Dear Mother

My Dear Mother -

I cannot think of attending the day to look at you by letter and aband, without sending a few lines to wish you every thing and at the same time that I hope I can not the first that writes to you, I hope that you can offer me the best of affection to wish for all the of my father's happiness and you - I think you will / I did not mention it / my having spent the Monday I came over from Windsor to pay my debts this day to the Queen, as I thought it a note of respect on this particular occasion. I therefore so deemed for dinner, & shall return tomorrow after Church - The same were so kind to leave it to my discretion, to go to my father & I do not think to accept his invitations to dinner on my first day, without first visiting it to Euse, & all ways that I had intended seeing for some time during the day, if Euse did not approve of my dining there. of course as usual there is to be nobody but the women ladies, the wine was to have a little music but to that I have no business wishing to have first from Euse, which I think I may do, as soon as he writes that I may know how to and advise they demand the of medicine we have been long off to a doubtful which
