

MSO/17/6/161

My dear Brother I am desired by the Queen to return you many thanks for having sent the speech to Clement yourself — She begs me to add that she only wrote last night to Mr Debono & had she had any idea you would have taken the trouble of writing Mr de Clement & making the arrangements for Montserrat, she certainly should not have wrote to Mr Debono at all on the subject.

for with all the success in your business she could hardly suppose it possible you could find a moment to me Mr de Clarendon generally I am sure Mr de Clarendon ~~will~~ feel deeply your kindness & the help you to my very thanking and respectful - Mr Henry appeared to me this morning to be very pleasant, very kind, and full of pleasure but calm & good humoured - He certainly has more power on

Mr
de Clarendon

himself, but the balance are very close as far as I am a judge

Yours truly
G. W. Peck

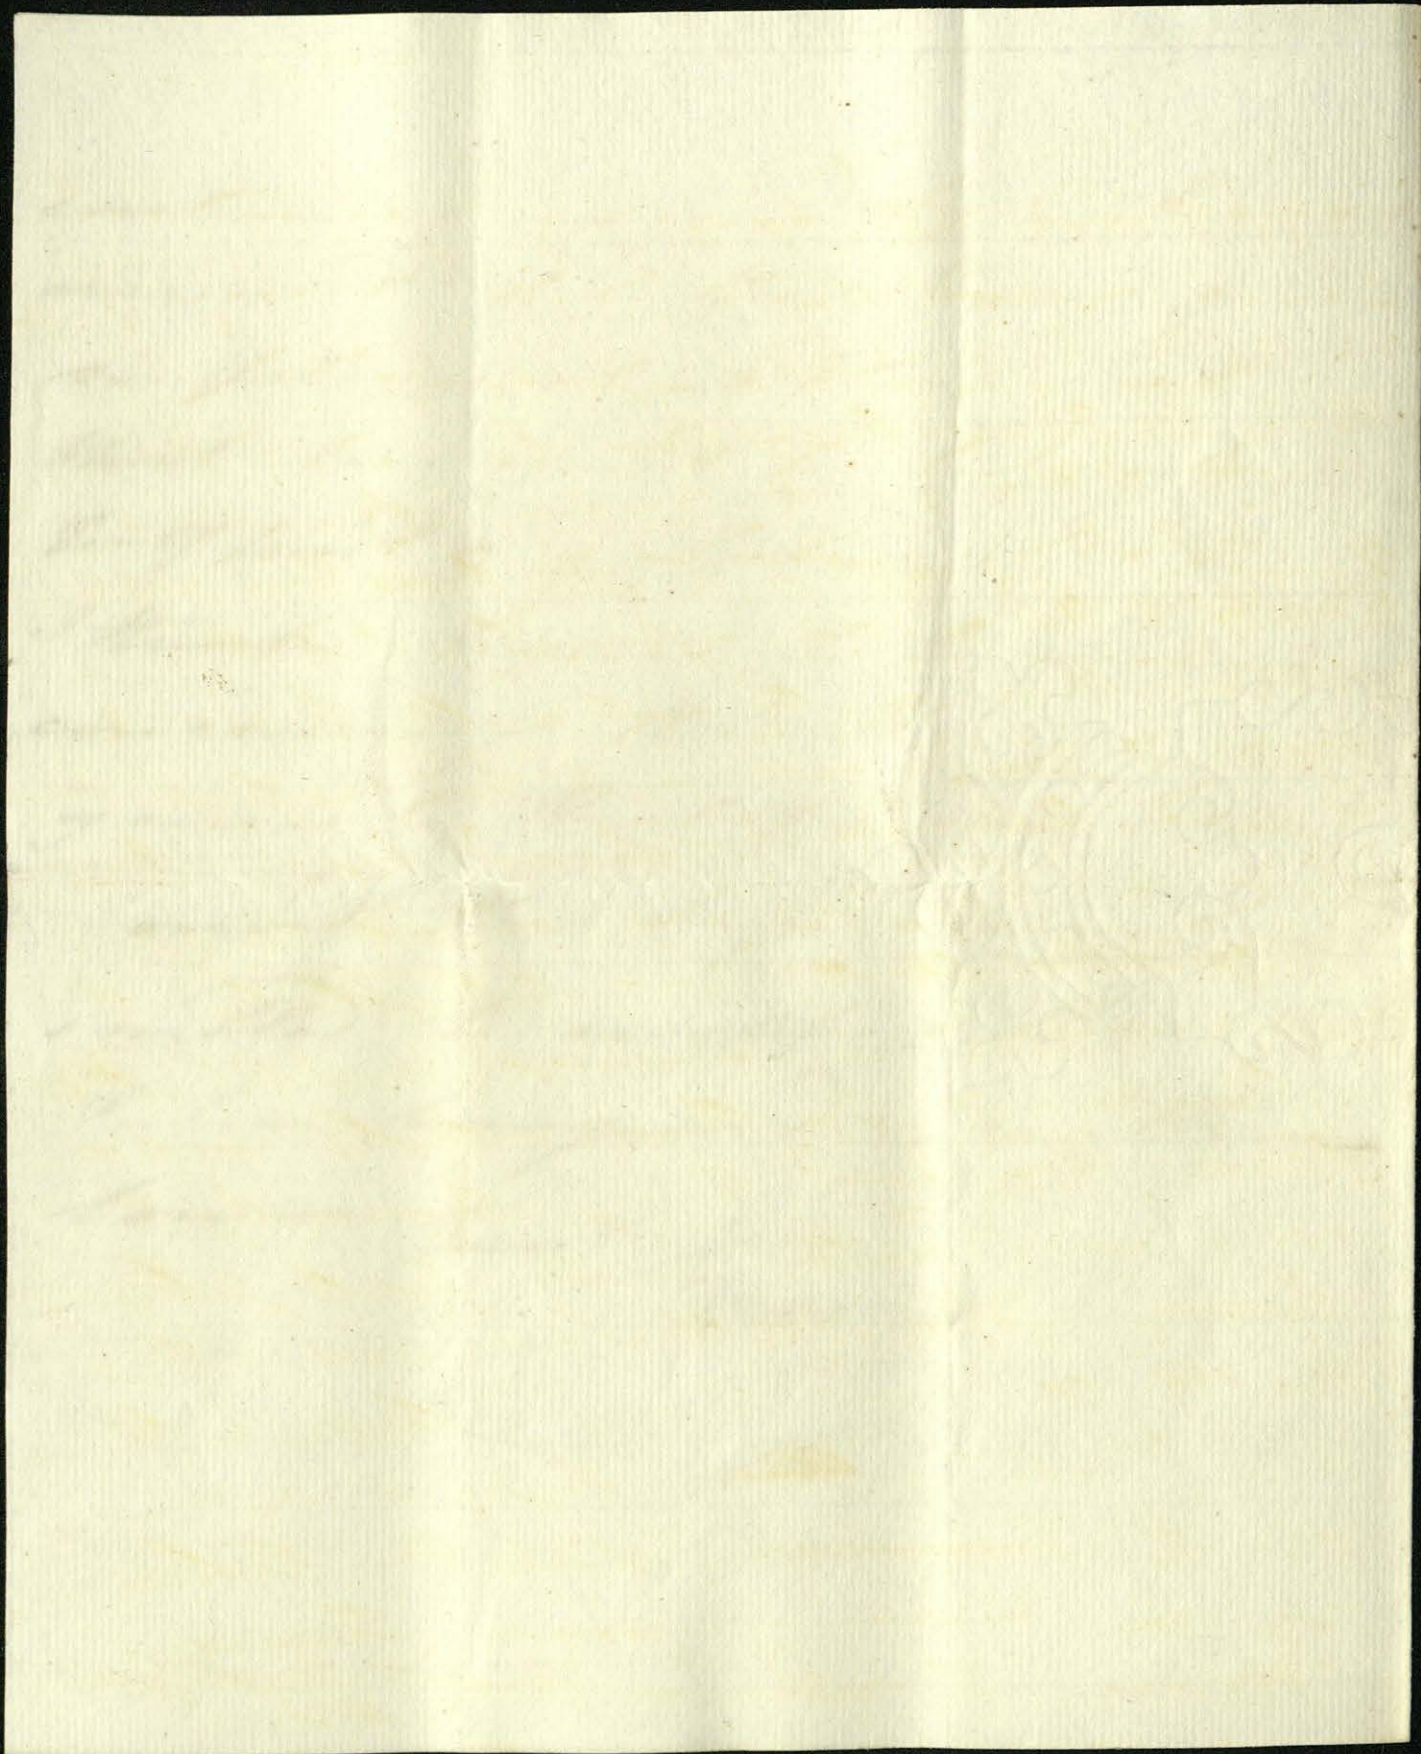

MS. A. 1. 1. 62

My dear Brother

Not with the standing that my Brother described the walk or independent the 2 Bishops and went off well & he is satisfied the King would never have like himself than he has yet seen the clergy the King was very employed to walk during the hour we passed on the river hardly any place my grandfather we all he said about Gene and certainly concerning myself on the subject of the Chancellor The rest of the evening

continued as good by Sir Henry's account but the King was so fatigued & sleepy ~~and~~ that he went to bed at half past 9 o'clock - For King I think requires to be examined concerning the King's general Health as he found the Leg much swollen to night & the Pulse languid & rather low -
I am
Yours
Mary

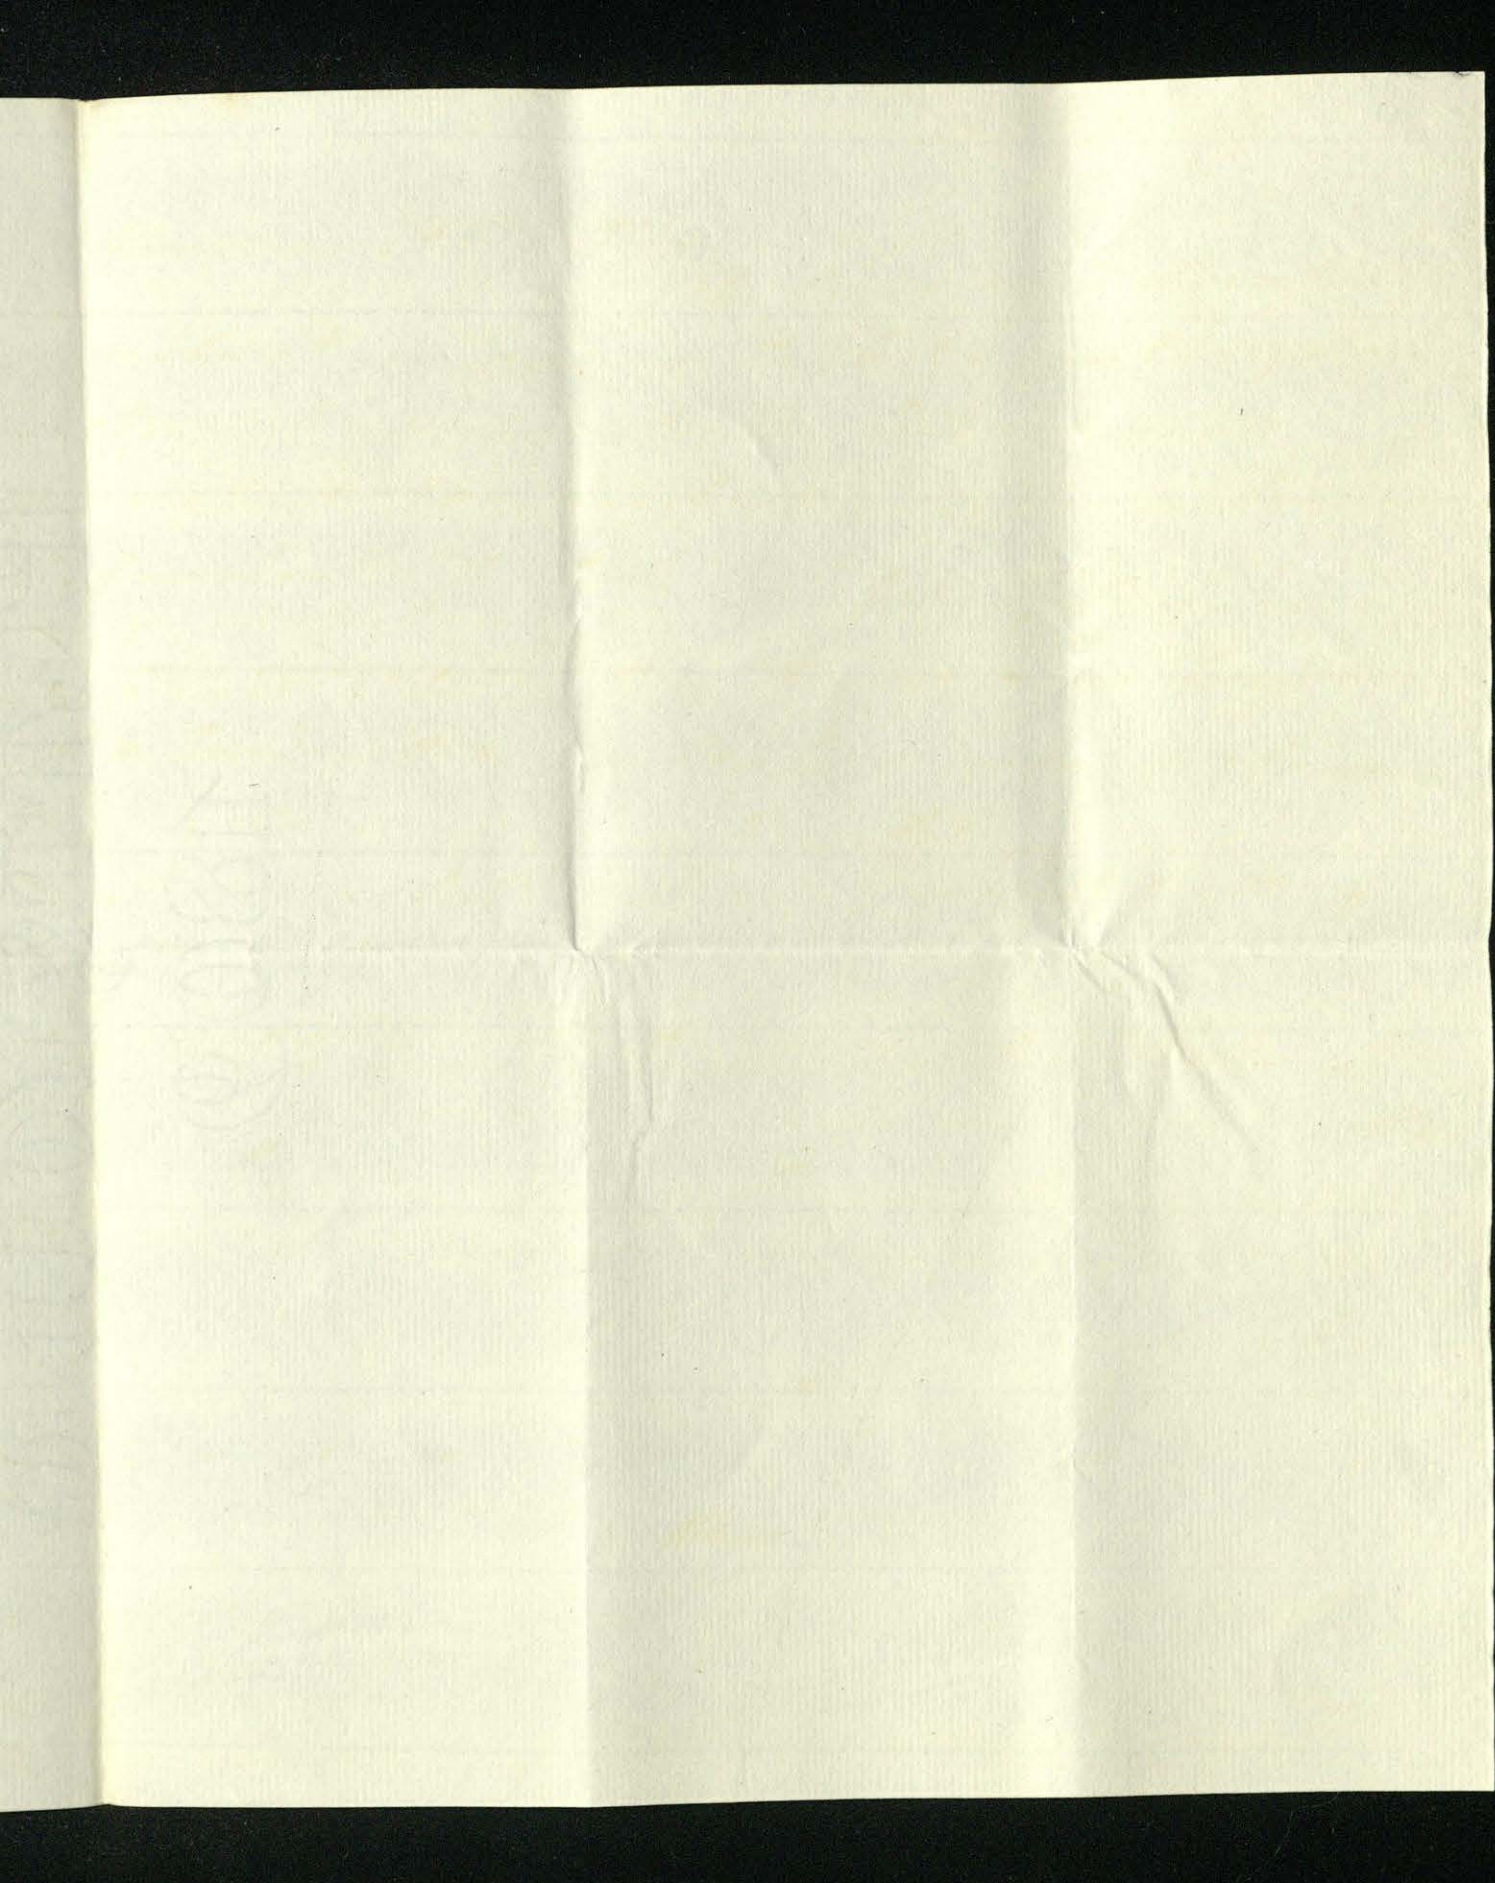

[Faint, illegible handwriting in cursive script, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page. The text is mostly obscured by a large, faint watermark or embossed design in the center-left area.] meo 117/6/163

