Duchess of Württemberg

51485-6

Sir

Knowing your Majesty's goodness to me I think that it will give you pleasure to hear that I am already much better for the Air of Louisbourg and though I cannot yet walk much I am in the little Garden most part of the day and drive out in an open Carriage of an Evening

I have now seen the Duke's improvements which will add much to the beauty of this place, he is fortunate in the Ground which allows of variety, the Hills is planted and under it is a piece of Water and a Cascade which will have a good effect when completed and The water will separate the Menagerie from the Garden. There was a very high Wall which divided the pleasure Ground from the Woods this is thrown down, the old and new plantations united and a rank fence made to part the high road from the Grounds. - In front of the Castle there were planted great trees which quite blocked up the Windows they are all cut down and small Shrubs and Flowers are planted in their stead. beyond this is a large piece of Ground which of late Years has been let, this was in a dreadful state, now in the midst of it there is to be a piece of Water and the rest is to be sown with Turfgrass in it is what answers best here. The Orange Trees which are very fine and Duke Charles had removed to Hebenheim are brought back here.

The Woods had been much neglected and now to repair the mischief many Trees have been planted.

I hope that Your Majesty will not be displeas'd at not receiving a letter from the Duke to congratulate you on your Birth-day, he had intended writing this Morning, but knowing of old that those letters only torment Your Majesty I entreated him to let it alone, which I with some difficulty obtained: on condition that I would present his humble duty and take the blame of this apparent inattention on myself.

I must take the liberty to congratulate Your Majesty on dear little Charlottes recovery I trust that she will prove a great blessing.
