Earl Spencer has the Honor to lay before your Majesty the three Commissions for (namely of Mariners for your Majesty's signing; as also a Scheme for a small augmentation in the Marine Corps which is become necessary from the present extended state of the Service, and the Numbers of supernumerary Recruits which have lately been obtained. The augmentation is calculated upon a Plan to make as small an increase of Expence as can well attend such a Measure and Earl Spencer hopes that it will meet with your Majesty's approbation.

The Duke of Portland begs leave with all humility to lay at your Majesty's feet two dispatches of the 23^d & 27th of last month from the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland which were received on the 2^d of yesterday & of this day - the first of them relates to a military transaction in which the conduct of the inferior officers appears to have been so highly reprehensible & subversive of discipline that it is suggested

The Duke of Portland (by the same high Authority by whom it was heretofore suggested to him to submit an opinion to Your Majesty respecting the sale of Capt: Longfield's Commission which received the sanction of Your Majesty's approbation) most humbly beseecheth to Your Majesty that ^{the judgment of} Lieutenant Wilson of the 15th Regiment of Foot calls for the nearest mark of Your Majesty's displeasure, & to submit with all deference to Your Majesty that Your Majesty's dismissal of him from the Service, should be publicly declared at the head of the 15th Regiment & also promulgated to the Army serving in Ireland — the other Letter from The Lord Lieutenant only contains the alteration which ^{in consequence of} Your Majesty's orders has been made in the latter to be approved by Lt Robert King, & the Lord permission to lay before you the petition of Francis Seymour, one of the peers of the East of Gloucestershire for the great favor Your Majesty has been pleased to confer on his Family by the grant of an Earldom to his Daughters in succession. The Duke of Portland also presumes to offer to Your Majesty two Reports of Mr. Graham the Magistrate whom Your Majesty was pleased to approve being sent into the midland & northern not be unsatisfactory to Your Majesty. ^{he} Thus ventured to add a Letter which was only put into his hands this afternoon from a Mr. Speley, a repres of your Majesty's Judge Advocate, containing, as the Duke of Portland is inclined to believe, some facts relative to James & the banned Provinces which ~~have~~ not been observed before, & which he has reason to believe that the authenticity may be fully relied upon Lord Grenville has the honour to transmit to Your Majesty a Paris Paper, containing the account that another Armistice has been signed in Germany, on such terms as must ensure the signature of a separate Peace, such as the Enemy may chuse to dictate.

Lord

Lord Grenville thinks it very doubtful whether, considering the last accounts received of the state of the Austrian Army, this event is on the whole unfavourable to the interests of Your Majesty's dominions.

In Obedience to Your Majesty's Commands, I wrote on Wednesday last to Col^l FitzRoy, to acquaint him with Your Gracious Intentions to appoint him one of Your Majesty's Equerries Extraordinary— I have the Honor to Cay before Your Majesty Coll. FitzRoy's answer to my Letter. I find that The Clerk Martial is sworn in before Your Majesty will receive in these boxes a letter from the Emperor of Germany transmitted by Lord Minto. As the returning an early answer may much add to the impression of those friendly sentiments which

Lord

Lord Grenville imagines Your Majesty would think it proper to express on this occasion, he has taken the liberty to submit to Your Majesty the draft of an answer, which, if Your Majesty should be graciously pleased to approve it, may be sent tomorrow night.

My Lord,

Tho' you must have learned that the Office of Register in Chancery has been granted to my Son; yet when I assure your Lordship, which I can with truth, that this arrangement has been the Voluntary Act of administration, and neither solicited nor foreseen by me; I hope you will permit me to express a wish; which is near my heart, which is, that it may not excite in your mind any jealousy of me, or cause any interruption of that intercourse, which has hitherto subsisted between us, and which, if not forbidden by Your Lordship, it shall be my ambition to cultivate: - If the Office had not been granted to one of my Family it would probably have fallen into the hands of some Person, who might not entertain for your Lordship the same respect and esteem with which I have the honor to be, My Lord.

Your Lordship's most obed. most humble Serv^t

Your Majesty's gracious Condescension in approving the Duke of Portland's having submitted to Your Majesty a summary of the contents of the Tailorages which accompanied a former dispatch of the Lord Lieutenant, savours the Duke of Portland on the present occasion most humbly to acquaint Your Majesty that it appears by the Reports of the General Officers commanding in the different districts that in the Provinces of the South & North general quiet prevails & that in the Counties of Tipperary, & Wicklow & generally throughout the Province of Ulster the People are as usual as they were ever known to be that the same spirit & temper prevail in general through the Province of Leinster, & that there is no appearance of the contrary in Connaught, but a sort of twilight that something is in agitation, & the Duke of Portland can not but feel that the late

In consequence of the information given me this Day by the Lord Chancellor, that it is supposed the Lord Primate of Ireland is to consent that Mr. Swigeman Member for the Borough of Romsey shall vacate his Seat in favour of Mr. Coory the Irish Chancellor of the Exchequer. I am certainly very willing to approve the Lord Primate of the will if it would produce should he assist any Person to a Seat in Parliament who is supposed to be favourable to the Roman Catholic question, and that at the expense of one supposed a strong friend to the present Church Establishment; but before I take any steps to that effect, I have put a few lines on paper for the Lord Chancellor's opinion as to the propriety of my writing on that subject, and whether I have said more than he thinks I ought on this occasion, when perused & drawn it may be returned..