Sep. "The 28

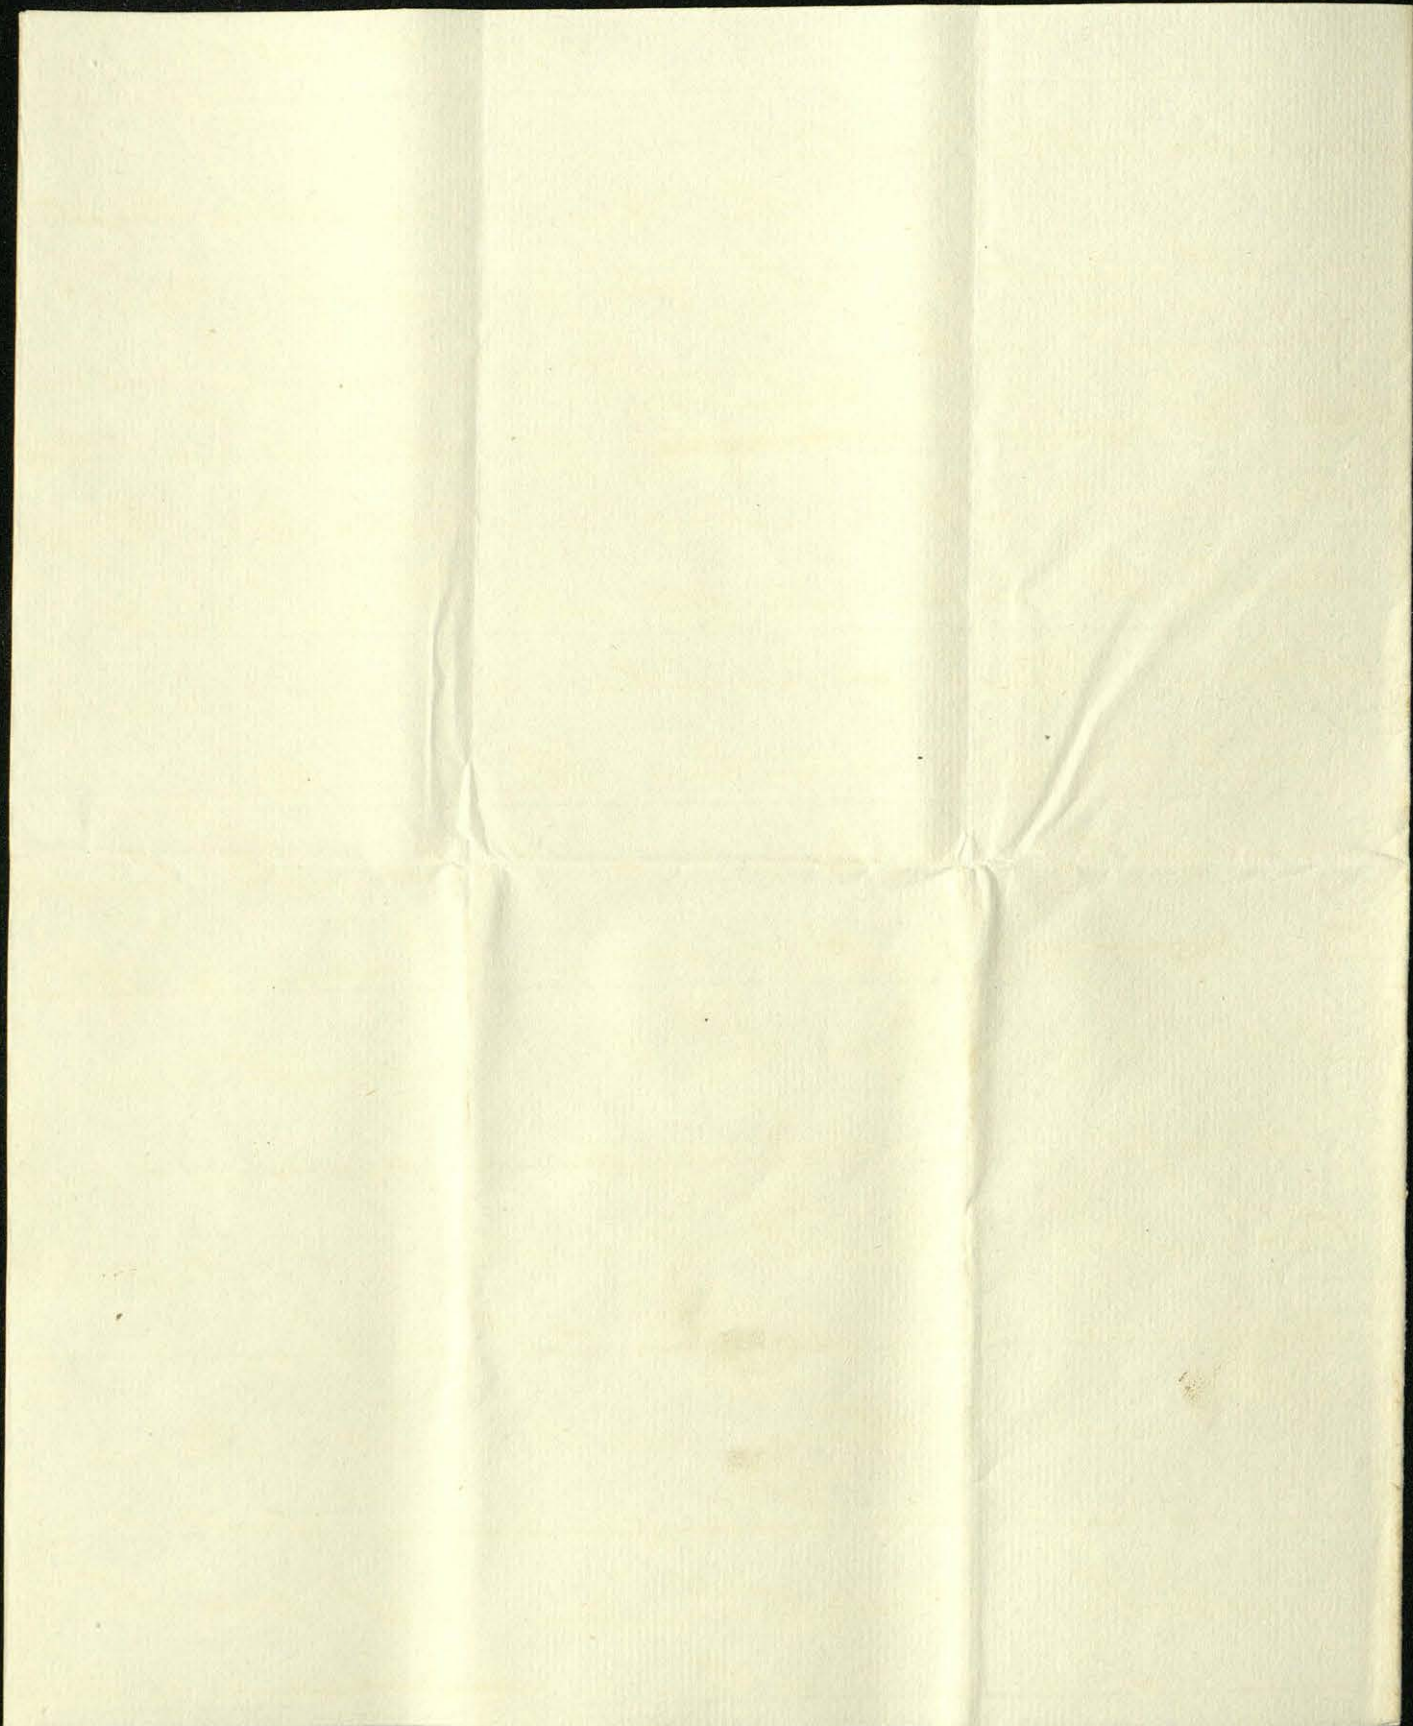

My dear Mr. Brothers as you did not come last Sunday till two o'clock I think you may like to receive my usual account by the early post, so I take up my pen to say that the character of this day has been quiet, but a great deal of talking & a great deal of singing - for bursts of song & much to be very improvidly but the conversation could not well be worse The King as he got into bed expressed to some body he supposed never knew that he had passed a most happy comfortable day, was delighted to have seen so many people, the only thing he lamented was that he had been obliged to sing so much as it had fatigued him - When Willie's came up The King had been a sleep half an hour - ~~As~~ I hope to see you to morrow I shall take up the name of your name to inform you of my affairs Wm

[Faint, illegible handwriting on aged, yellowed paper, possibly bleed-through from the reverse side.]

Med 17/6/165

Sep^r the 30

My dear Mr Brother

The King passed a trying quiet day until five o'clock this evening when great violence came on & upon ~~striking~~^{throwing} off all his clothes he was put under restraint, they tried to take it off about 8 o'clock when they found him in an intractable state that they carried him to bed - He laughed & ~~scarcely~~ for some time & then fell asleep - As to conversation nothing can have been worse, and the ideas wild to a degree & quite beyond in a word of his own He has talked without the smallest interruption (but until the storm at 5 o'clock) in a very calm ~~man~~ & voice

God bless you & yours
Mary

For Henry & Arthur say they were near the Kings burial some but we have conferred thence to day —

ind 2

[Faint, illegible handwriting in cursive script, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.]

