

My beloved Mother
 I have received your kind & affectionate letter. I never can never will believe my dear child, that you either ever, will ^{intentionally} ~~intentionally~~ do any thing to give me pain or uneasiness. What is said, is said & general, & therefore do not think too much of it, & pray do not let it give you any further uneasiness, ^{than} I do assure you, that it shall ^{give} me. You ought to know my dear Mother, the ^{good} ~~kindness~~ ^{of} ~~my~~ ^{heart} I entertain both of your heads & of your Aunt, & therefore I do with confidence, that ^{you will} ~~it is~~ for any future occasion, you will advert to them. ^{for advice previously} to the indulgence, of any little momentary impulse which may arise; & now God bless, you my dearest wife, & thank Alas. ^{the} weather does not appear very favourable, ^{& dispersed just at present} let me not be disappointed in my swift anxious hope, of seeing you when we meet this Evening in the highest good looks & spirits possible really to enjoy the fate which I have prepared for you

Yours most affectionate Father
 George B. B.

Written from Lond. 24. 4. 1813.
 June 30. 1813.

b.
 by the G.

49809

admiral

B. The success, is to be a further Home by the half past nine, & I will send them their for you the moment they are set down -

