

[Nov. 5 1817]

A77

Wednesday a quarter past eight AM. Clarendon

Sir Richard Croft & Dr Lewis are happy to inform their Lordships that the Labour of Her Royal Highness the Princess Charlotte has made a considerable, though very gradual progress throughout the night. They hope therefore that the Child may be safely born without artificial assistance; but still the progress of the Labour is so very slow, that they cannot at present determine in what time it may be accomplished.
Her Royal Highness's Pulse & general appearance are good.