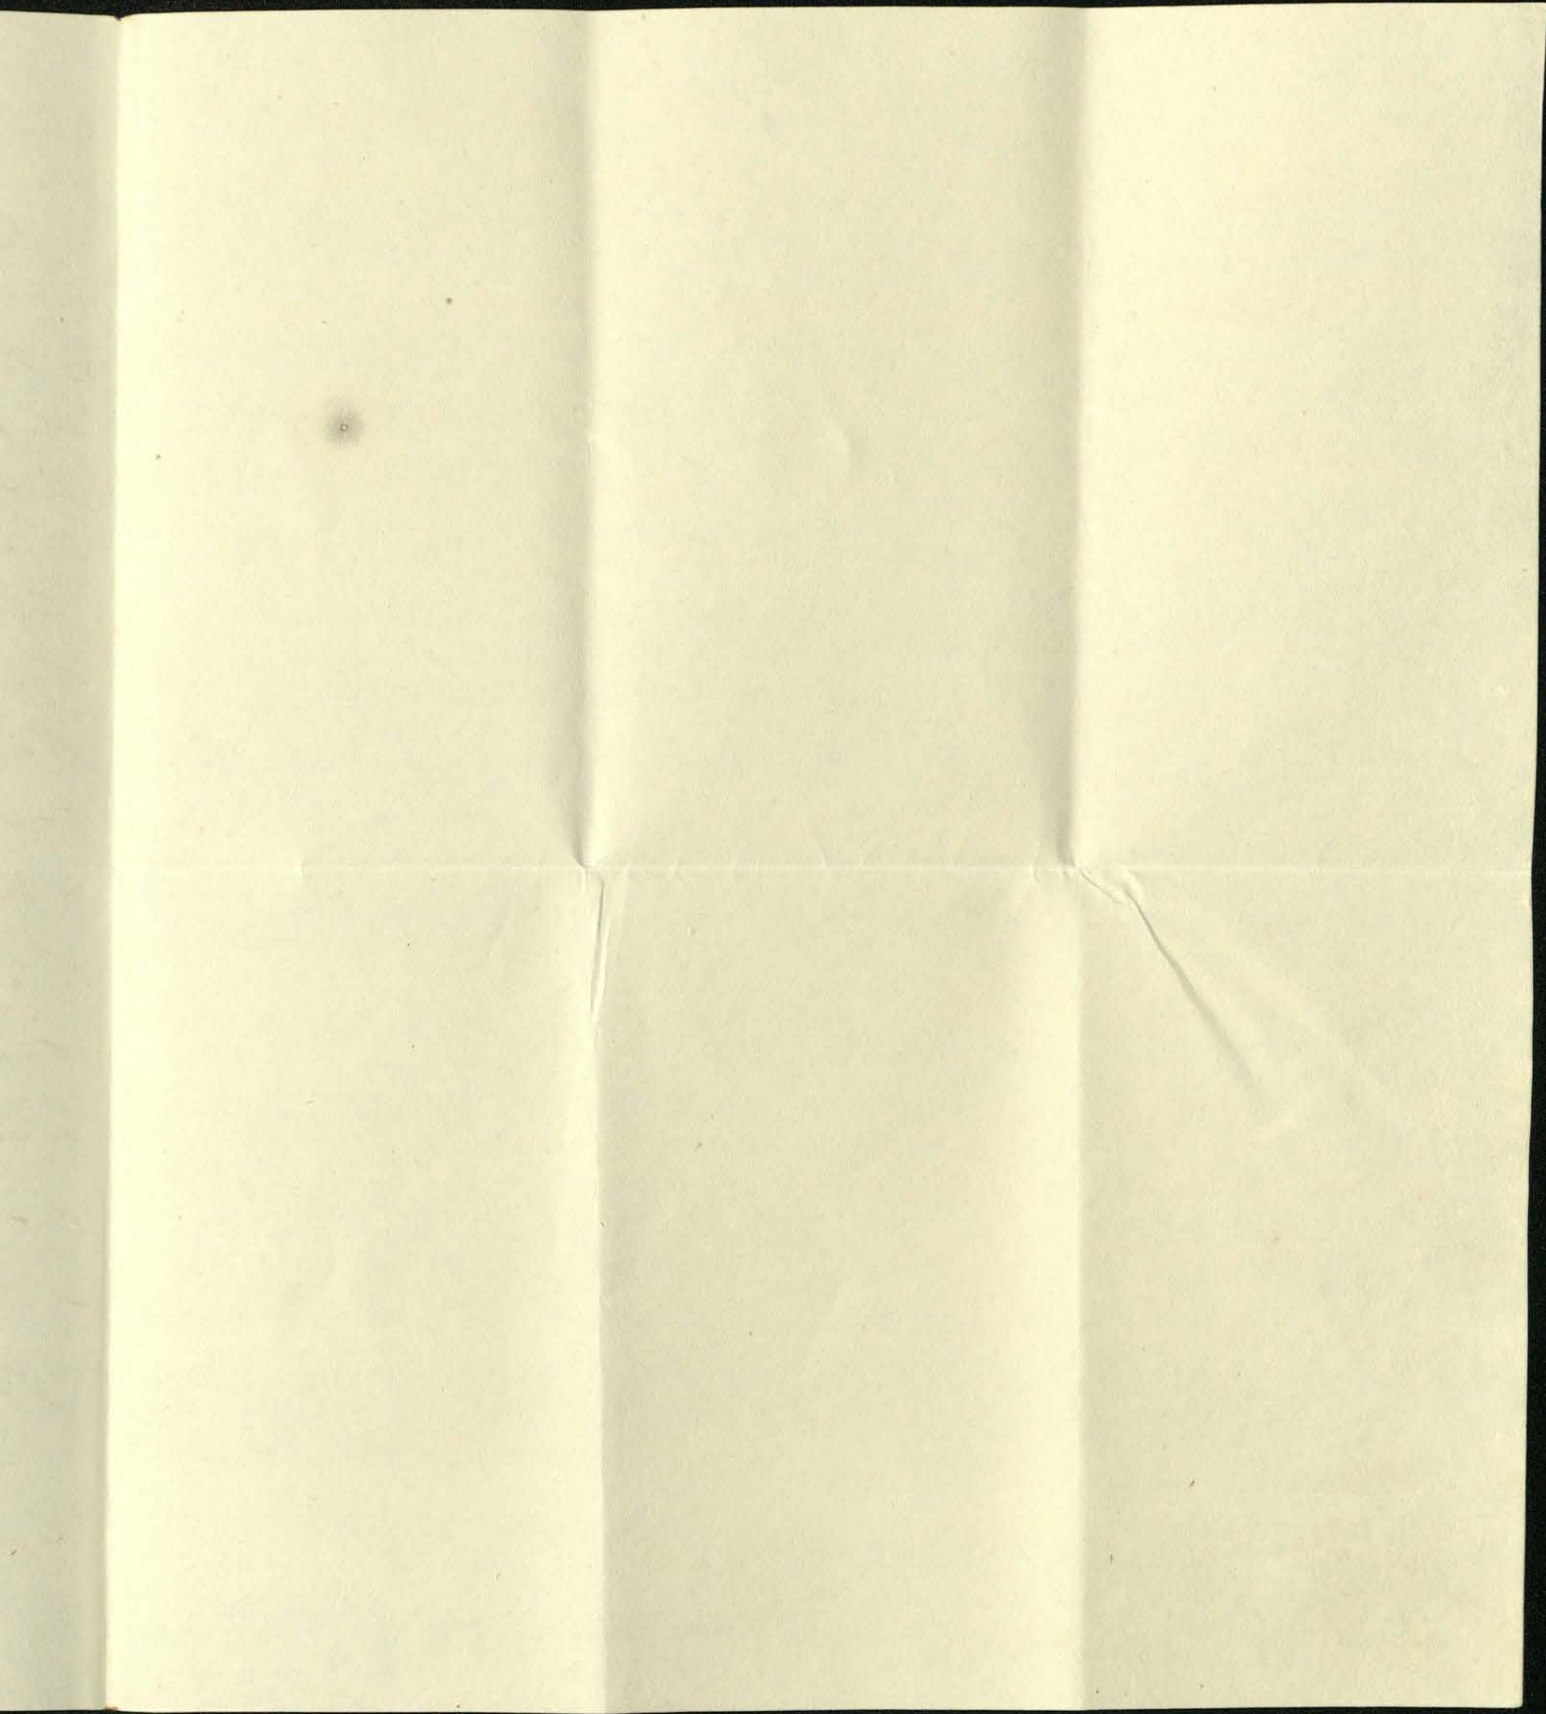

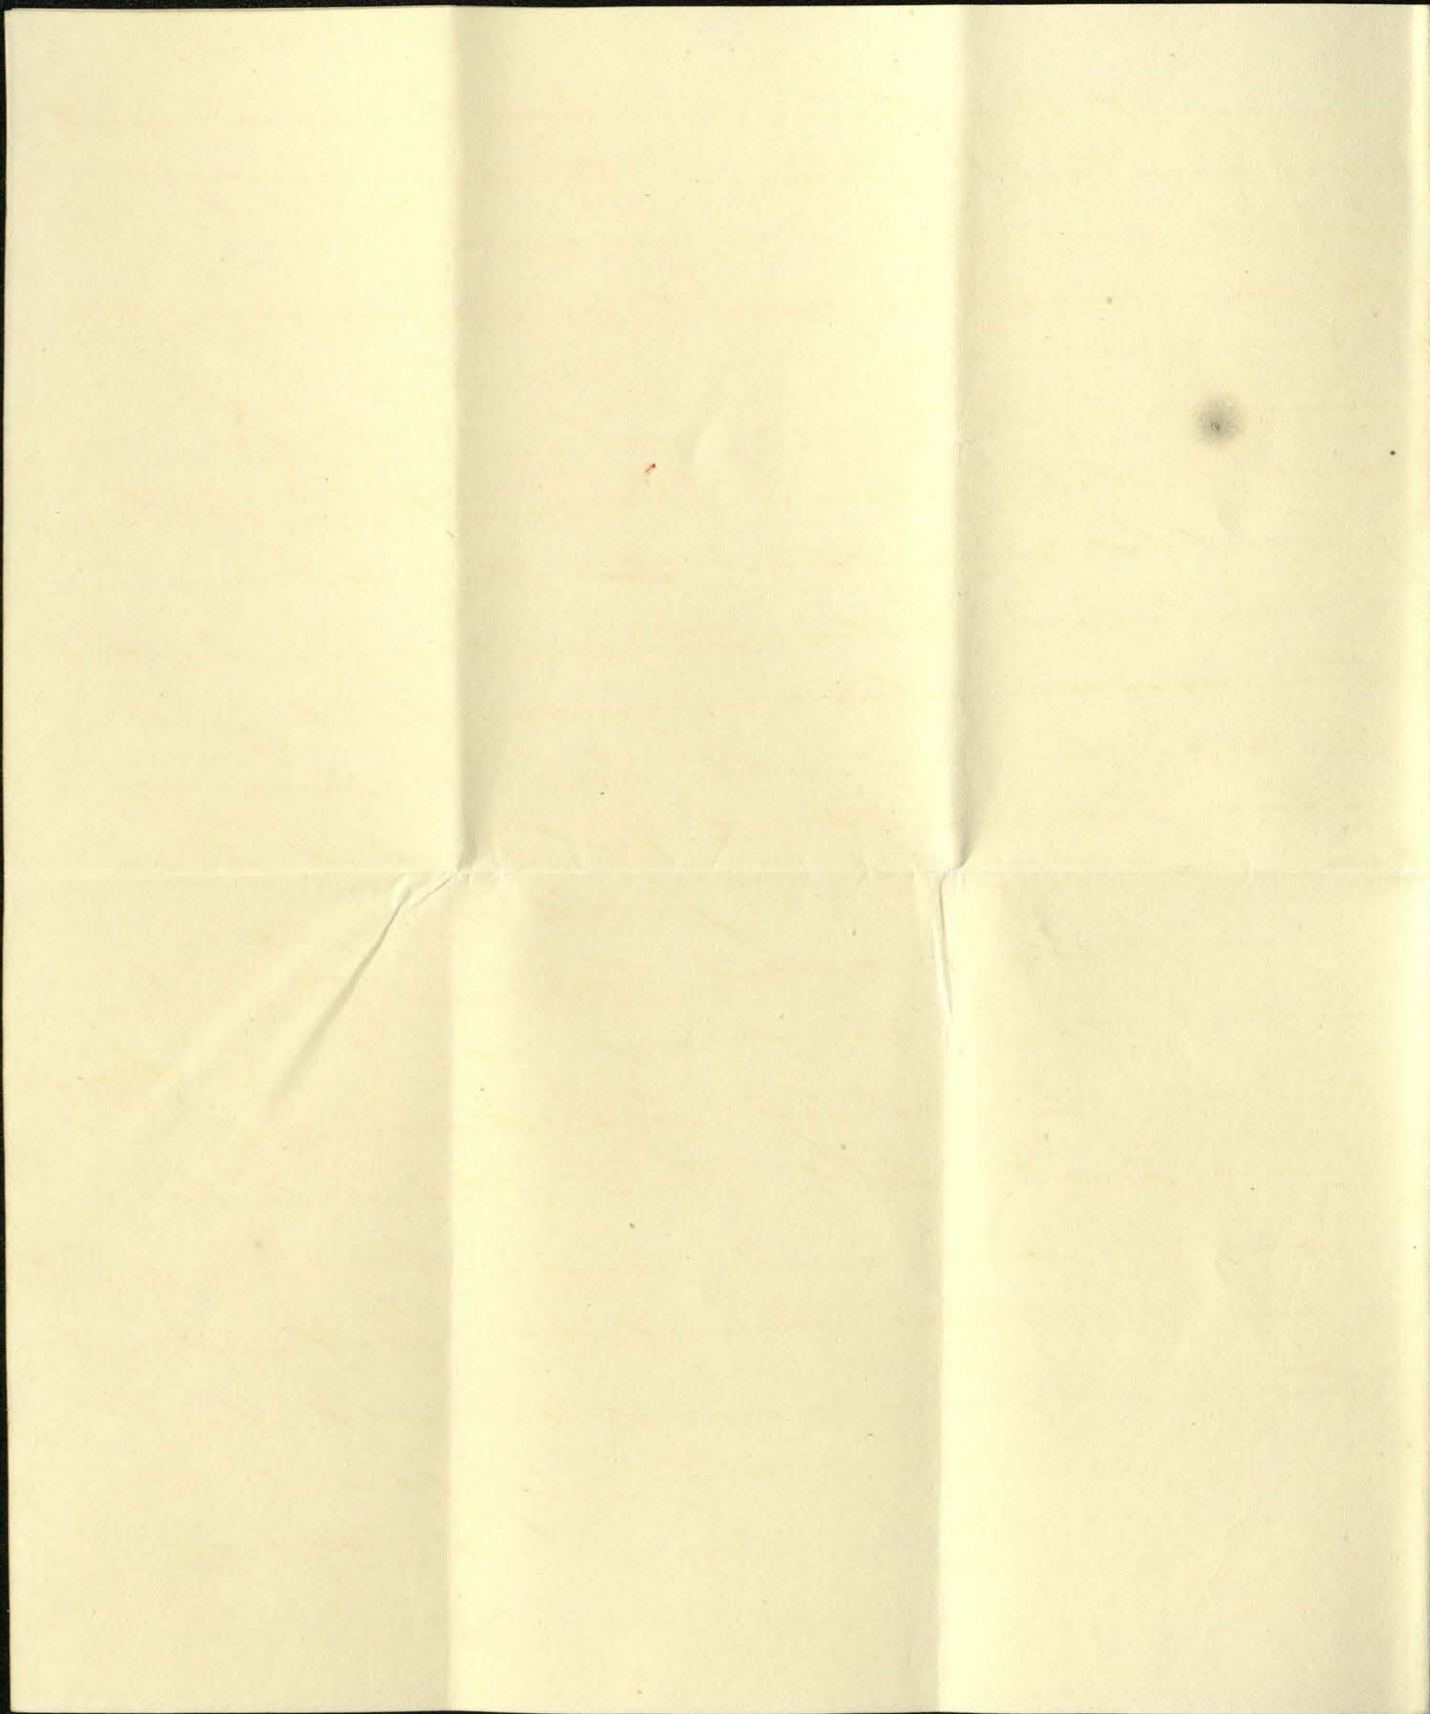

Ms. A. 1. 7. 16. 166

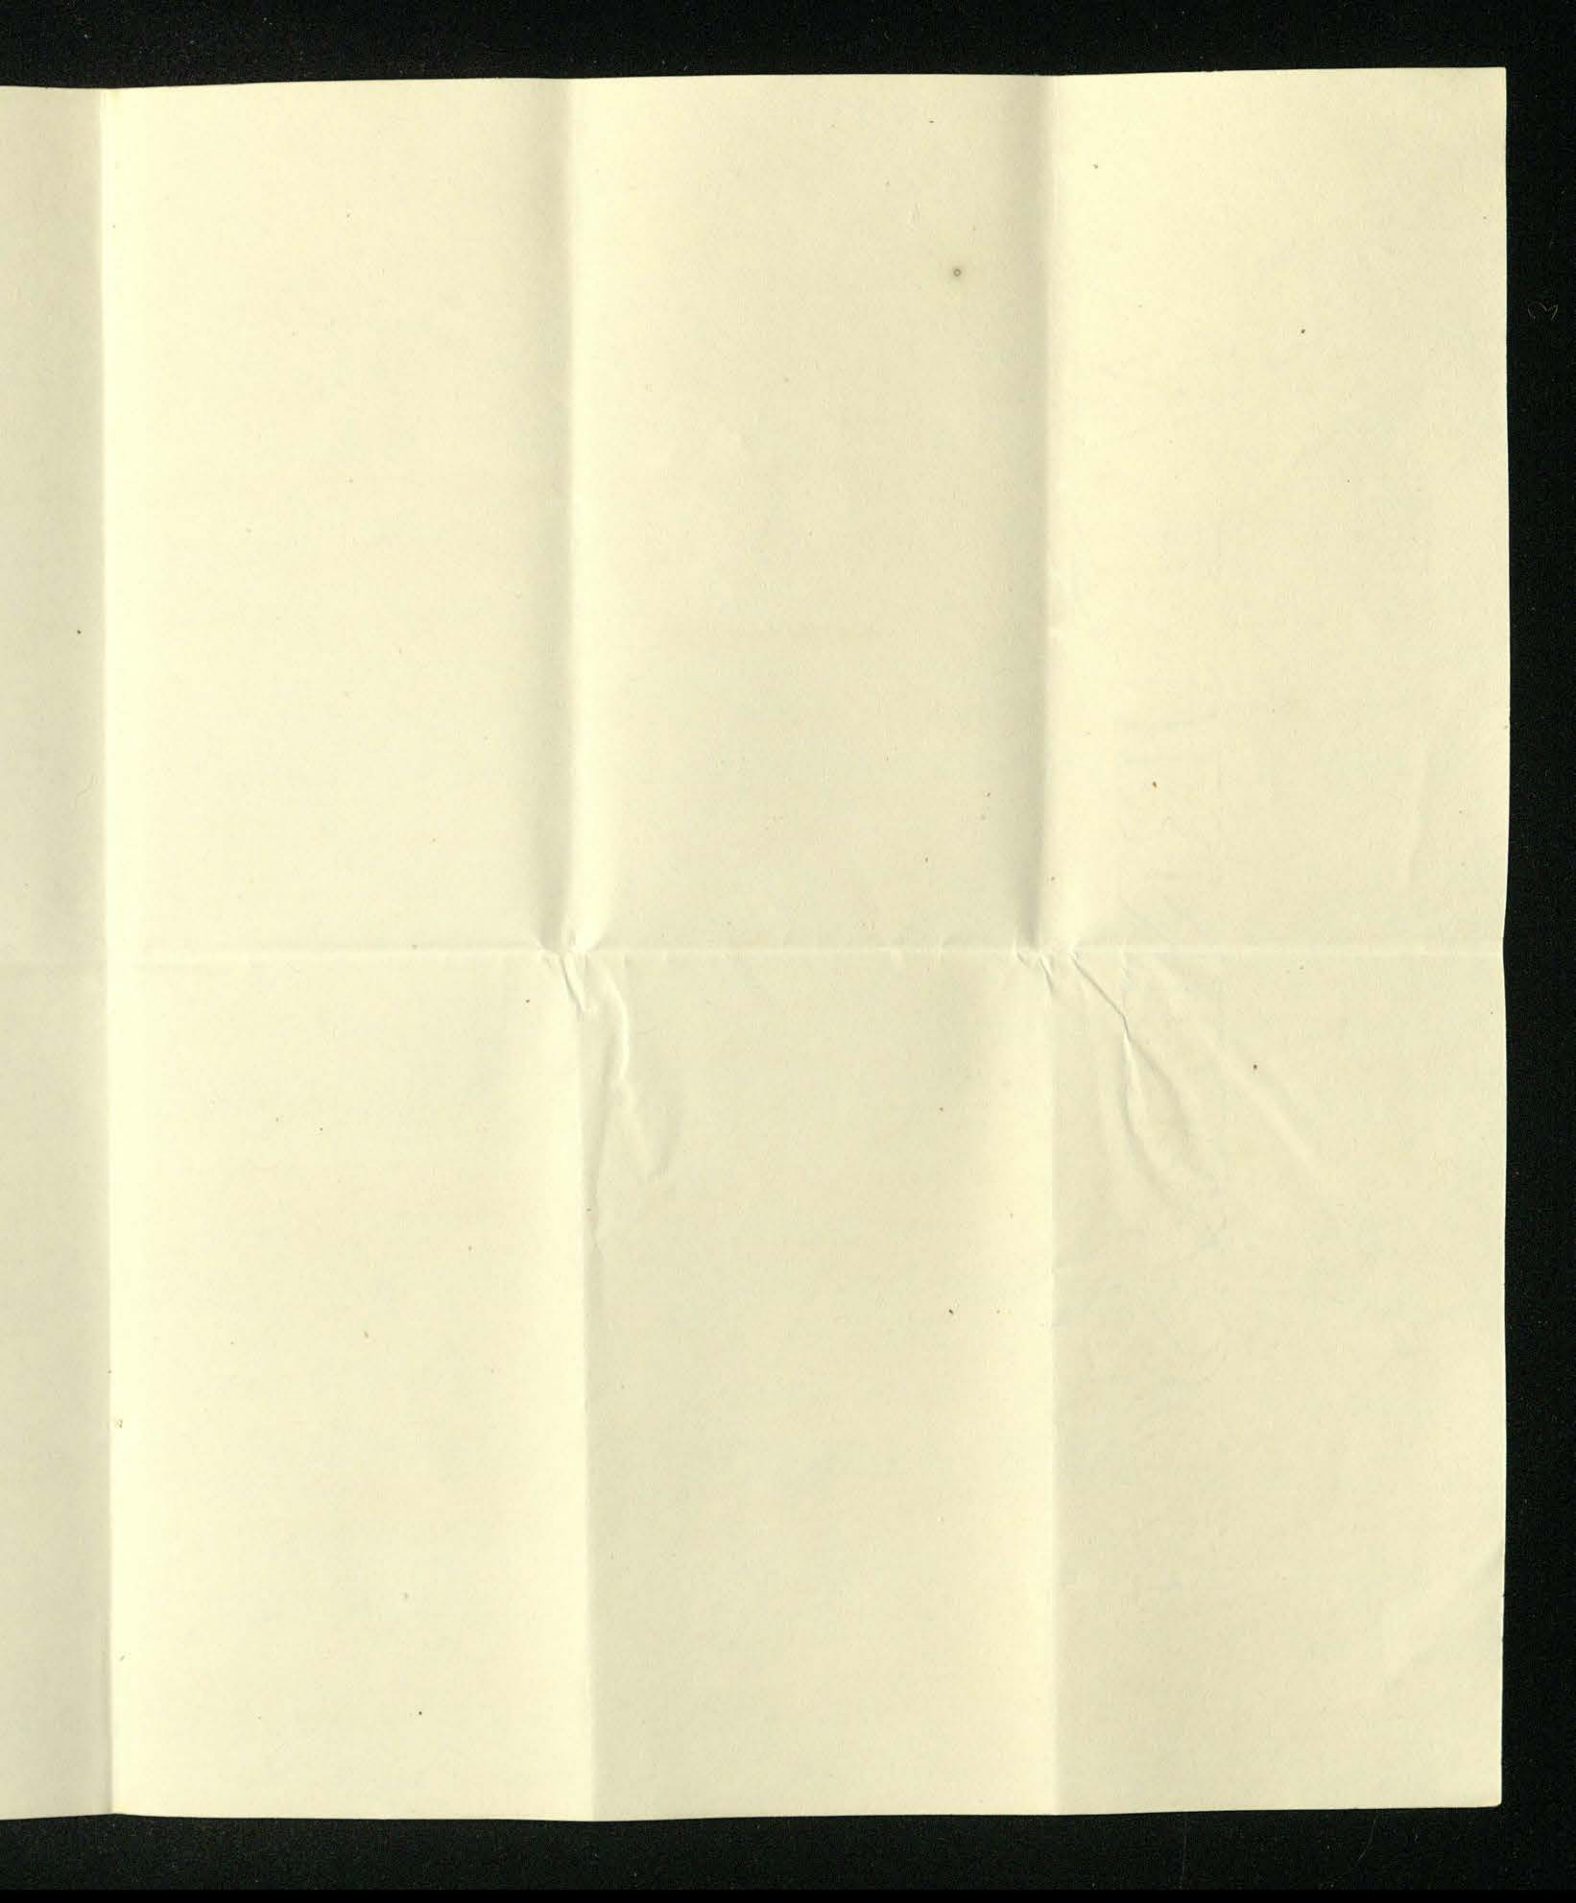

Oct 1st 1866

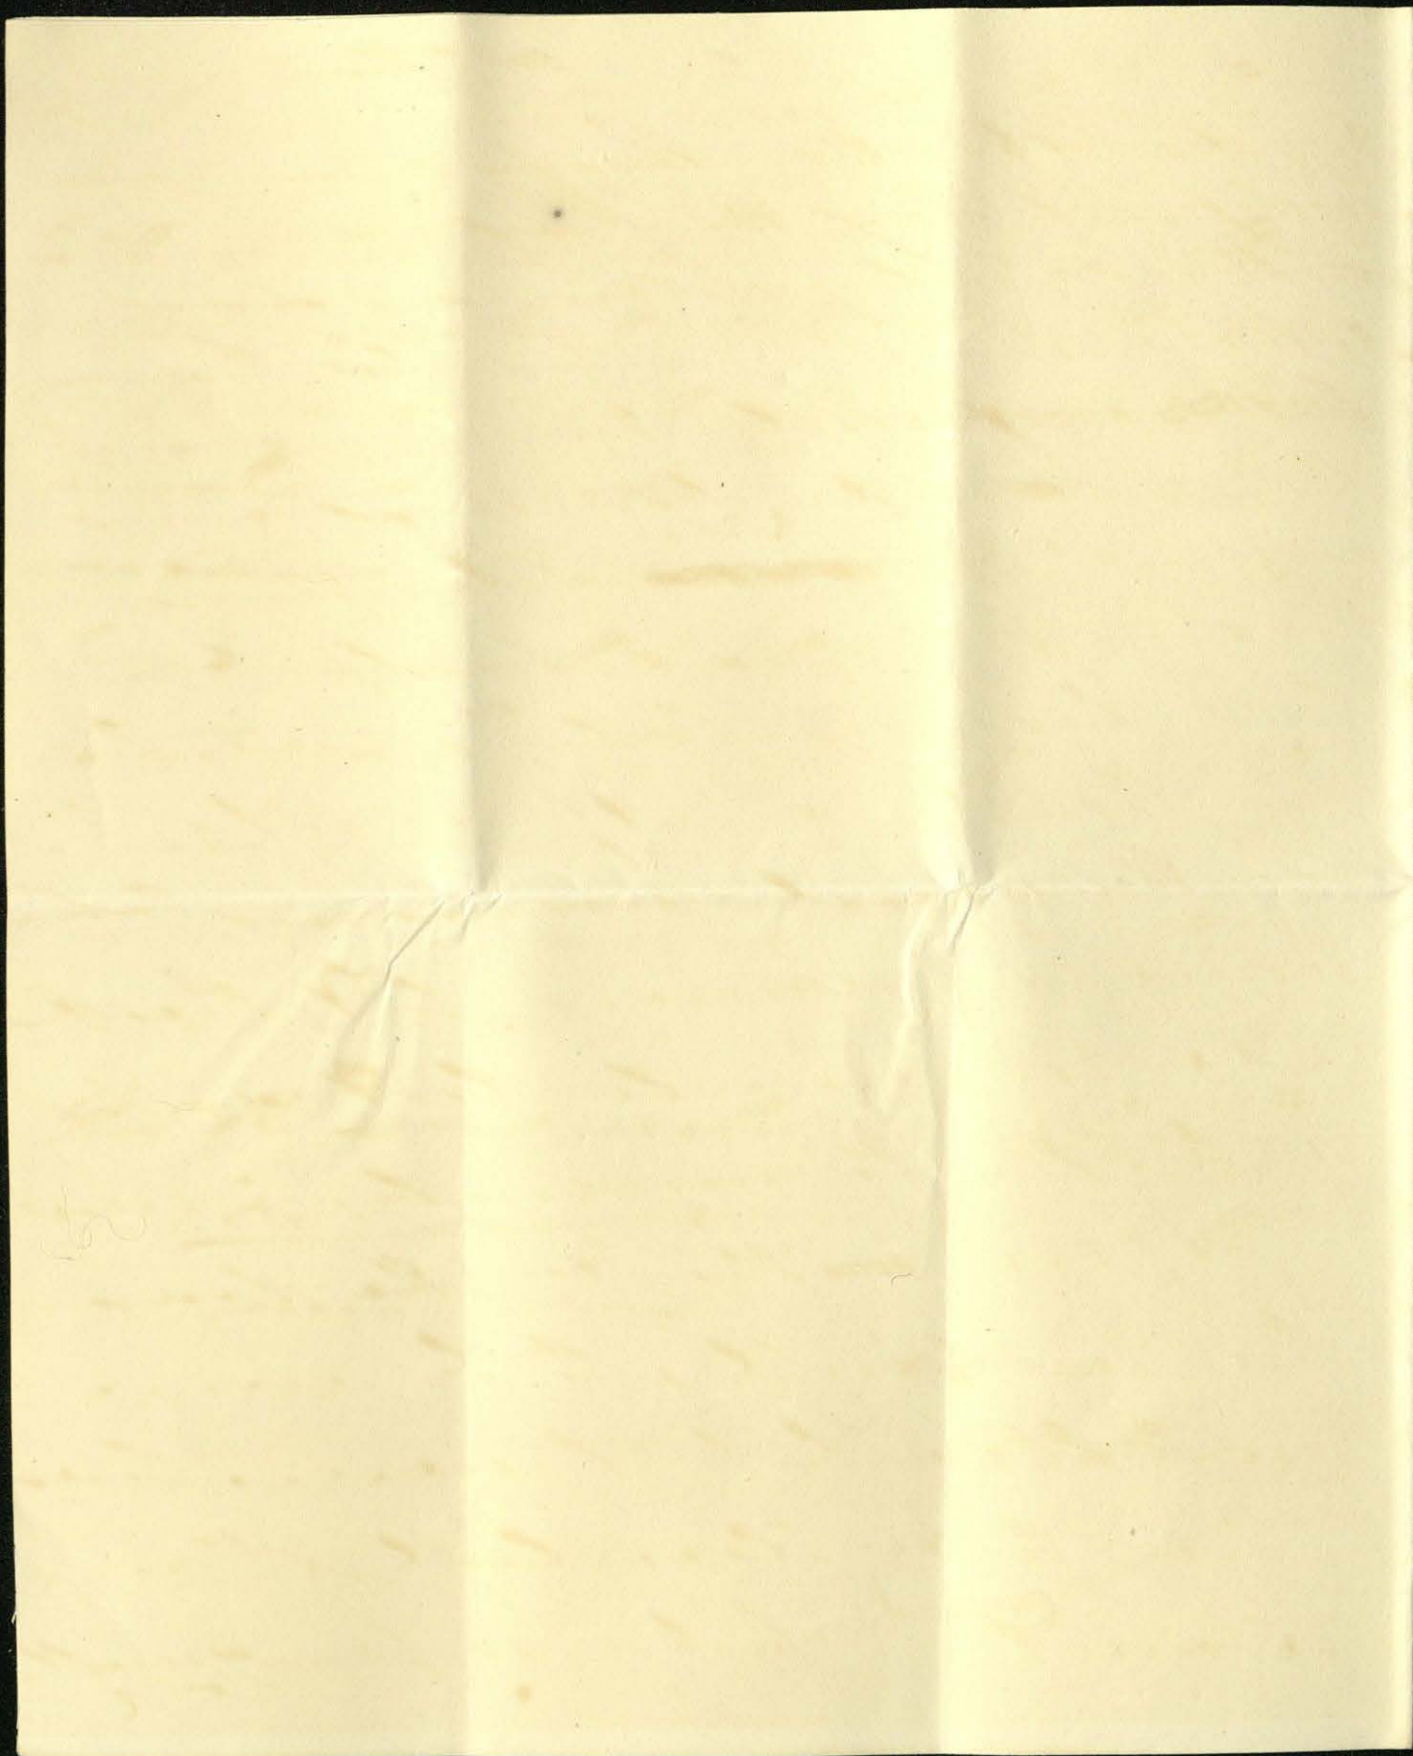

My dear Brother this day has been a very quiet one but as ~~wrong~~ as possible upon all subjects - The Ladies are apparent in his thoughts to day to the great amusement and defendant arrangements for their two suspenses - He has had some times sleep this evening went to bed without any storm but the sumner of wind rising very hot He was out a sleep when Gillies came up - Both Sir Henry Hallford & Gillies appear are the cunning play and have seen quite enough to day to cater for the friends of any honest man as to the poor Kings real state - for nothing we came up to the Innocence that has been heard to sleep good part of it in peapod of the Gillies Hall

MSO 17/6/168

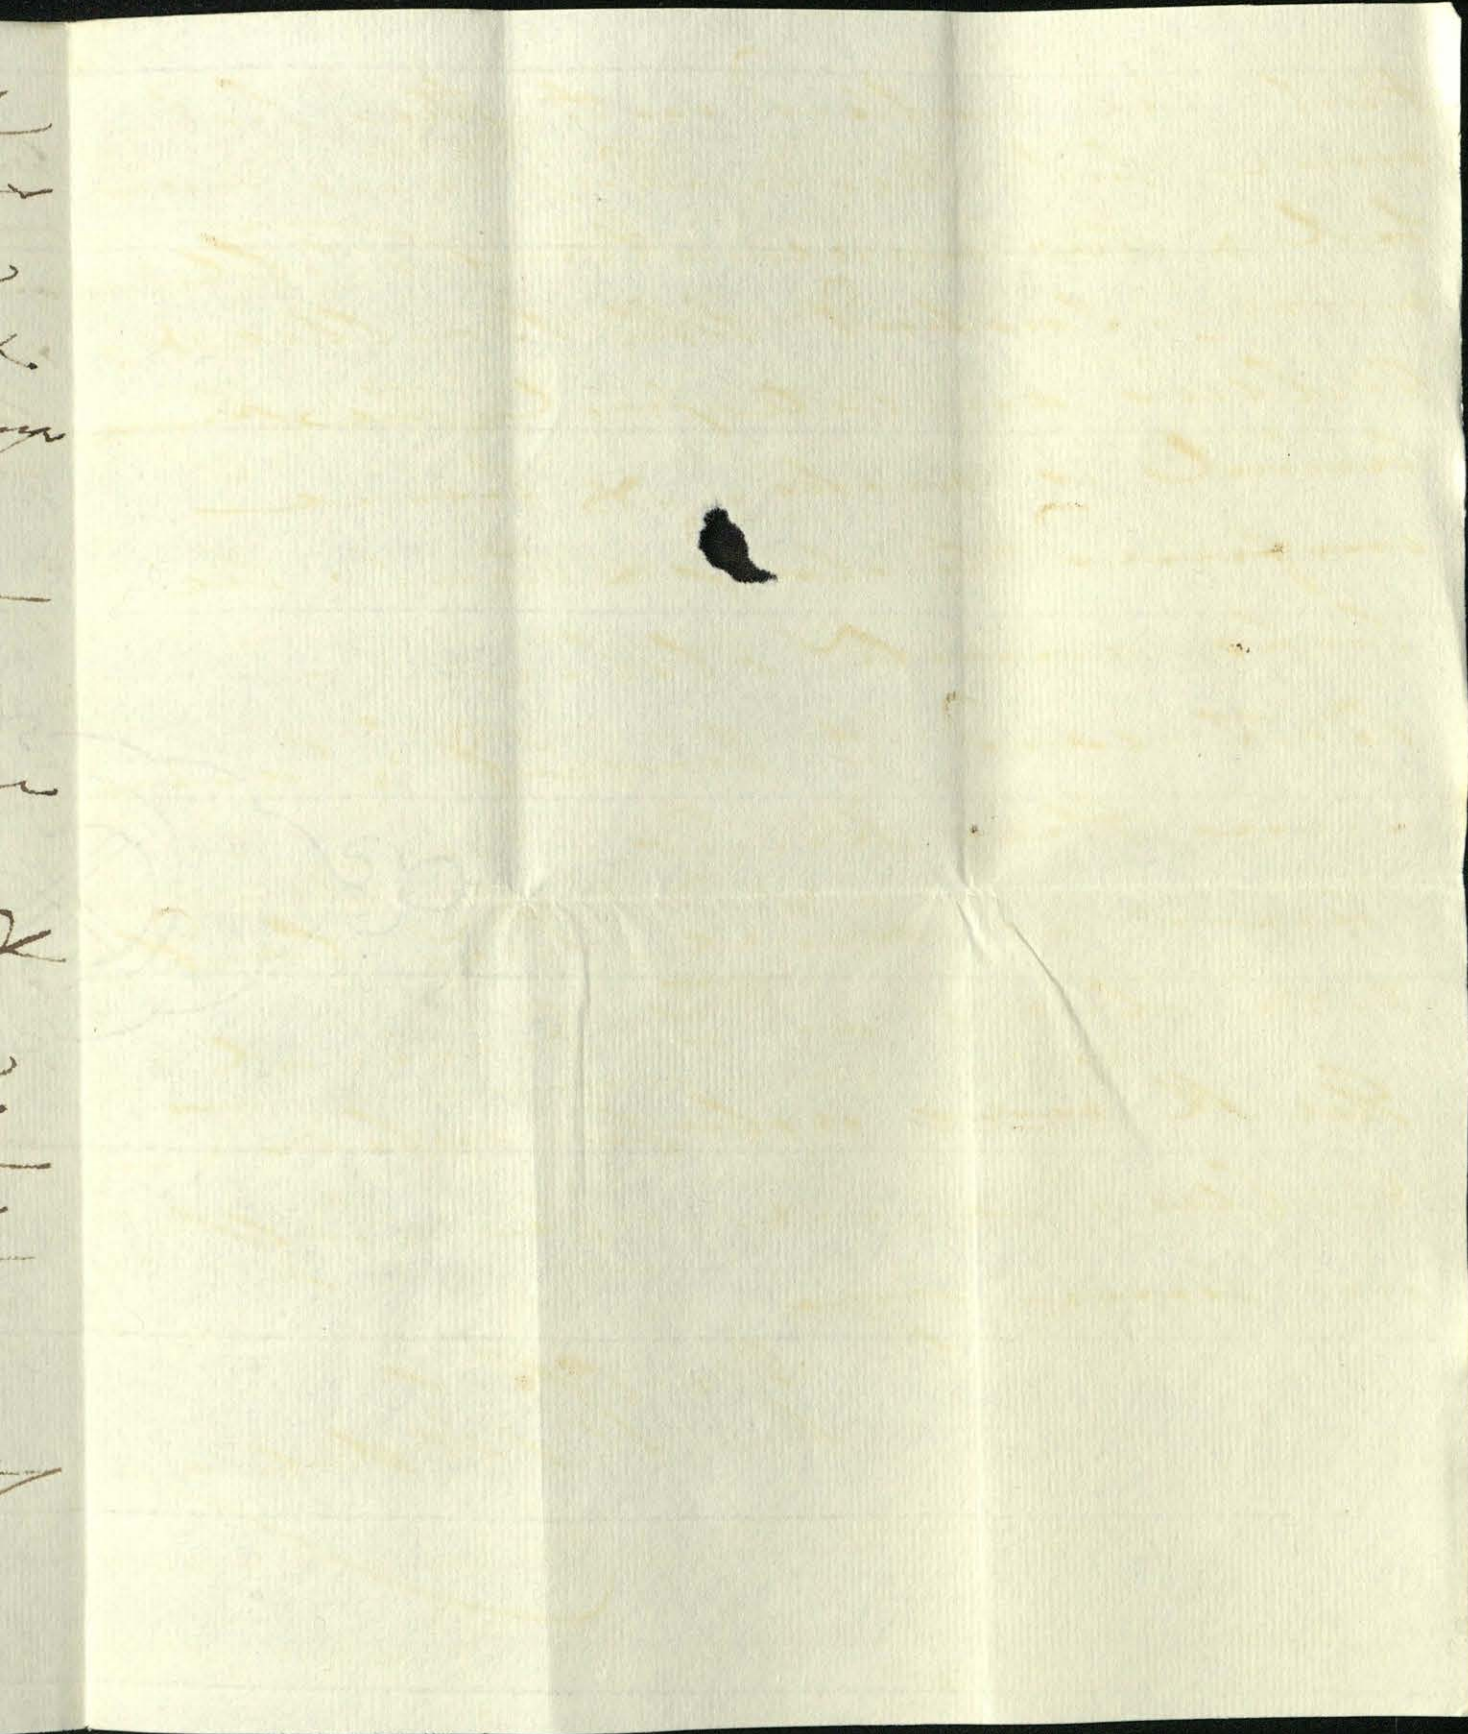

Oct - the 2

My dear Mr. Butler This has been a very unpleasant day the King has talked without interruption all day & the conversation has been much lost & confused I am confused there ~~he~~ has been very strong (perhaps not ~~unpleasant~~ ^{unpleasant} determined) The dinner was a dreadful long business lasted nearly an hour & a half he talked in the usual ceremony took place at dinner, but the R and so much lost as he to be able to remember how to go on with it - He has been inclined to be more