

Queen of Denmark

March 31. 1774

52346

Dear Brother,

Your mentioning my Sister in Your last letter, gives me an opportunity of doing the same, she says that the Prince humors her every day worse, and that since the beginning of his illness she finds a great alteration in him towards her, she does every thing in her power that it should not appear in publick, and has always so many attentions for him that it is impossible to remark that they are not well together, I think the Prince much sicker than formerly, he is almost always absent, and takes no share in any amusement. I fancy my Sister will writes to You on this subject, at least it was her intention here. she left me the 26th and intends coming very soon back again. believe me to be ever Dear Brother,

Your affectionate Sister

Caroline Mathilda.

Welle March 31st

1774.