9 morning.

My Lord

The Prince of Wales arrived last night from Brighton; and has honoured me with his commands to attend him at one o'clock this day. I shall then be apprised of what His Royal Highness considers as essential deviations from the principles on which he allowed me to proceed in my former communication.

As Your Lordship would, I take for granted, be desirous of seeing me as speedily as possible, I take the liberty of enquiring at what hour after half past Two, I may be permitted to wait upon Your Lordship in Bedford Square.

I have the Honor to be Sir

The Lord Chancellor