confrontable, but it seems has come to a decided stomach He would to look so far quietly that he walked into the parlour room, but the undressing was had & the conversation still went on - I went to the Parlor & William's an enterprising the King himself is making & have enquired to day & that he looks much older -

Both used to laugh & I am sure the King's of any thing is worse than last five days so to decrease The R was asleep when William came up only an hour ago -

Yours truly
G. Pitt Rivers

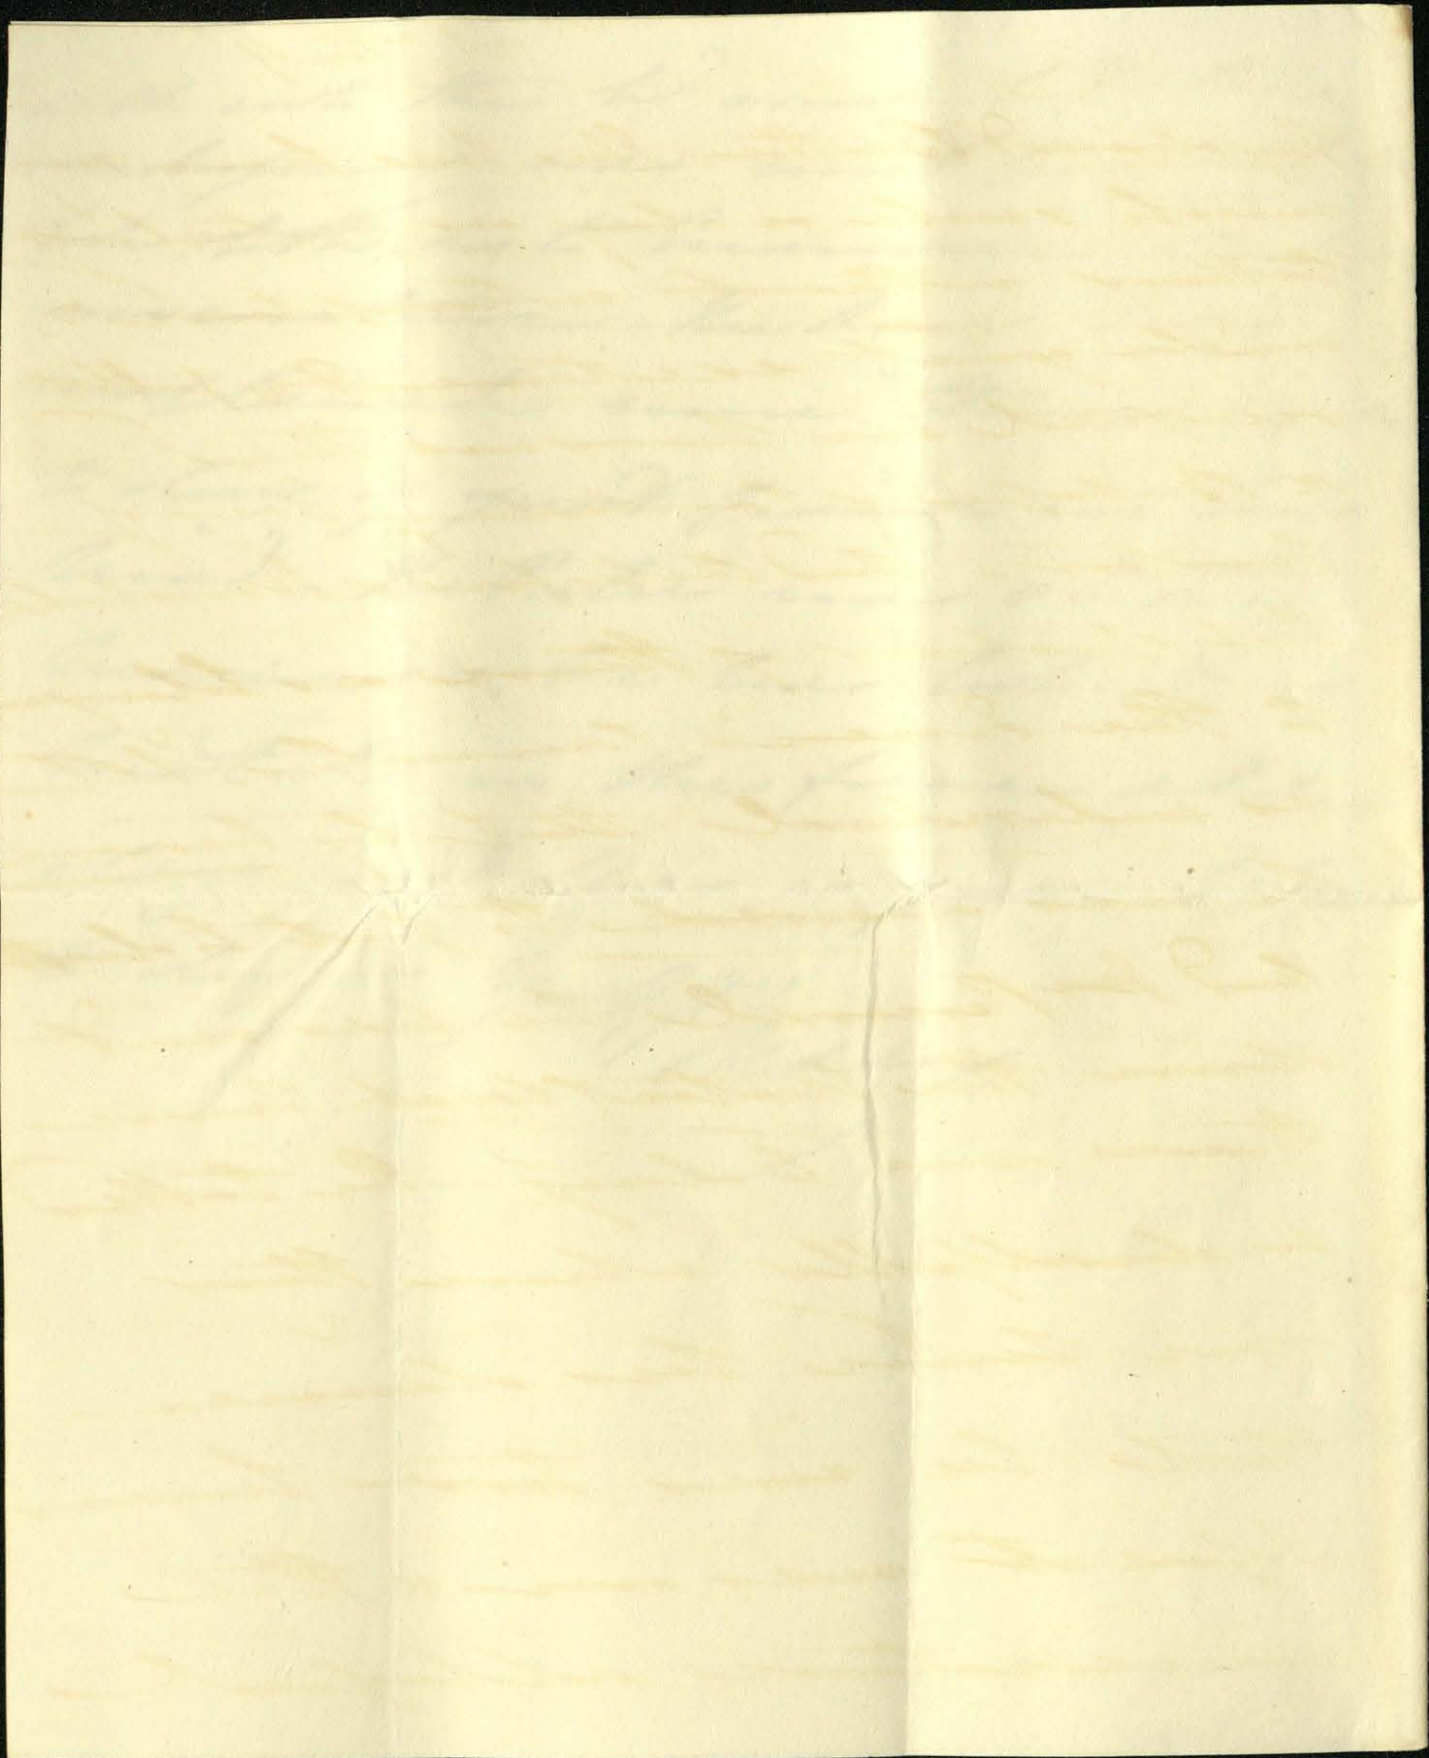

MSA 1716/169

Oct 3rd

My dear Mr. Butler This has been a very hot day from beginning to end the heavy heat has been without interruption & in a constant renewal my mind has ~~been~~ ^{been} confused & if not quite delirious my reason is ~~gone~~ ^{gone} they you have some acute tetter this evening which has had no effect, ^{that} but ~~of~~ ^{promoting} his taking his dinner as he said his stomach felt uneasy as he has continued in a most wretched state & has very violent at times they have thought it necessary to give him some acute tetter to night I have told to go to bed he said walk into the bed room, but the embroidery was sent particularly look both as to dimensions and consecration. The King has complained more than once to day of great pain in his head. The Pulse was 86 this morning & he has looked restless in the face all day. Pills is given to him to day. — Guthrie

