing the Child, to bring her down to Windsor with Miss Anne, as soon as she has had her Breakfast, she will return again to Blackheath before eight o'clock.

Adieu my dear Countess, I am ever, Your most affectionate Son Sunday Evening.
