Answer of the Prince of Wales to the Address of the City of London - 1707

I return You my Thanks and the Thanks of the Princes for this fresh Instance of your regard unto Us.

The City have shown so laudable an Example of Zeal & Duty to his Majesty, that his Family must always retain a gratofull Remembrance of it.

May the Reflection on the present
Troubles serve still to Unite You to animate Your Zeal and strengthen the Tie between the King & his People.

You may always depend on my hearty good Wishes for the Prosperity of your Trade and Welfare.