Mayer

[Faint, illegible cursive handwriting on aged, yellowed paper, likely bleed-through from the reverse side.]

meo/17/6/170

Oct 24th 4

My dear Mr. Butler This has been my much sadder a day as yesterday talking without interruption & under great excitement & fully occupied in hanging the a Portrait of Cambridge Duke of Devonshire and Arundel & Pembroke but speaking of them as belonging to the Queen's Council, but as individuals that by her he was decreed to put to death and for several he has sent down the water closet from them one to day - He talked so cheerfully when they you time two dinner that he was two times before it was over & the in conversation & happy to George the first & second people of that day who have been dead & forgot eyes & eyes eyes - He looks heated in the face & the Pulse when felt After examining nose & the eyes in constant motion & evident he is in a nervous state in a delirium is possible - As he expressed a wish to remain in bed & as he certainly has some degree of fever about time they made his objection to keeping him for one day in bed. He has been so much employed in his Journal that he has but

has had was can who was layed my grand am but but constantly turning his head round to speak to some body when he was engaged in his business — When letters came up he was his appearance what a case of v. case —

Yours
M. J. J.

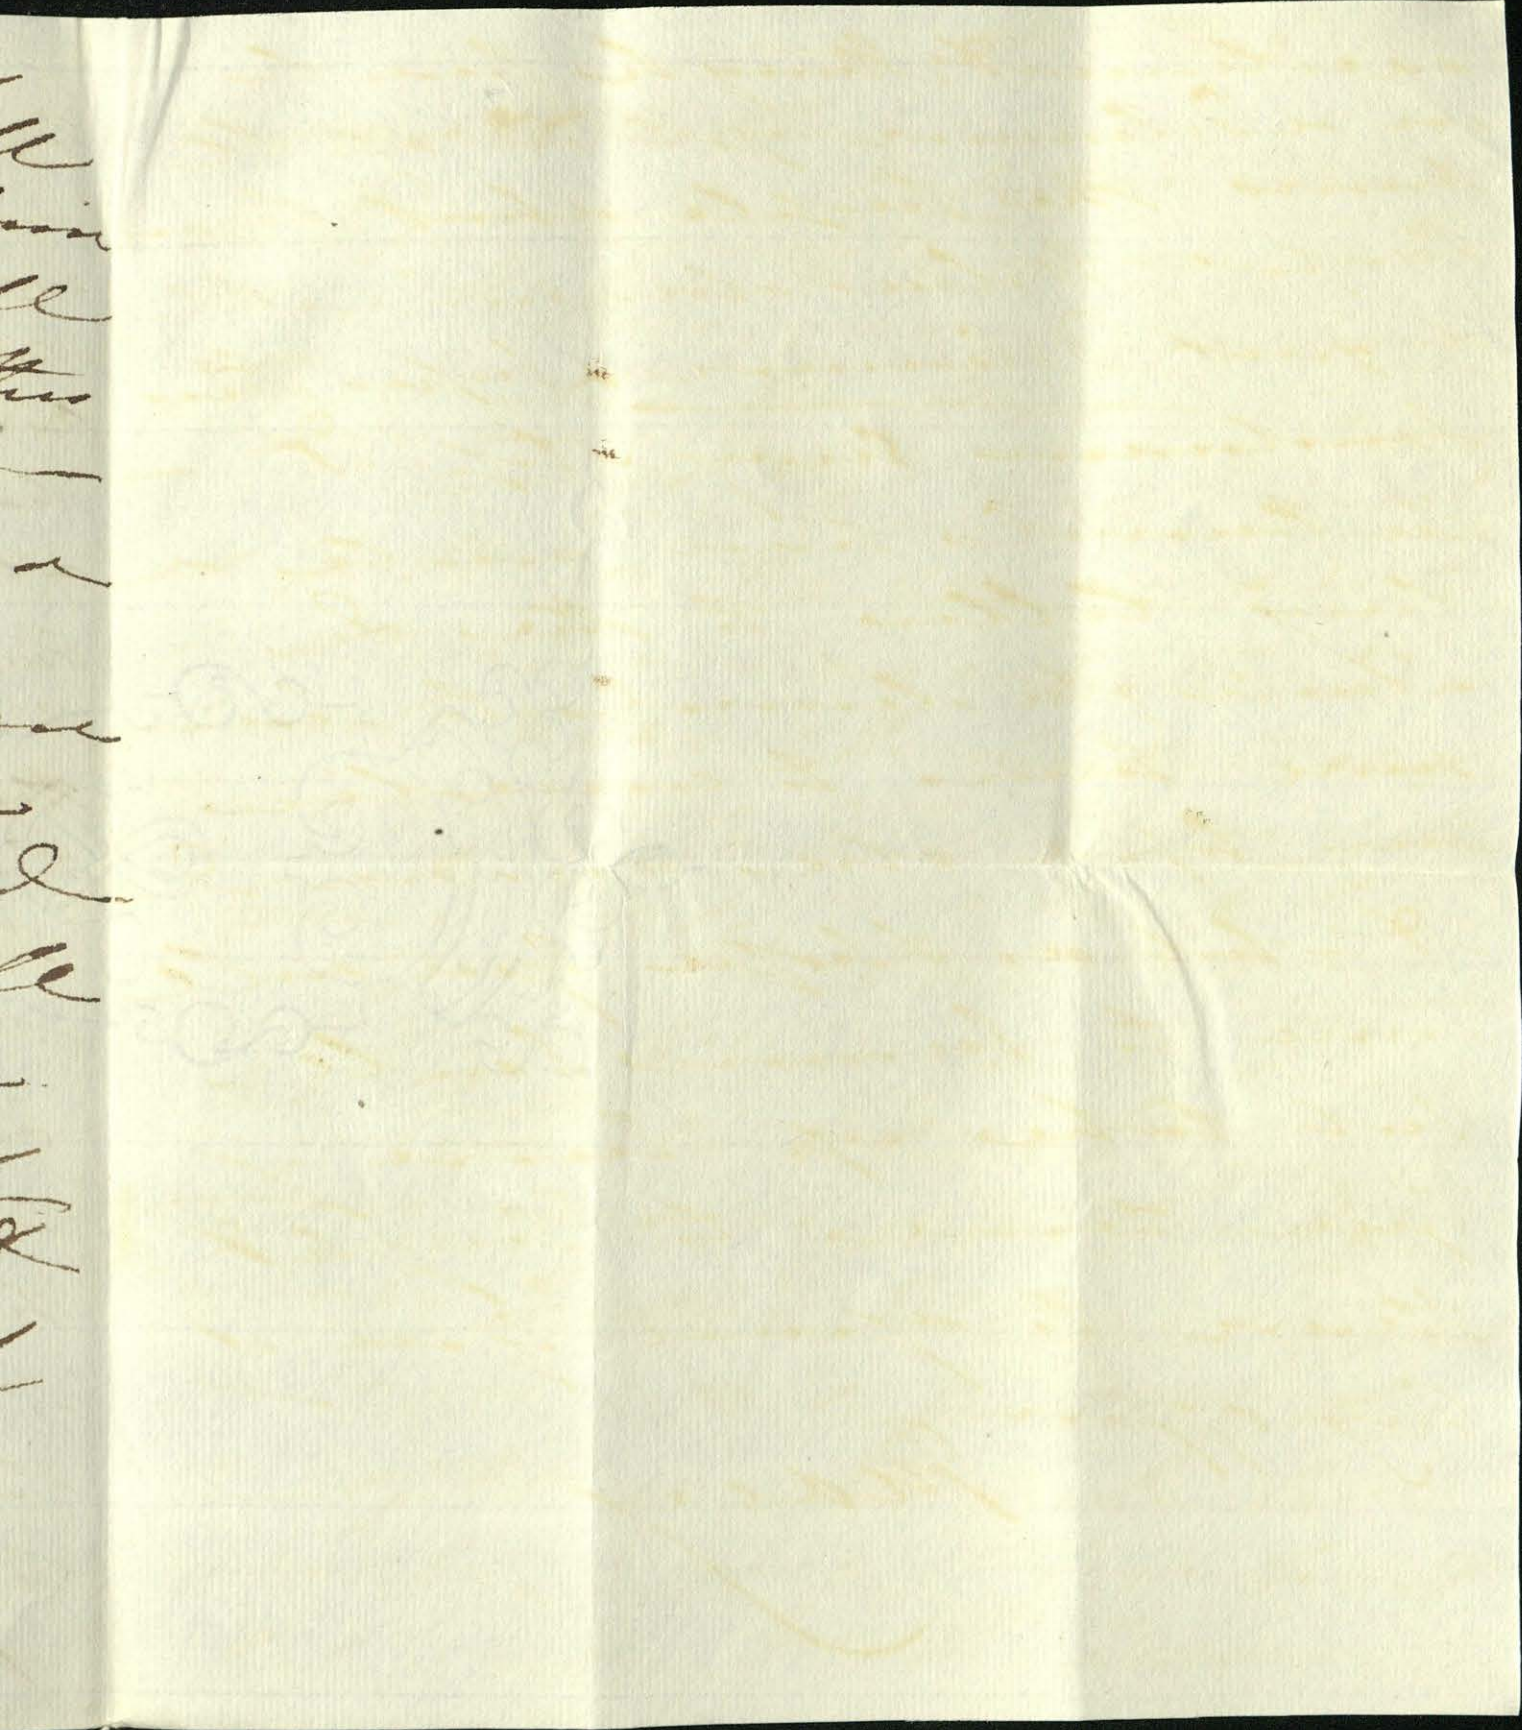

[Faint, illegible cursive handwriting on aged, yellowed paper. The text is mirrored across the page, suggesting bleed-through from the reverse side. The paper shows signs of wear, including creases and discoloration.]

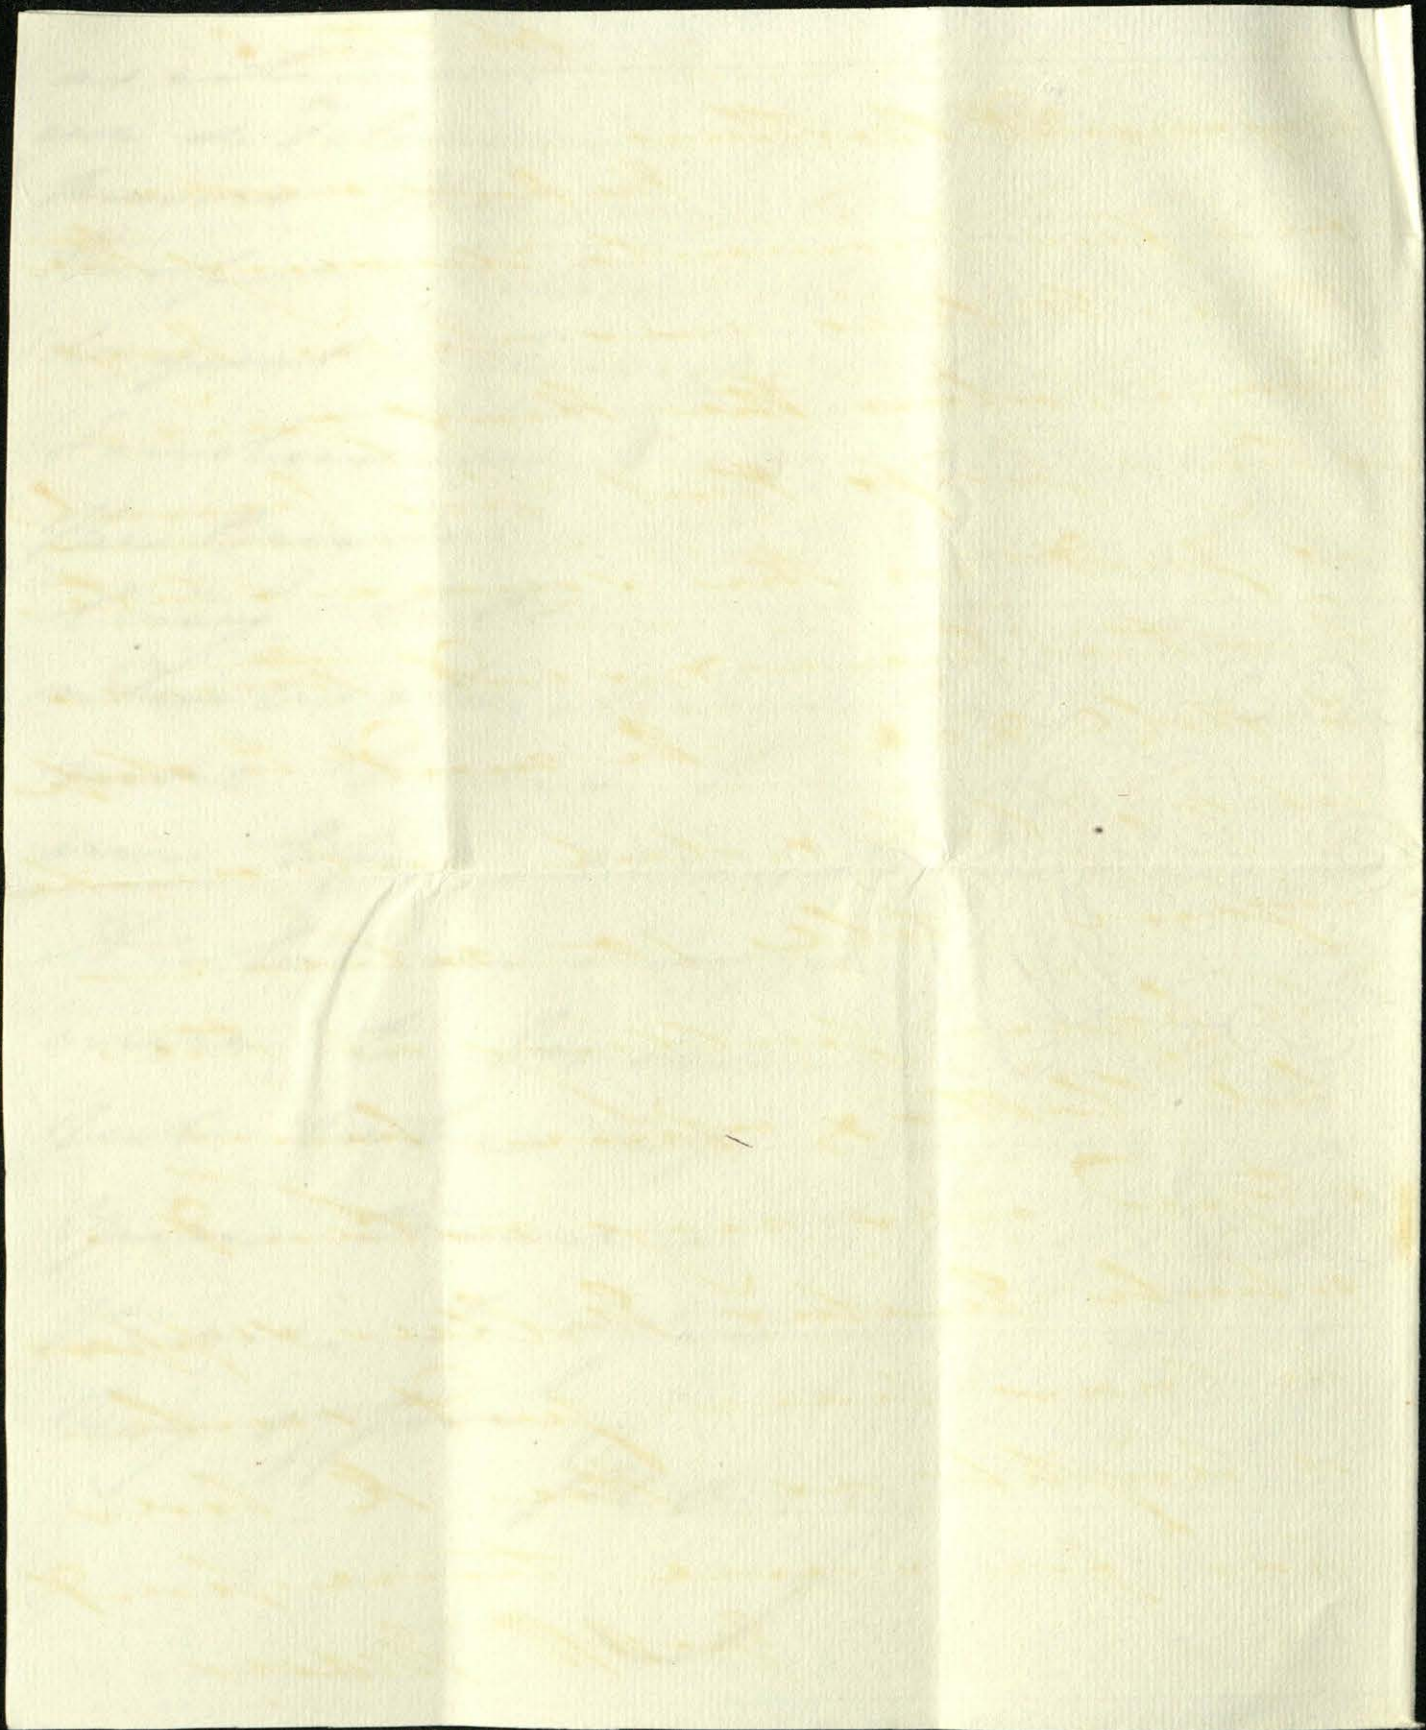

MED/17/6/171

Oct - the 5

My dear Mr. Brathwaite This has been a most anxious day as you may suppose, the Report was not chosen up until half past 10 o'clock As I hope to see you to-morrow I shall have the report written then when I shall have much to say The Poor Law has continued
talking without interruption the whole day - after 11 o'clock of the Council who saw the R. L. off his room the Play was thought it proper to give some more Lecture on which we got two had no effect it is to be hoped before however it may - He looks quite nervous in the face to night & sits up in his bed talking much excitement; though he has by now a decision yet he still knows the people about him therefore he will not call it quite decisive & hopes this ambassador may stop it The Council have written a long letter to the L which she desired to have more time to consider me before she answered it - but as I hope you will come to tomorrow I will not take up more of your time to say ad them to repeat you of my offer