Queen's House Jan^y 29th 1801.

The Speaker of the House of Commons, I trust is so sensible of the high regard I have for his upright private Character, as well as of his Ability and Temper in the full filling his Public Employment that he will not be surpris'd at my desire of communicating to him the very strong apprehensions I conceive that the most mischievous measure is in contemplation to be brought forward in this first Session of the Parliament of the United Kingdom, and this by one styling himself a friend to Administration, I mean Lord Castlereagh, this is no less than the placing the Roman Catholics of the Kingdom in an equal state of Rights to sit in both Houses of Parliament and hold Offices of Trust and Emolument with those of the Established Church; it is now suggest'd by those best inform'd that Mr Pitt favours this opinion, that Lord Grenville and Mr Dundas do I have the fullest proof as they have intimat'd as much to me, who have certainly not disguis'd ^{to them} my abhorrence of the very idea and my feeling it as a Duty should it ever come forward publicly to express my disapprobation of it, and that no consideration could ever make me give my consent to what I look upon as the destruction of the Established Church which by the wisdom of the Parliament of England I as well as several of My Predecessors have been obliged to swear the support of at our Coronations, besides its being contrary to the wisdom of every other European Government who have seen the necessity of having an Established Church and consequently admit no one into Civil Employments not members of it. I should be taking up the Speaker's time very uselessly if I agitated farther on this subject as I know not but the view is in a similar point of view. I wish he would open Mr Pitt's Eyes as to the danger arising from the mere agitation so improper a question, that whatever evils have been wrought by his manly reprobation of his former opinions for Parliamentary Purposes, his shewing any countenance to a measure striking

Abp. of Canterbury

Lambeth house
January 29. 1801

Sir,

Since I had the honor of mentioning to your Majesty yesterday the circumstance of the Primate of Ireland's Promise to favor the Election of Mr. Lerry, then Comptroller of the Exchequer, to represent a Borough in the present Parliament of the United Kingdom, I have been informed by Lord Hobart of his having spoken to the Primate upon that Subject, stating to him the Design of bringing in a Bill for the Emancipation of Irish Roman Catholics from the Test Oaths &c. &c. & Mr. Lerry's known determination to support that Bill.
His Grace called upon me this morning in order to express his concern at not having sooner been informed that such a Bill was in contemplation, nor that it would have Mr Lorrys Support. He added that, under such circumstances, he should not hesitate to inform Lord Castlereagh immediately of his determination to withdraw the support of his recommendation of Mr Lorry, feeling it to be his duty to oppose, to the utmost of his power, a Bill so hostile to the United Church of England & Ireland & to the Constitution in Church & State.

Under this state of the case, I presume your Majesty will not think it necessary to write to the Primate upon the Subject.

It will not be unacceptable to your Majesty to know, that I have

Abp. of Canterbury

9997 mentioned to my Friend L^d. Justice Eldon, the intended Bill before mentioned, which I found he had not before heard of. And I am happy to assure your Majesty, that my Sentiments upon it are such as I expected, & as your Majesty would wish them to be, firm & decisive against it. What I have further heard upon the Subject is favorable - so that I am willing to hope there is good foundation to believe that when Mr. Pitt sees what the general Sentiments of respectable Persons are upon the Subject, which he must soon see & be sensible of, He will cease to persevere in what he has too hastily taken up (if it be certain that he has taken it up) & determine no longer to give support to it.

I have presumed to trouble your

The King does not think he should act right towards the Lord Primate of Ireland if he did not acquaint him, that the Lord Chancellor informs him that it is supposed His Grace has engaged to give his interest in the Borough of Down in favour of Mr. Corry the Irish Chancellor of the Exchequer on Mr. Duigenan's resigning his seat in Parliament, but that the Lord Primate is probably not informed that Mr. Duigenan is a strong friend to the Established Church, and the other Gentlemen supposed engaged in favour of the highly dangerous proposition the total Emancipation of the Roman Catholics, and consequently the destruction of the National Church as ~~at~~ first necessary for settling in Parliaments or holding Public employments. In this view I should trust the Lord Primate must think his giving his support to any one who does not declare his adherence to the Established Church, and resolution to oppose any innovation in favour of Popery would be highly improper; I therefore give him this notice notie privately as I know. His warm attachment to Our Church Establishment, and that on this hint he will thoroughly consider the proper conduct he ought to follow.

