My dear Brother

Nothing pleased to be shared this evening and must through the operation perfectly well through much survived before the hour began to show time, but expressed much delight after it was done & called for his foot ring which he had not done for the last 8 months & I understood looks in perfect health - He has talked some to day & is under some excitement - Truly is easier to say than yesterday

My dear Brother

The King has passed a very quiet composed day - Poor Polly has been nearly distracted all night & most part of this day with a violent tooth-ache which added to all her other complaints has made her very low and longed to sleep -

My dear Mother

Herby is perfectly quiet & composed - I hope I think hope I may say is not quite so all these last two or three days as she has begun to amuse herself with working again which I trust is a proof she is a little stronger -

My dear Brother

I am happy to say the Queen is very comfortable we did not get to Windsor until after 9 o'clock and she was so unwell with her old complaint we have been that we stopped at here for some time but I think she is all better for it & I have not good friends but a wife in the Palace she is very grateful to you for all your kindness & advice about to your sending me any account you

receive as it will be
be a relief to know
uncertainty is ~~great~~ also to ~~know~~ - I am it strikes me that the letter
you had received makes it as clear as possible that the Duke is dead
but as she had received a letter from

The Princess of Orange dated the 13 of May which says nothing of it she is inclined to have some little paper - as this letter was sent to wish the Queen ^{joy} of her birthday it contains but a word upon any other subject
I own I don't see why the Queen is to doubt that Bute's letter does not at all touch - for the P^r of Orange never could have enrolled upon the Duke of such language & letters in the same letter. She writes of congruous letters in the Queen's letters - therefore as she is all doubts & full of respect from I think a kind of times being decided after and one way in the other - I find to play more treated to English the King's hand -

My dear Bertie
The King is perfectly great & composed - Dr Bullie expresses me this attack is going off as kindly as it can but she can hardly come on there in her bed and Bullie told me though she was her command stronger it was impossible her strength would stand there ever that above
look back longer -
How is much better
very true