Yours
Mary

[Faint, illegible cursive handwriting on lined paper]

Med 17/6/173

Oct 17th 173

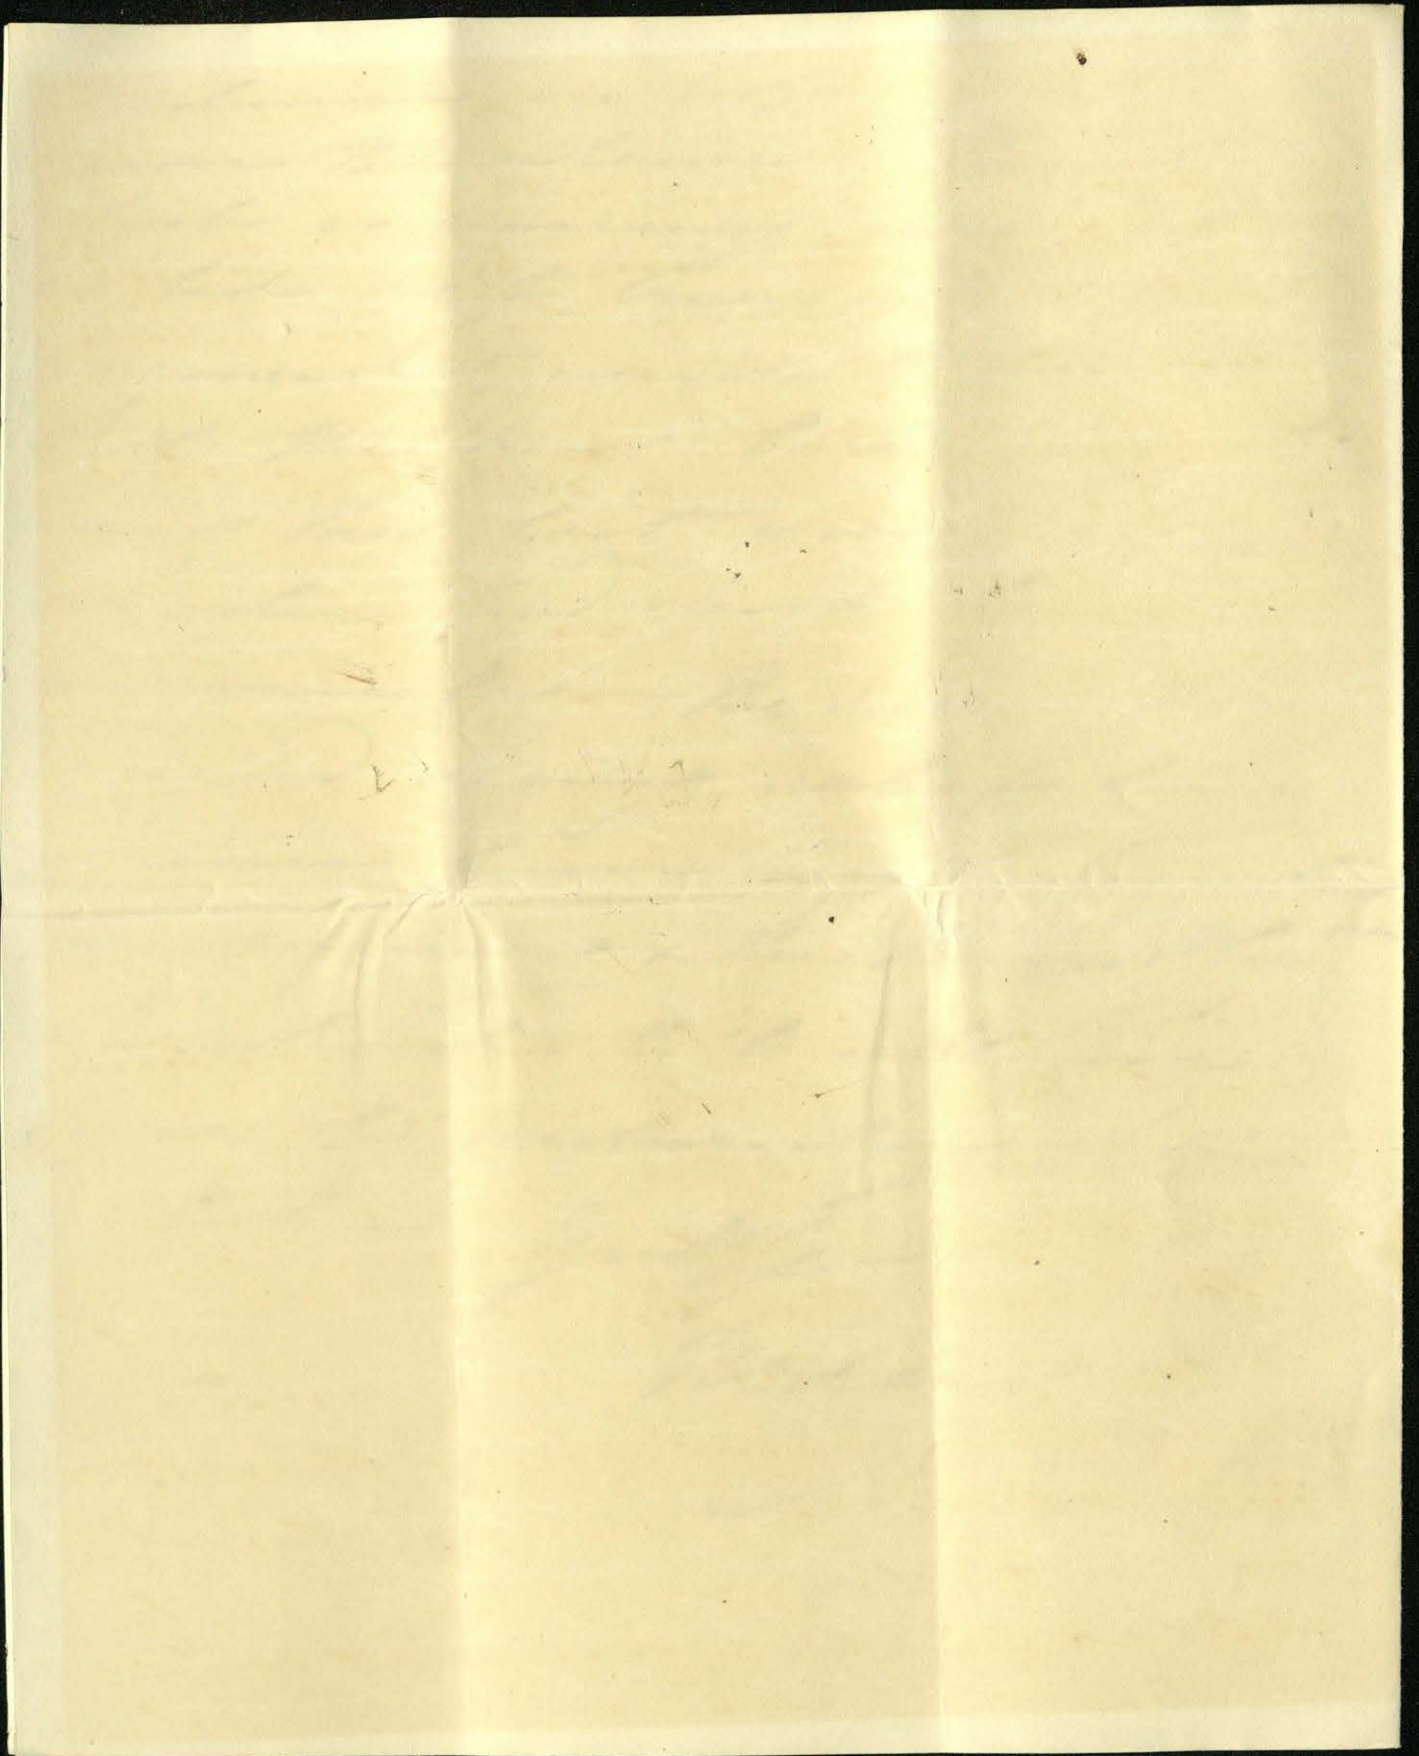

My dearest Brother — This has been a very bad day in all respects. The King got up and dropt quickly, but soon after got so very high that they gave him some Emulsi-tarter which had no other effect but that of opening him a little like to his summer — all the usual errors appeared stronger than ever at dinner, & his conversations all day has been to the child & gyps — At 7 o'clock this evening the King became so very comatose & restless pulling off all his clothes & that they thought it better to put him at once to bed to avoid restlessness which must have been called for if he had remained up — And as soon as he was in bed they gave him some more Emulsi-tarter & forty drops of

And now in hopes of keeping down the volume of the talking which is coming on just as bad as it was all Saturday The general opinion today is that the King looks very ill and of this last increase of disorder had shock to me my uncle - The Queen has received a very satisfactory answer from her Council this evening & the House Play on ordered to be all in some by Wednesday at 12 o'clock -

Gulff

Wadey

[Faint, illegible handwriting on lined paper, possibly bleed-through from the reverse side. The text is mostly obscured by the paper's texture and the binding.]

MSO 1716/174

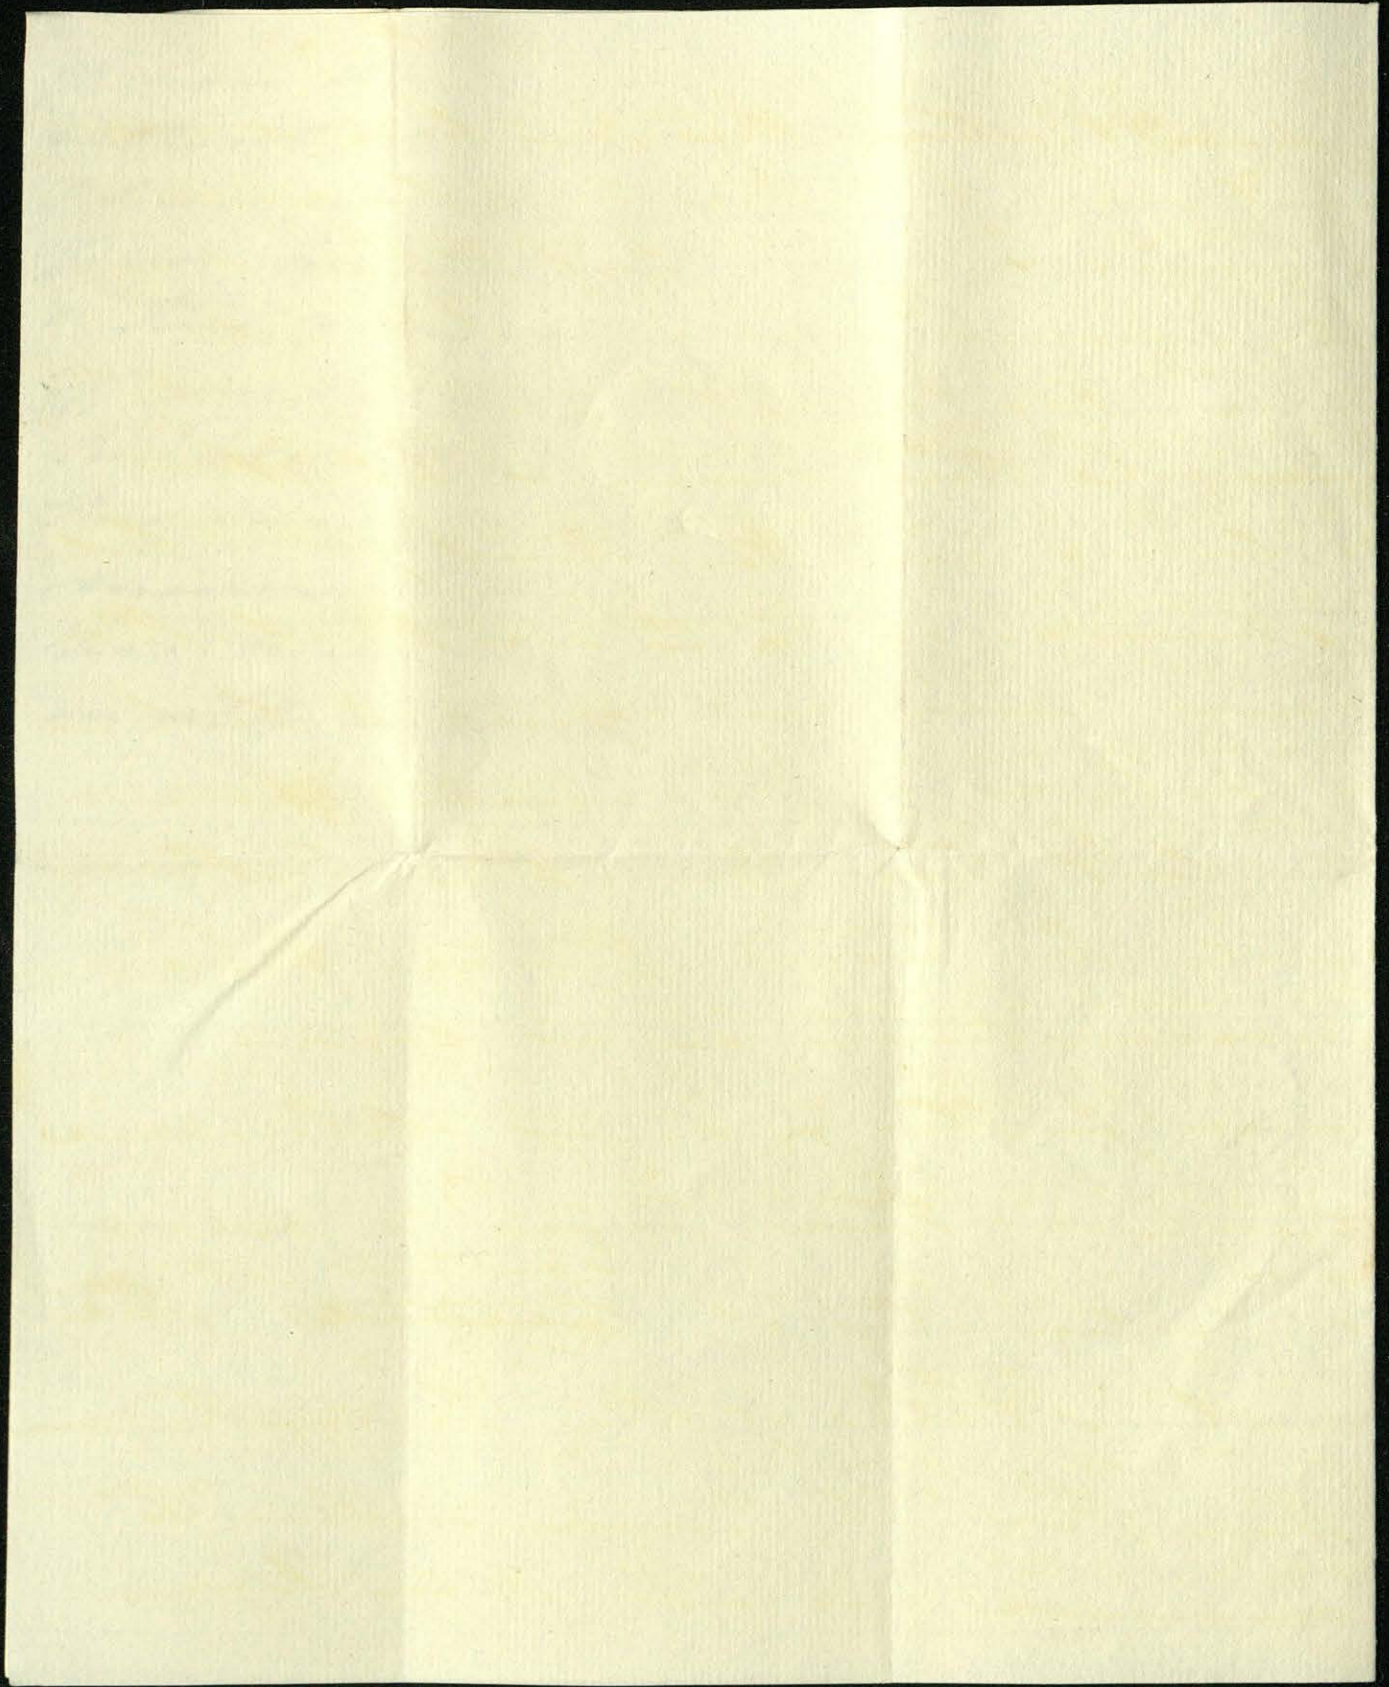

Oct 2 the 8 -

My dear Mr. Bertram nothing could more than the poor King, indeed this morning I was told that he was the only one mentioned. He was of course the same emperor I have seen. He was dressed with some difficulty, but walked quietly enough into the next room, but remained in a most untidy state till after his dinner, when he became more composed & continued in a constant reversé but speaking one word until half past 8 o'clock when they told him it was time to go to bed which caused a noise I have never ever heard him intruded yet, however he walked into the bed room, but was a long time recovering the rage he put himself into.
When Miller came up the R had just dropped asleep, but until that moment the bedroom was not occupied to have the excellent effect without it caused the year I have already referred to you from the Club till well past the summer — The summer went off very ill on the first day we hardly cut away & 2nd of all the errors strongly remarked the summer to day & the conversation has been most particularly so in all respects —

Yours
Wm. Pitt

[Faint handwritten text on the left edge of the page]

ME017161195

Oct 21st 1795

My dear Mr. Butler I have been a very quiet day, but the mind quite as wrong & more lost than ever & the convulsions very lost at times - The three convulsions they arrived this evening about 8 o'clock & saw the King go to bed & strange it is to say that the King was not gone to bed as well as to remember from the last two months, nothing could be worse than the convulsions very long came further & very delicious Therefore they had a very good opportunity of seeing the real state of the mind.
Then they were never able to remain in at London.

we talk next Saturday - The Council meet at the A. B. office at ten o'clock to day where they received orders to come down immediately - I never signed my hand but to come till to morning as we had particular business this evening, but they would not let him off & said it was of consequence they should be down in time to see the Perry eat his supper to night - as I never did not come till late & Miller would not let them see the Perry till he arrived, I was told more prepared to laugh than seeing the R go to bed & at mid thought better to have no particular conversation with them was till to morrow morning when these Gentlemen will be better able to give ^{an} answer precise — The Duke is writing to you & will send you the paper when received from the Council by Dilly — What is my id is that the Council never sent word to the King ^{at Windsor} that the Consulting ^{King} ^{was} should be done this evening but write them a letter which these Gentlemen delivered to the King ^{himself} ^{was} ⁱⁿ attendance - when Miller came up he saw no appearance of sleep - Yours truly

Mary

Will you bear the kindness to show this letter to her for I can not think her to say she has I have told you

Med 17/6/176

at the 11

My dearest Brother This day has been a very quiet one in all respects, the Council did not particularly worry but for notice - The Consulting Body was called out to see the King to have advantage & then had a good opportunity of judging of the real state of the King & of all the errors - They have seen the King at five different times to day & all agree it was far better to see him faint in this quiet way than if he had been more irritable & restless - They have given no decided opinion yet, because the orders they received from the Council is to be kept secret observers until next Saturday when they are to report to the House & then from what dropped from John Mallet to our brother that they are all satisfied that it is not in a state to be argued with or to have the News Papers read to him

John Buller is much surprised to find the King's Excursion so much in error when in matter he is so carefully working & that what was said was a very bad error. He did not find the King so much altered as he expected & I am sure is of the same opinion.
The King went to bed but is not as well as last night, but nothing like as well as he used to be in these days ago. He has been a sleep some 10 or 12 hours.