Your Majesty has, upon all Occasions, Confidence, conveyed to Him on the highly interesting, and various Subjects to which Your Majesty's Note relates.

He has lost no Time in obeying Your Majesty's Commands, by endeavouring to ascertain whether He can be instrumental in preventing the Embarrassments, which would arise from any Discretion in your Majesty's Mind, in Consequence of the Line of Conduct, which your Majesty's Ministers may think of recommending, on a Subject of great public Importance. He has had an opportunity of communicating with Mr.

Pitt, of which He has availed Himself in the manner, that He thought best suited to the occasion: the Result of what passed, He is not without Hopes, it might be useful to submit to your Majesty's Consideration; but He feels that it would be hardly possible to do so, as fully, and particularly as your Majesty would naturally expect, under such circumstances, within the compass of a letter; and he therefore ventures to avail himself of your Majesty's Indulgence so far as to say, that he is not aware of any inconvenient Objections which would be objected, if your Majesty should think proper to lay your Commands upon him, to attend you at The Queen's House, either

The Language of Lord Eldon is just what from his Character and Talents ~~must~~ have been expected, and the inference drawn by the Lord Archbishop of the supposed effect on Mr. Pitt's mind of the General Sentiments of Wise and dispassionate Men, it is justly to be hop'd will prove justify'd.

 Saturday. Jan 31st 1801

Mr Pitt would have felt it at all Events his duty previous to the Meeting of Parliament to submit to your Majesty the Result of the best Consideration which your Confidential Servants could give to the important Questions respecting the Catholics and Dissenters which must naturally be agitated in consequence of the Union. - The Knowledge of your Majesty's general Disposition to any Change of the Laws on this Subject, would have made this a painful Task to Him and it is become much more so by learning from ^{some of} his Colleagues and from other Quarters within these few Days the Extent to which your Majesty entertains and has declared that Sentiment. He trusts your Majesty will believe that every Principle of Fidelity Gratitude and Attachment must make Him look to your Majesty's Ease and Satisfaction in preference to all Considerations but those arising from a Sense of what in his honest Opinion is due to the real Interest of your Majesty

Wm. Pitt

and your Dominions. Under the Impression of that Opinion He has concurred in what appeared to be the prevailing Sentiment of the Majority of the Cabinet, that the Admission of the Catholics and Dissenters to Offices, and of the Catholics to Parliament (from which latter the Dissenters are not now excluded) would under certain Conditions to be specified, be highly advantageous with a View to the Tranquillity and Improvement of Ireland and to the general Interest of the United Kingdom. For Himself, He is on full Consideration convinced that the Measure would be attended with no danger to the Established Church or to the Protestant Interest in Great Britain or Ireland. That now the union has taken place and with the new Provisions which would make part of the Plan, It could never give any such Weight in Office or in Parliament either to Catholics or Dissenters as could give them any new Means (if they were so disposed) of attacking the Establishment. - That the grounds on which the ~~remaining~~ Laws of Exclusion ^{now remaining} were founded, have long been narrowed and are since the union removed.

That those Principles formerly held by the Catholics which justly made them consider as politically dangerous, have been for a course of Time gradually declining, and among the higher Orders particularly, have ceased to prevail. . . That the Obnoxious Tenets are disclaimed in the most positive Manner by the Oaths which have been required in Great Britain, and still more by one of those required in Ireland, as the Condition of the Indulgences already granted, and which might equally be made the Condition of any new ones. . .

10008-9

That if such an Oath (containing among other Provisions) a Denial of the Power of Absolution from its Obligations, is not a Security from Catholics, The Sacramental Test is not more so. - That the Political Circumstances under which the Exclusive Laws originated, arising either from the conflicting Power of Hostile and nearly balanced Sects, from the Apprehension of a Popish Queen or Successor, a disputed Succession and a foreign Pretender, and a Division in Europe between Catholic and Protestant Powers are no longer applicable to the present State of Things. That with respect to those of the Dissenters who it is feared entertain Principles dangerous to the Constitution, A distinct Political Text pointed against the Doctrines of modern Jacobinism, would be a much more just and more effectual Security than that which now exists, which may operate to the Exclusion of conscientious Persons well affected to the State and is no guard against those of an opposite Description. — That with respect to the Catholics of Ireland, another most important additional Security, and one of which the effect would continually encrease, might be provided, by gradually attaching the Popish Clergy to the Government, and for this Purpose making them dependent for a Part of their Provision (under proper Regulations) on the State, and by also subjecting them to Superintendance and Controul... That besides these Provisions the general Interests of the Established Church and the Security of the Constitution and Government might be effectually strengthened by requiring the Political Test before referred to, from the Preachers of all Catholic or dissenting Congregations, and from the Teachers of Schools of every Denomination. - It is on these Principles Mr Pitt humbly conceives a new Security might be obtained for the Civil and
