Sir Benjamin Bloomfield, with the expression of his most humble Duty, has the honor to inform Your Royal Highness, that the Prince Regent having suffered a considerable loss of blood, passed a tolerably quiet night, and is as much composed this morning as under the very sad Circumstances of so heavy a Calamity, He could be expected: His Royal Highness commands Sir Benjamin Bloomfield to offer His thanks for Your Royal Highness's Letter

Letter and Solitude upon His severe Affliction

Carlton House

November 7.th 1817.