Yours
Wm. Pitt

l
-
y a l
l
l
-
le like
me
e

[Faint, illegible handwriting on lined paper, possibly bleed-through from the reverse side]

ME0176/177

Oct 21st 11th

My dear Mr. Brother the (summit) of this day was but nearly the same as yesterday with the wind more stormy this evening He was carried to bed & ends in a violent rage for a short time which the three consulting Phys^{ians} witnessed & I believe have seen the King in almost every intention and every state belonging to his disorder.
The King has been much particularly took at times to day & the ceremony at dinner surprised the Phys^{ians} and my uncle - for Henry Rufford & Willis appeared very well interfused with what has passed in conversation with these Gentlemen as they find fault with the

For me Henry that has been done & one of opinion that it is quite out of the question speaking to the King on shaking union in any way for the state the ground is less in / but by not not & and greatly decided that the K should not be irritated by forming questions down but where it becomes a matter of great importance as all irritations must be avoided as much as possible. My one of opinion the King's health is our good which is constantly interfering to the King

Walter & Robert Ballin's views You know have always been of that opinion and if these three gentlemen will speak out as honestly & freely as they have done & doing in consultations I should hope to well satisfy the Journal all times have shown that could be done & that nothing more could be done for the same thing, but to found the health giving power - I should likewise hope to very make them see what a complete ignorance

Dear Mother - God bless you

God bless

Mary

MSO/17/6/178

out on the 12

My dear Mr. Butler This day has been more unfortunate than yesterday about five o'clock this evening the King became very high, but soon after he fell a sleep & did not awake till near 9 o'clock when they told him it was time to go to bed which caused a most dreadful storm it did not last long & since he has been in bed he has been tolerably quiet but had a sleep when Pills were up - The Council gave me quarters in waiting to the Chamberlain they was to answer which the Queen will of course show you to morrow - John Pellier is the most successful in his answer - Tomorrow & I am bound on to come again next Friday Pellier was to be excused as he says he has seen quite enough to satisfy himself his private concerning the King The Queen therefore has told the Council should any great change take place & that it was thought proper Barrow & Symonds should see the King there she should make a point John Bull shall be sent for — As Barrow & Symonds have not made up their minds as completely it is as well they should come down again —

I think this consultation has been so very satisfactory to John Bull Walter Buller Phillips & Devedas that I feel quite satisfied it has taken place but it strikes me that those of the former order, came to day and a mile to set all the Plyans by the cars. The Bishop showed all the Plyans the question they intended to put the Consulting Plyans when his chief had turned round & said "but we don't pledge ourselves to leave you the answer" and they went away without communicating to any one of these Synods nor after their answer Of course the I had let them see the answers - but is it not strange - they presented at last to the Queen the Plyans answer to Dr. Robinson's letter & certainly would not have done so if I in Henry had not made a point of its being delivered to the Lt day & before you receive this I hope Henry will have given you the copy - the Queen should I think the letter & he thinks it particularly good - God bless you very soon Brother & I am ever

Yours
Mary

Ms. A. 1. 7. 6. 179

Oct. the 14

My dearest Brother This has been a quiet day since the King got up this morning a day full of errors & more lost & confused than ever as to the Council — between five & six this evening he got my inevitable warrant to undergo himself and quarrelled with some of his imaginary company, but he calmed down soon & went to bed very quietly & was a sleep when I & Henry & Ralph came up — All agree in thinking the King looks very ill to day, he has not been shaved for five days which of course makes him look worse

I have received a very delightful letter from Charlotte to day in answer to the one I told you I had wrote to her some days ago - I must copy what she says as I should not do her justice otherwise "I hope when you see my father in write to him you will apose him there is his occasion for a parting & that I hope he will not say any thing to me about it, as what he said to you is a successful stroke & that I am grateful my dearest friends for any sent you are so kind as to you more as I have in

P
the God

[Faint, illegible handwriting on aged, yellowed paper, possibly bleed-through from the reverse side.]

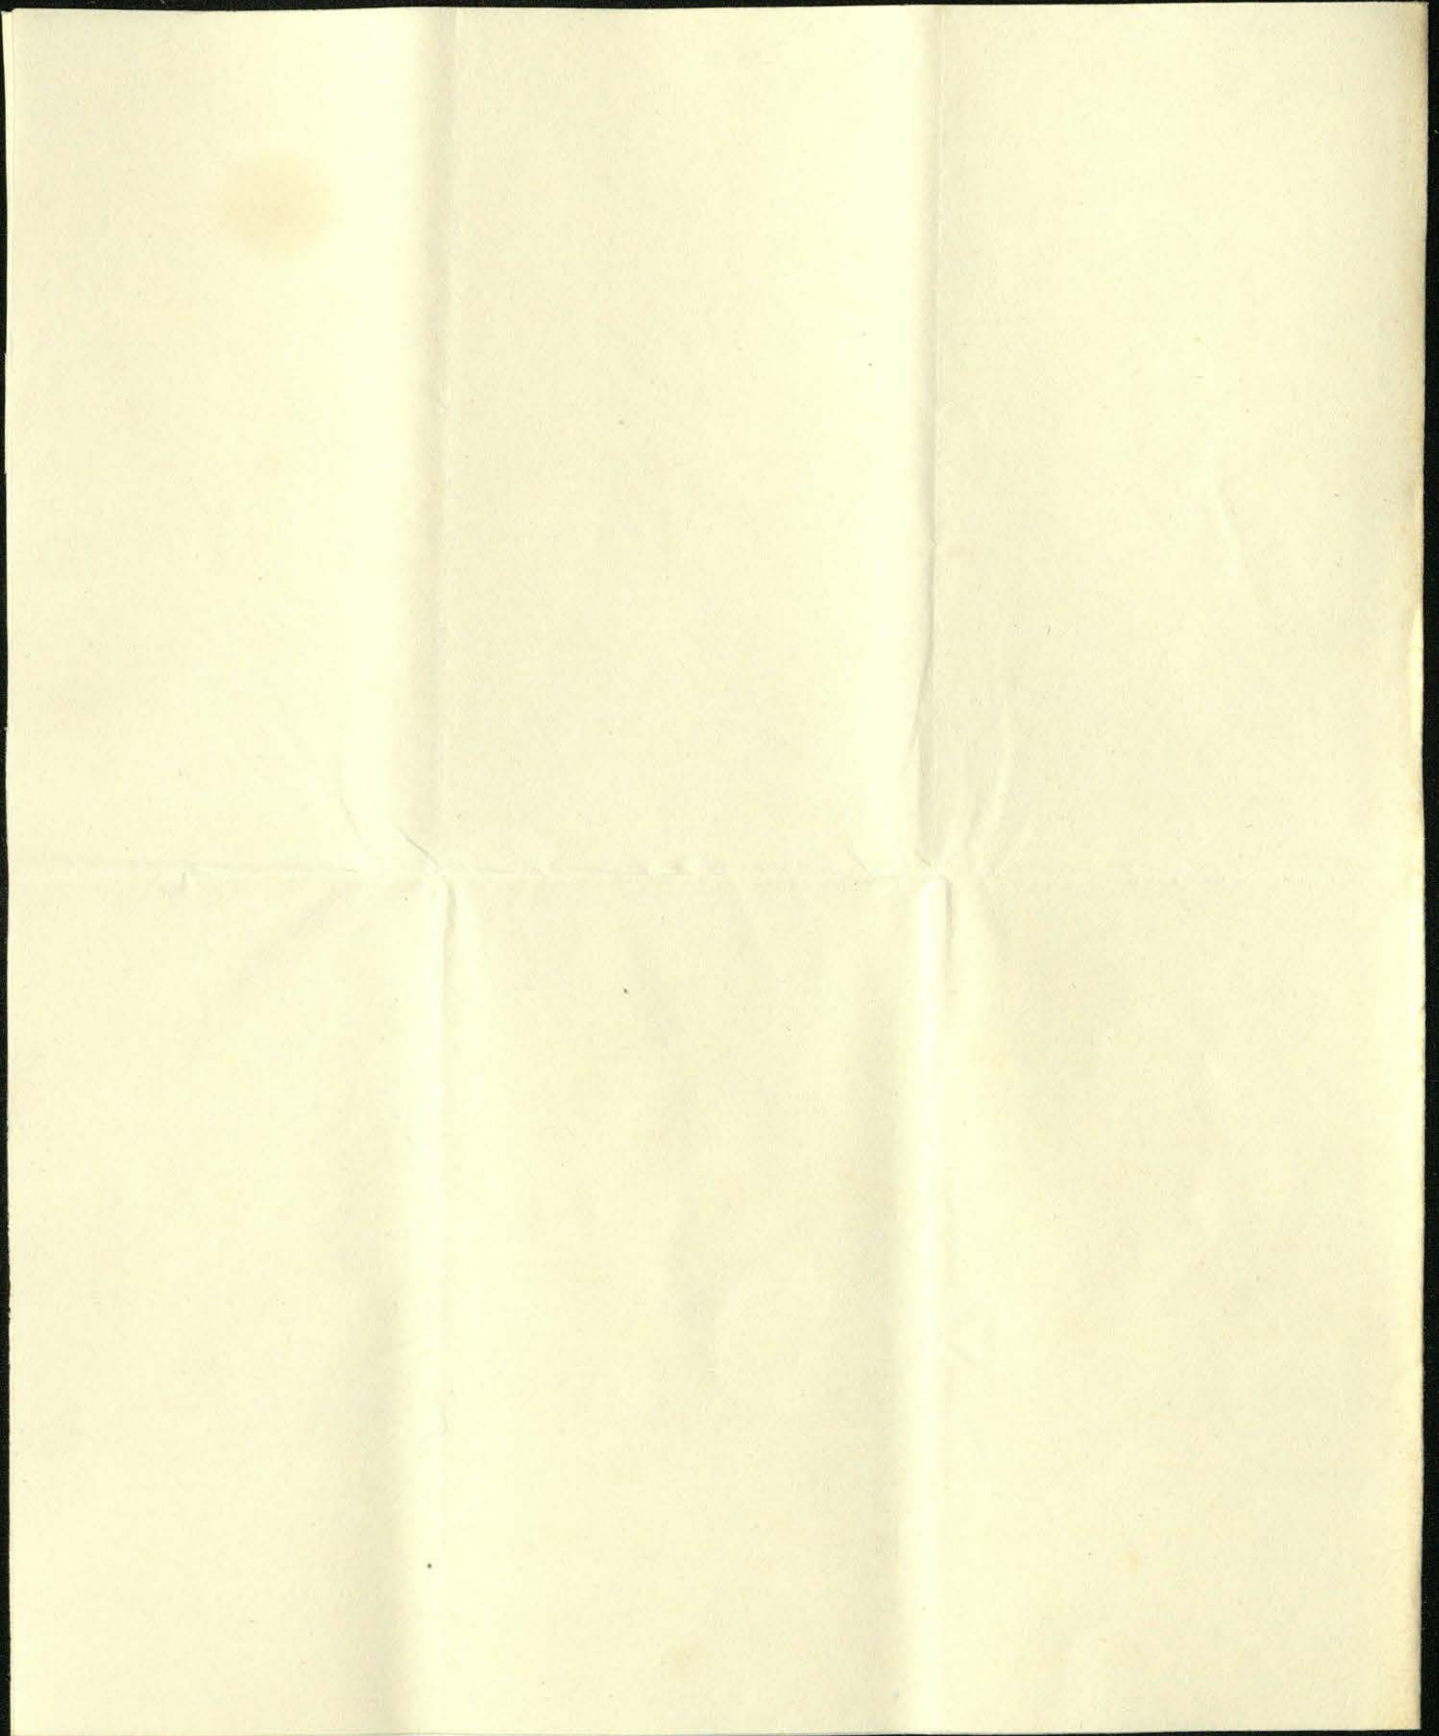

Med 17/6/180

Oct 15 -

My dear Brother Upon the whole this has been a bad day very inevitable the dinner went off most particularly ill as to measures & conversation & the brand quite lost in all respects. I being got half an hour sleep between three & four, but awoke so very violent that at 4 o'clock restoration became necessary & was not taken off till I had some more sleep immediately after & has been quiet since went to bed better than was expected & when Mr. M. came up the R was asleep -
Yours truly
M. M. M.

