Many thanks, dear Lady Berkeley for your kind note; I am very sorry not to have seen Mr. Foster this morning but I shall be equally happy to see him tomorrow morning as early as he pleases to call, after which I will do myself the pleasure of calling upon you. You must be too much fatigued with all you have had to undergo during your late most arduous, exemplary, & severe Trial ~~of~~ & especially after your journey to Cranford & back again this morning for me to presume, or to think of intruding upon you again this evening, as to prevent you from retiring at an early hour to your Bed to enjoy that tranquil repose & rest which I most sincerely pray that you may meet & which your health now stands so much in need of, for remember my Dear Madam, how invaluable that is & how precious it must be to the numerous & rising generation of little ones that have to look to you for care education & protection, in short for every thing Adieu dear Lady Berkeley & I do entreat you to believe that neither the now Lord Berkeley nor yourself, have on this earth a truer a firmer or a stauncher Friend equal & ready to support you to his utmost, through all & any difficulties or Trials; than Him, who has the honor to subscribe himself, my dear Madam

Your very sincere Friend & humble Servant
