

[July 3 1814]

Lady Sehester is commanded by The Queen, to communicate to His Royal Highness The Prince Regent, a conversation with which Her Majesty, has been pleased to honor Lady Sehester on the subject of Princess Charlotte.

That His Royal Highness The Prince Regent, has done Mrs Campbell the honor to propose her resuming that situation in Princess Charlottes Establishment which she formerly held in consequence of the high opinion which His Majesty entertained of her Principles, and Character, is certainly highly gratifying both to herself, and to her friends, and Lady Shechester had no hesitation in assuring Her Majesty, that if health permitted, Mrs Campbell would be happy to give every proof of attachment, and gratitude in her power.

Her Majesty graciously proposed to lend Lady Shechester for the present moment to assist in the new Establishment

To find that this has met with His Royal Highness' approbation is doubtless highly flattering to Lady th to Chester, who in obedience to Her Majesty's commands, will to the utmost of her power act conformably to the orders with which she may be honored by The Queen, and by His Royal Highness The Prince Regent.

The great responsibility attached to the duties which Lady Chester is commanded to engage in, have induced her humbly to suggest to Her Majesty a wish to commence those duties under the same Proofs with His Royal Highness until his plan shall be finally arranged and will His Royal Highness excuse Lady Hester having expressed to Her Majesty the impossibility of her otherwise obeying the commands with which she has been so highly honored

Lady Hester
