My dear Mother

You desired when we parted that I should write if anything particular arose but nothing of consequence having occurred I have troubled you with a letter, as I thought it would only please you.

But now you are come to Town I must send you a few lines to say how very glad I am at it, as I trust it may be a means of our soon meeting here, which after so long an absence from you will be a great delight to me.

As I have nothing

not been well for some days past & have been unable to come, will you allow me to ask Miss ^{Harriet} to spend a few days with me. As she is now in town — the word of approbation or dissent will be sufficient for me to abide by —

Believe me
Dear Madam
Ever affly
Dear Madam
