

49659

Pardon me, dear M^r. Nott, if I only write these few lines to you. As I know professions are vain without they are put in practice, I will only say, how sorry I was that what passed this morning shewed a little remains of the former disposition to evil. But however I will say no more; hoping that the lesson that you set me will meet your approbation (as I assure you I have taken some pains with it.)
I remain

Dear M^r. Nott

Your very sincere Friend

(signed) Charlotte

10028