WSTO
BETHLEHEM

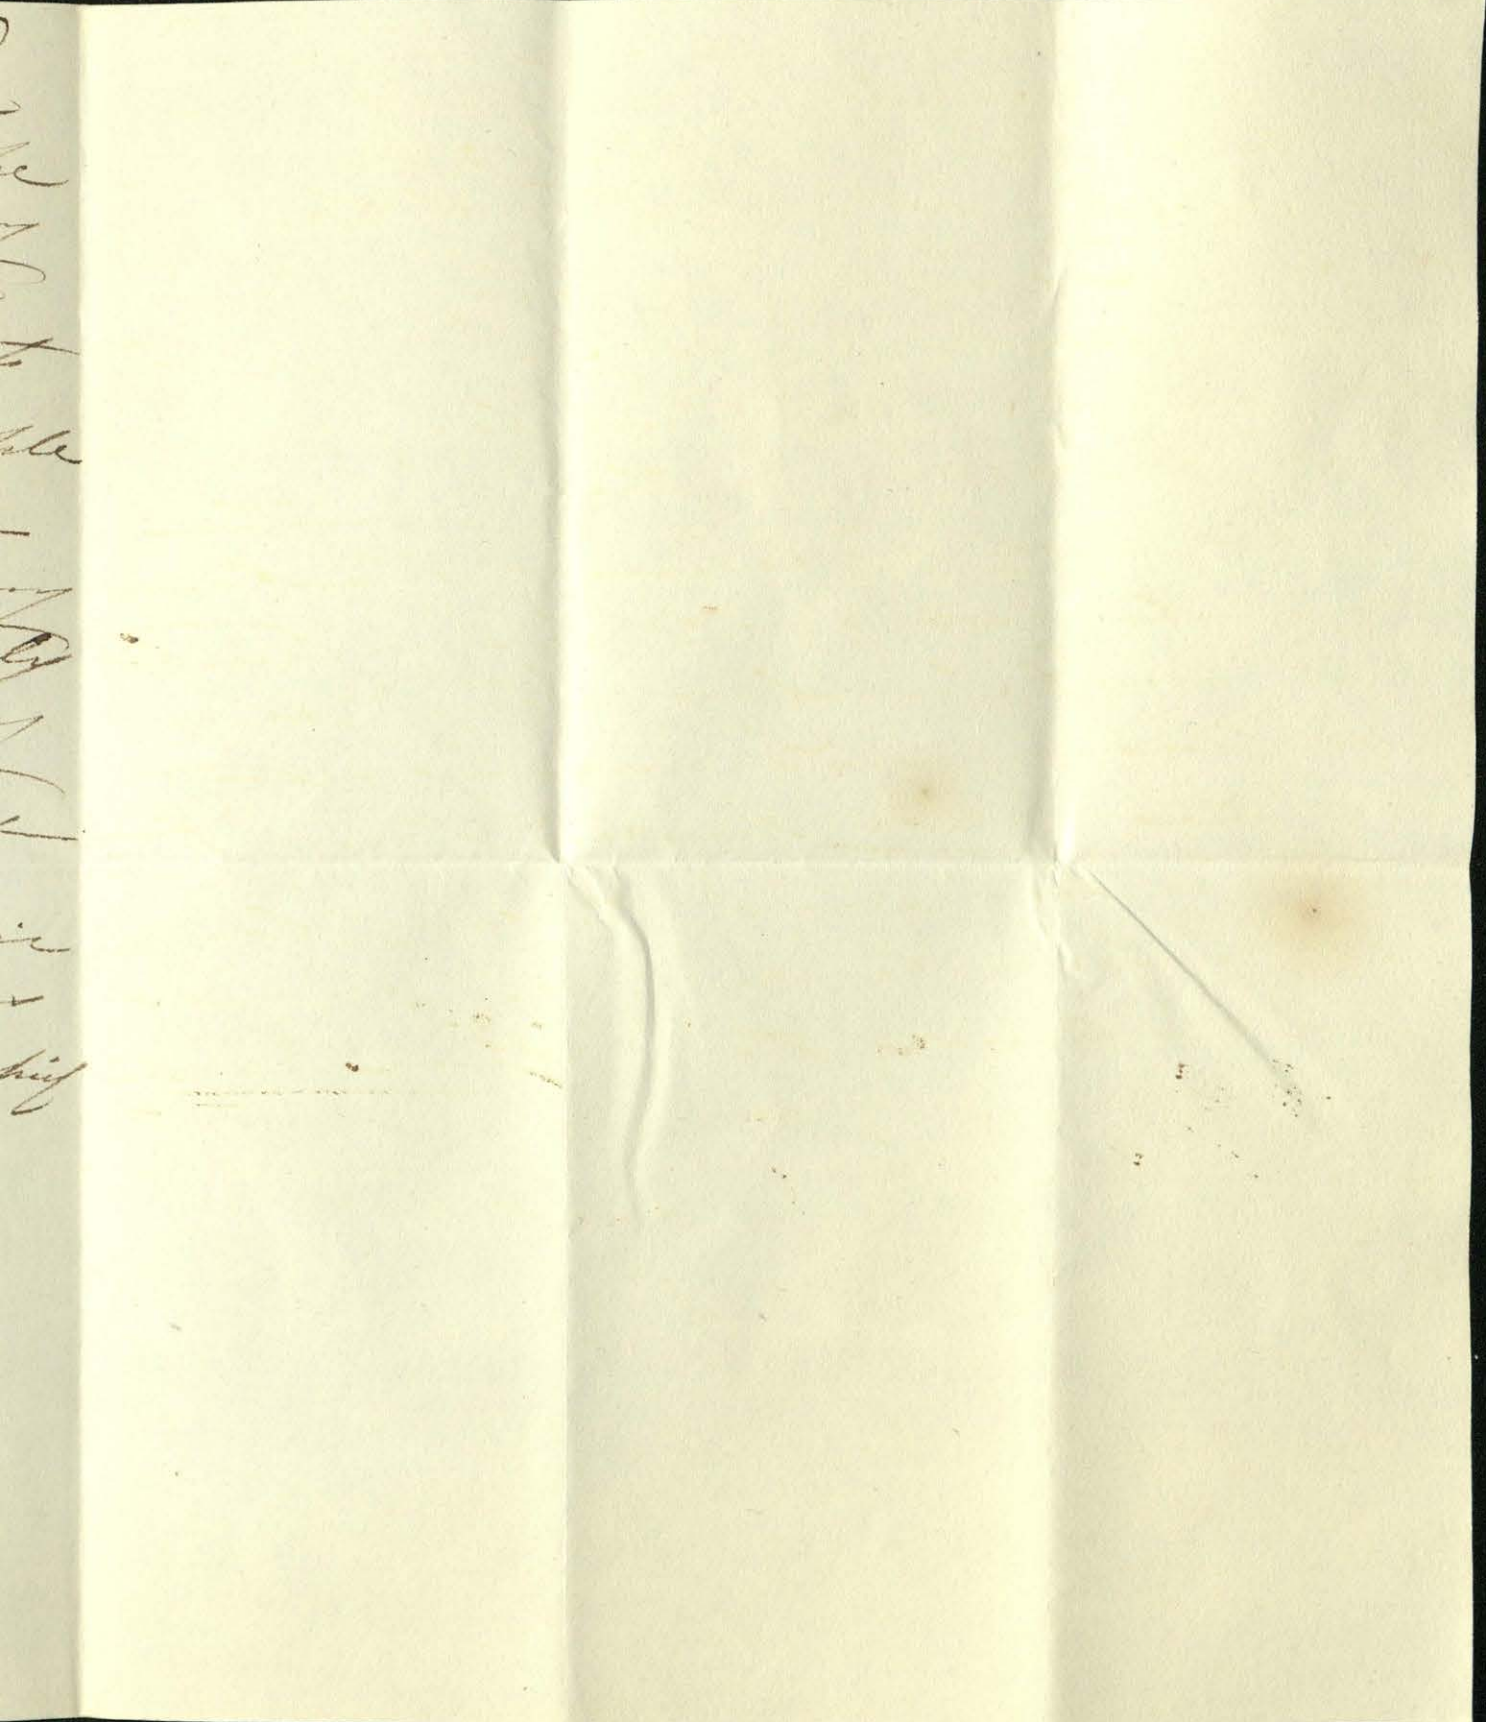

MSO/17/6/181

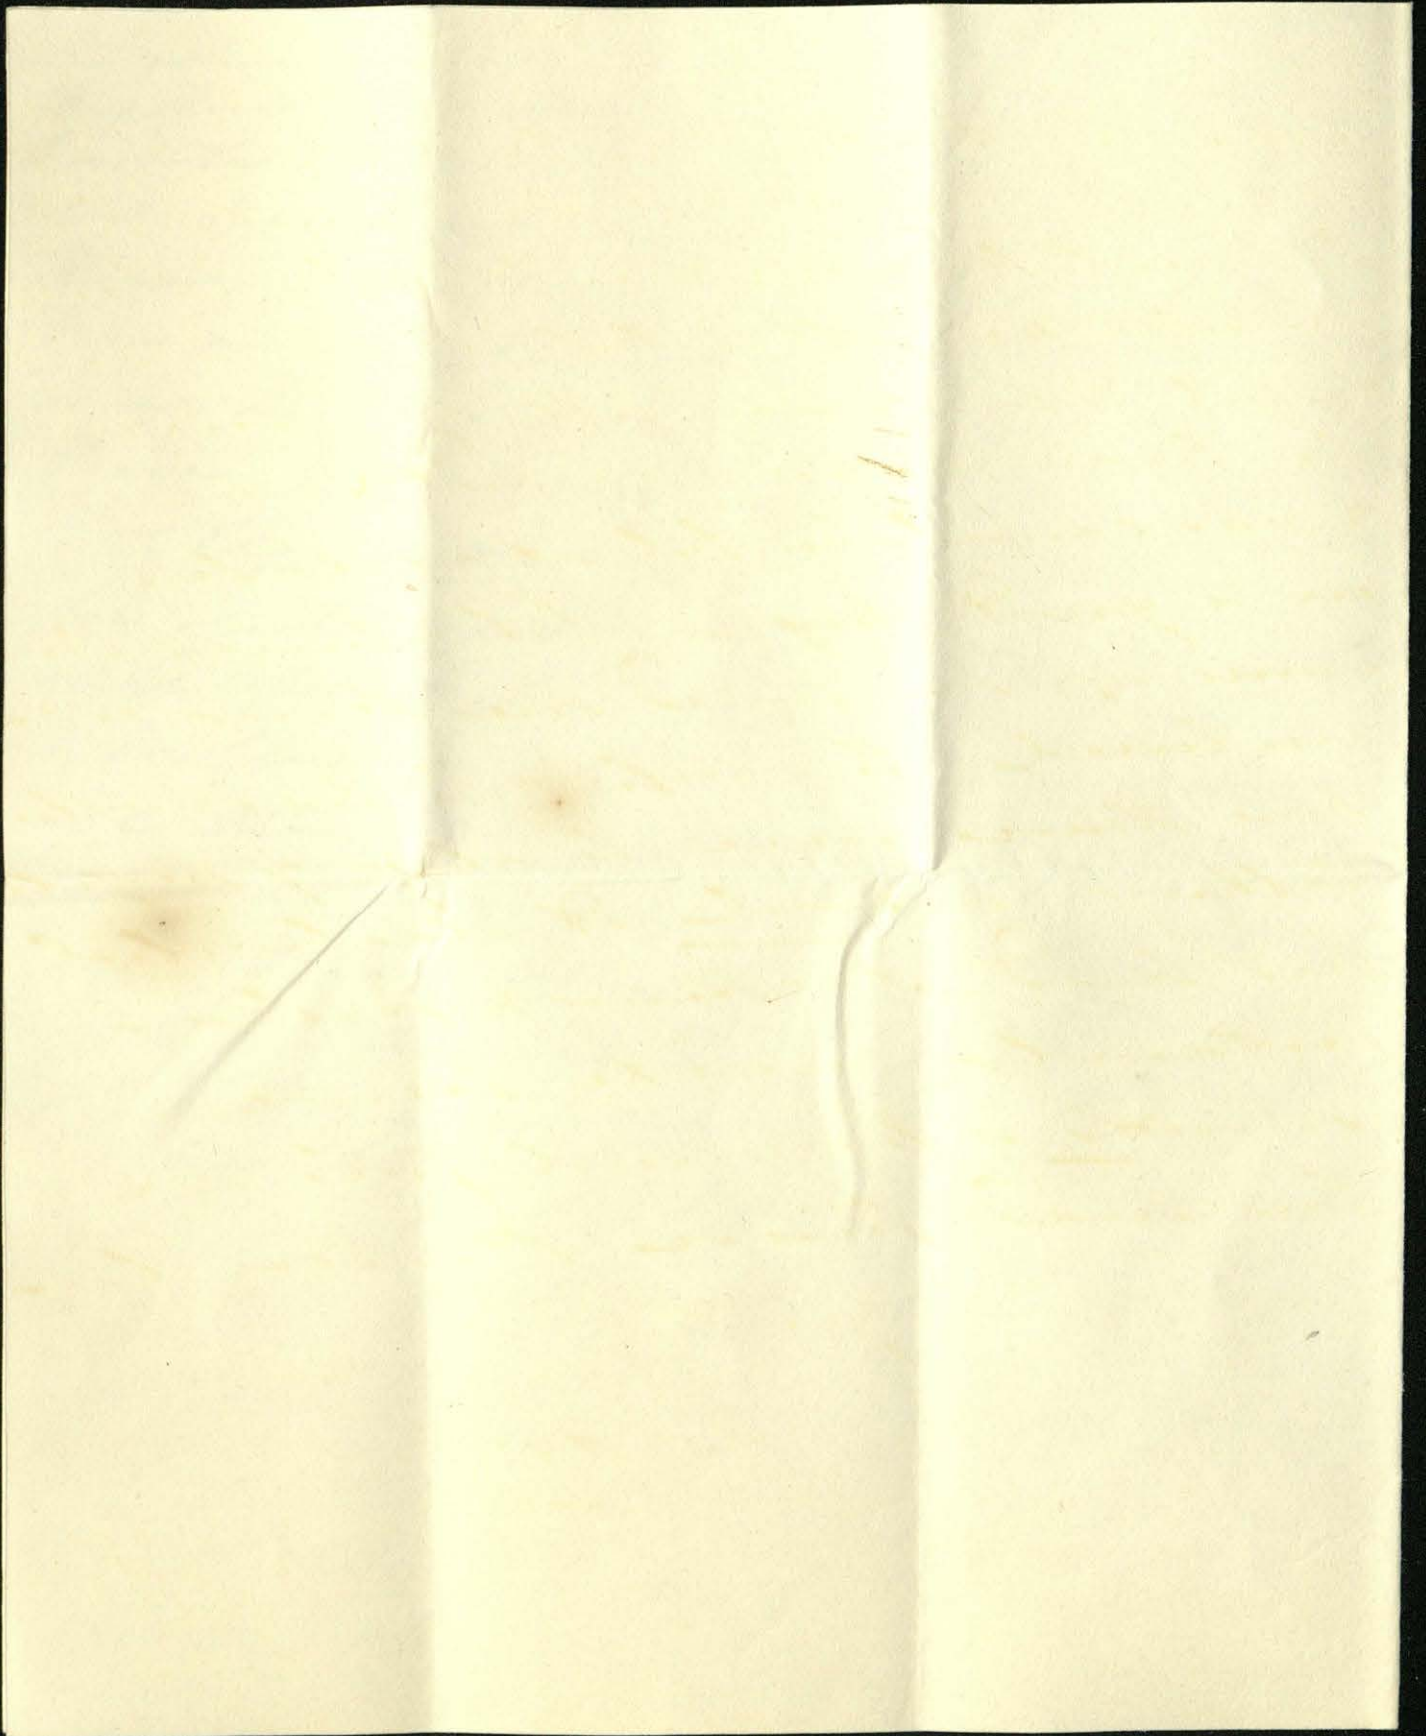

Oct^r the 16

My dear Mr. Botherkin this has not been so violent a day as yesterday, because few restraint has been necessary, but the King was then in a most intractable state & the mind quite lost & very much confused & but we want of reason or sense has been used for the last week — The great defiance these last two days so that the King appears less happy with his training is constantly disruption & quarrelling with his unwilling friends & to day has complained often that they talked so loud it disturbed his head & he has put his fingers in his ears & set so for some time ^{together} begging for company not to draw because that by speaking so loud that his head could not stand it and there was thought he was heard in conversations all round him — at 8 o'clock he complained of being so fatigued that he wished to go to bed of himself — which he did quietly enough but when Willies came up he said the King was talking very fast in French & appeared uneasy & as if he was watching some body - Mr Henry Kufford has tried me to say he was so much surprised for some time to day found such numbers of people to me & having nothing new to tell you concerning the King he did not call, but certainly will visit Sunday - Mr Jeffrey & Willies are very uneasy at all these noises the King must have in his head, to complain as he has done to long & now it to continue they are surely God bless your self

Mary

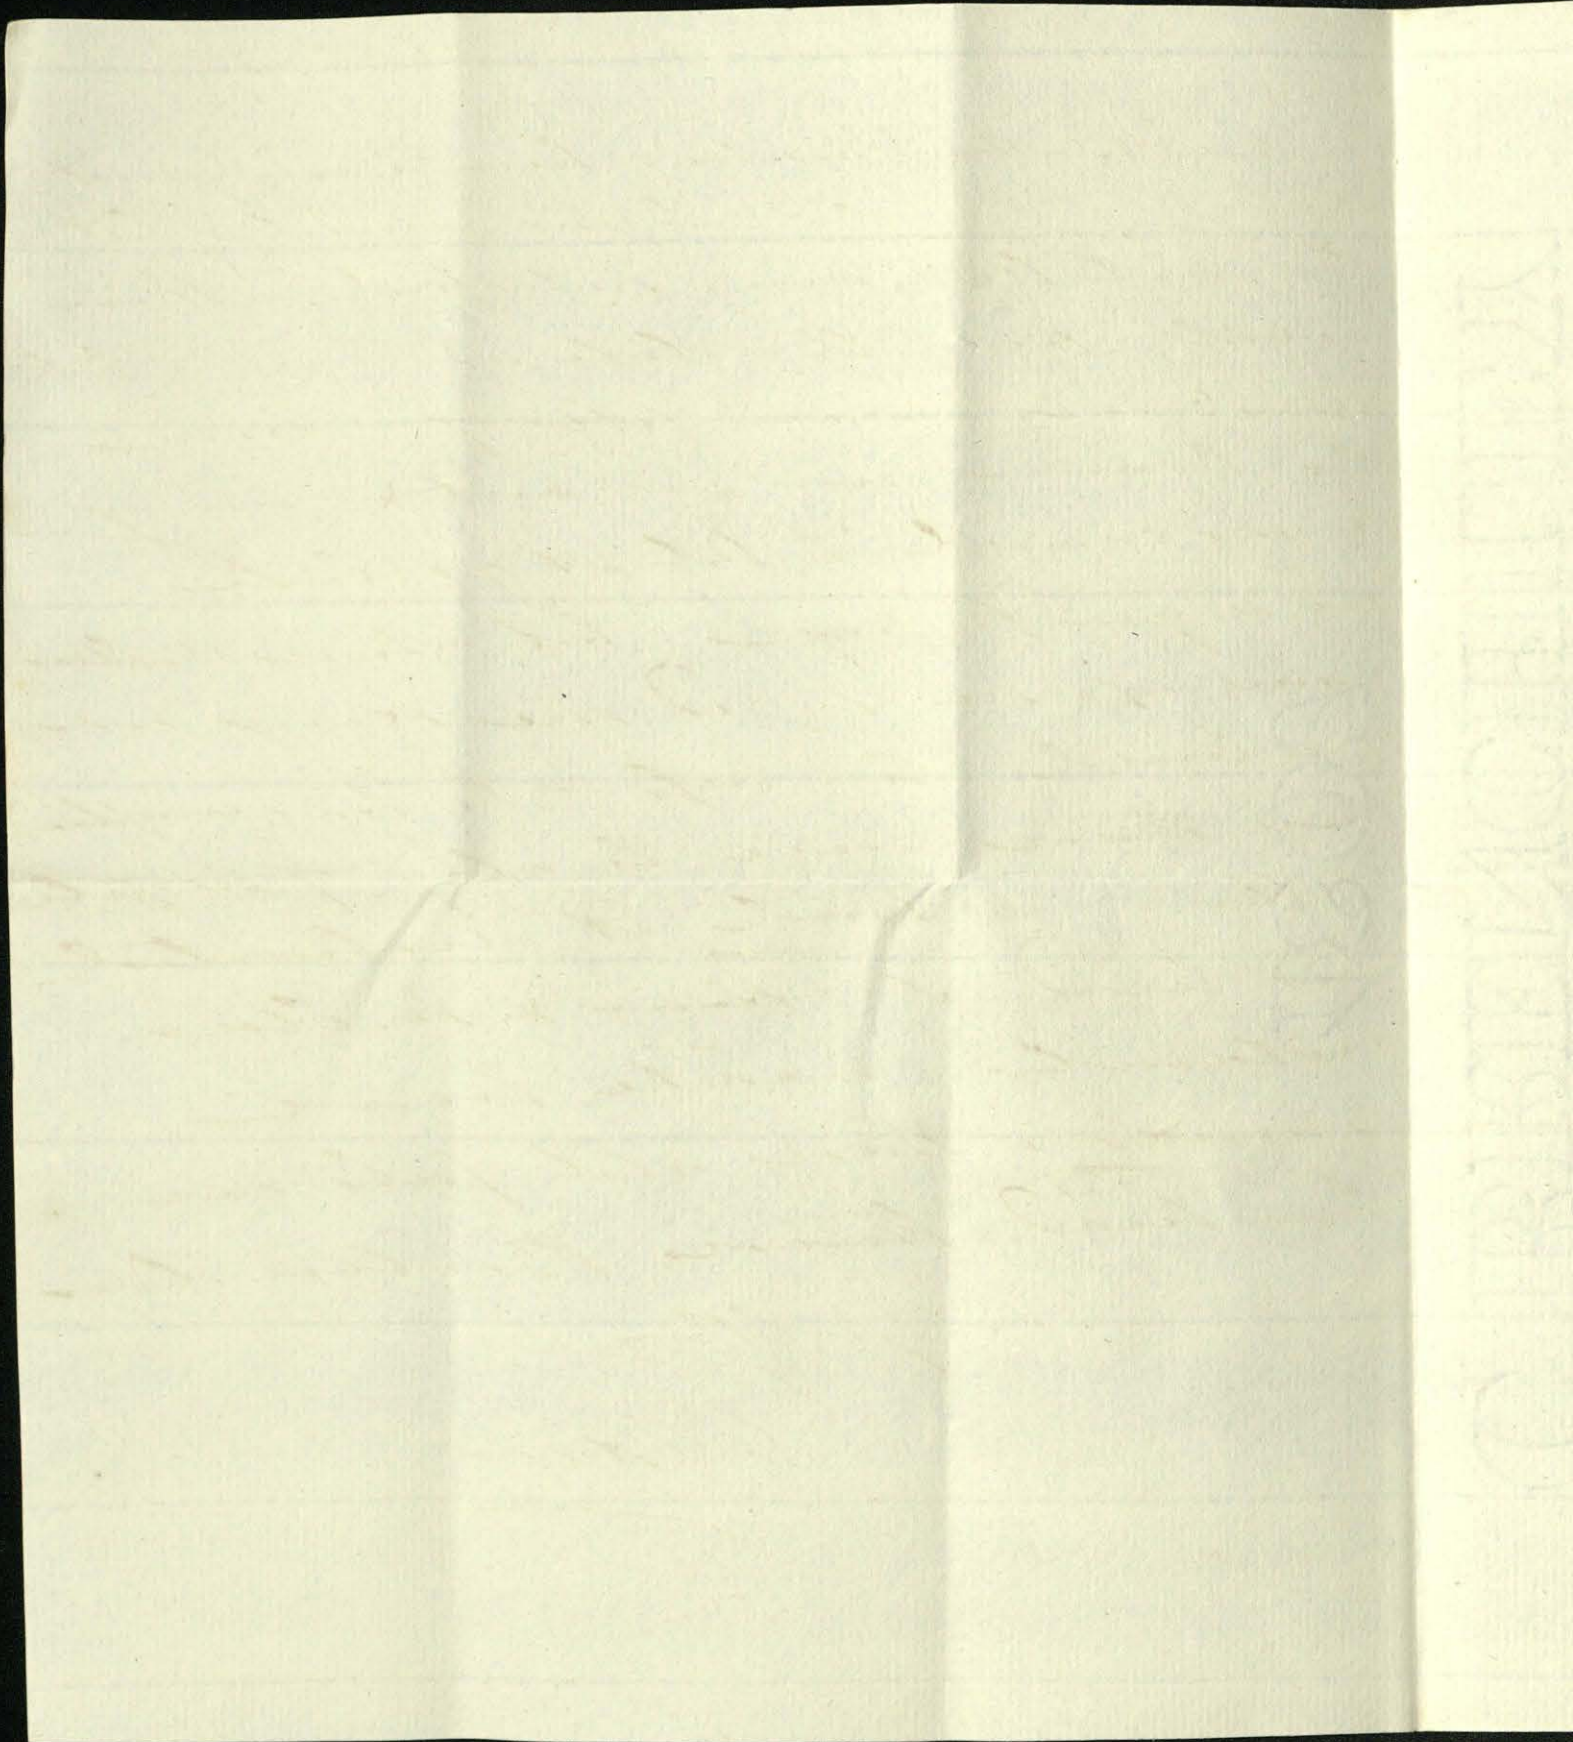

Med 17/6/182

Oct 17

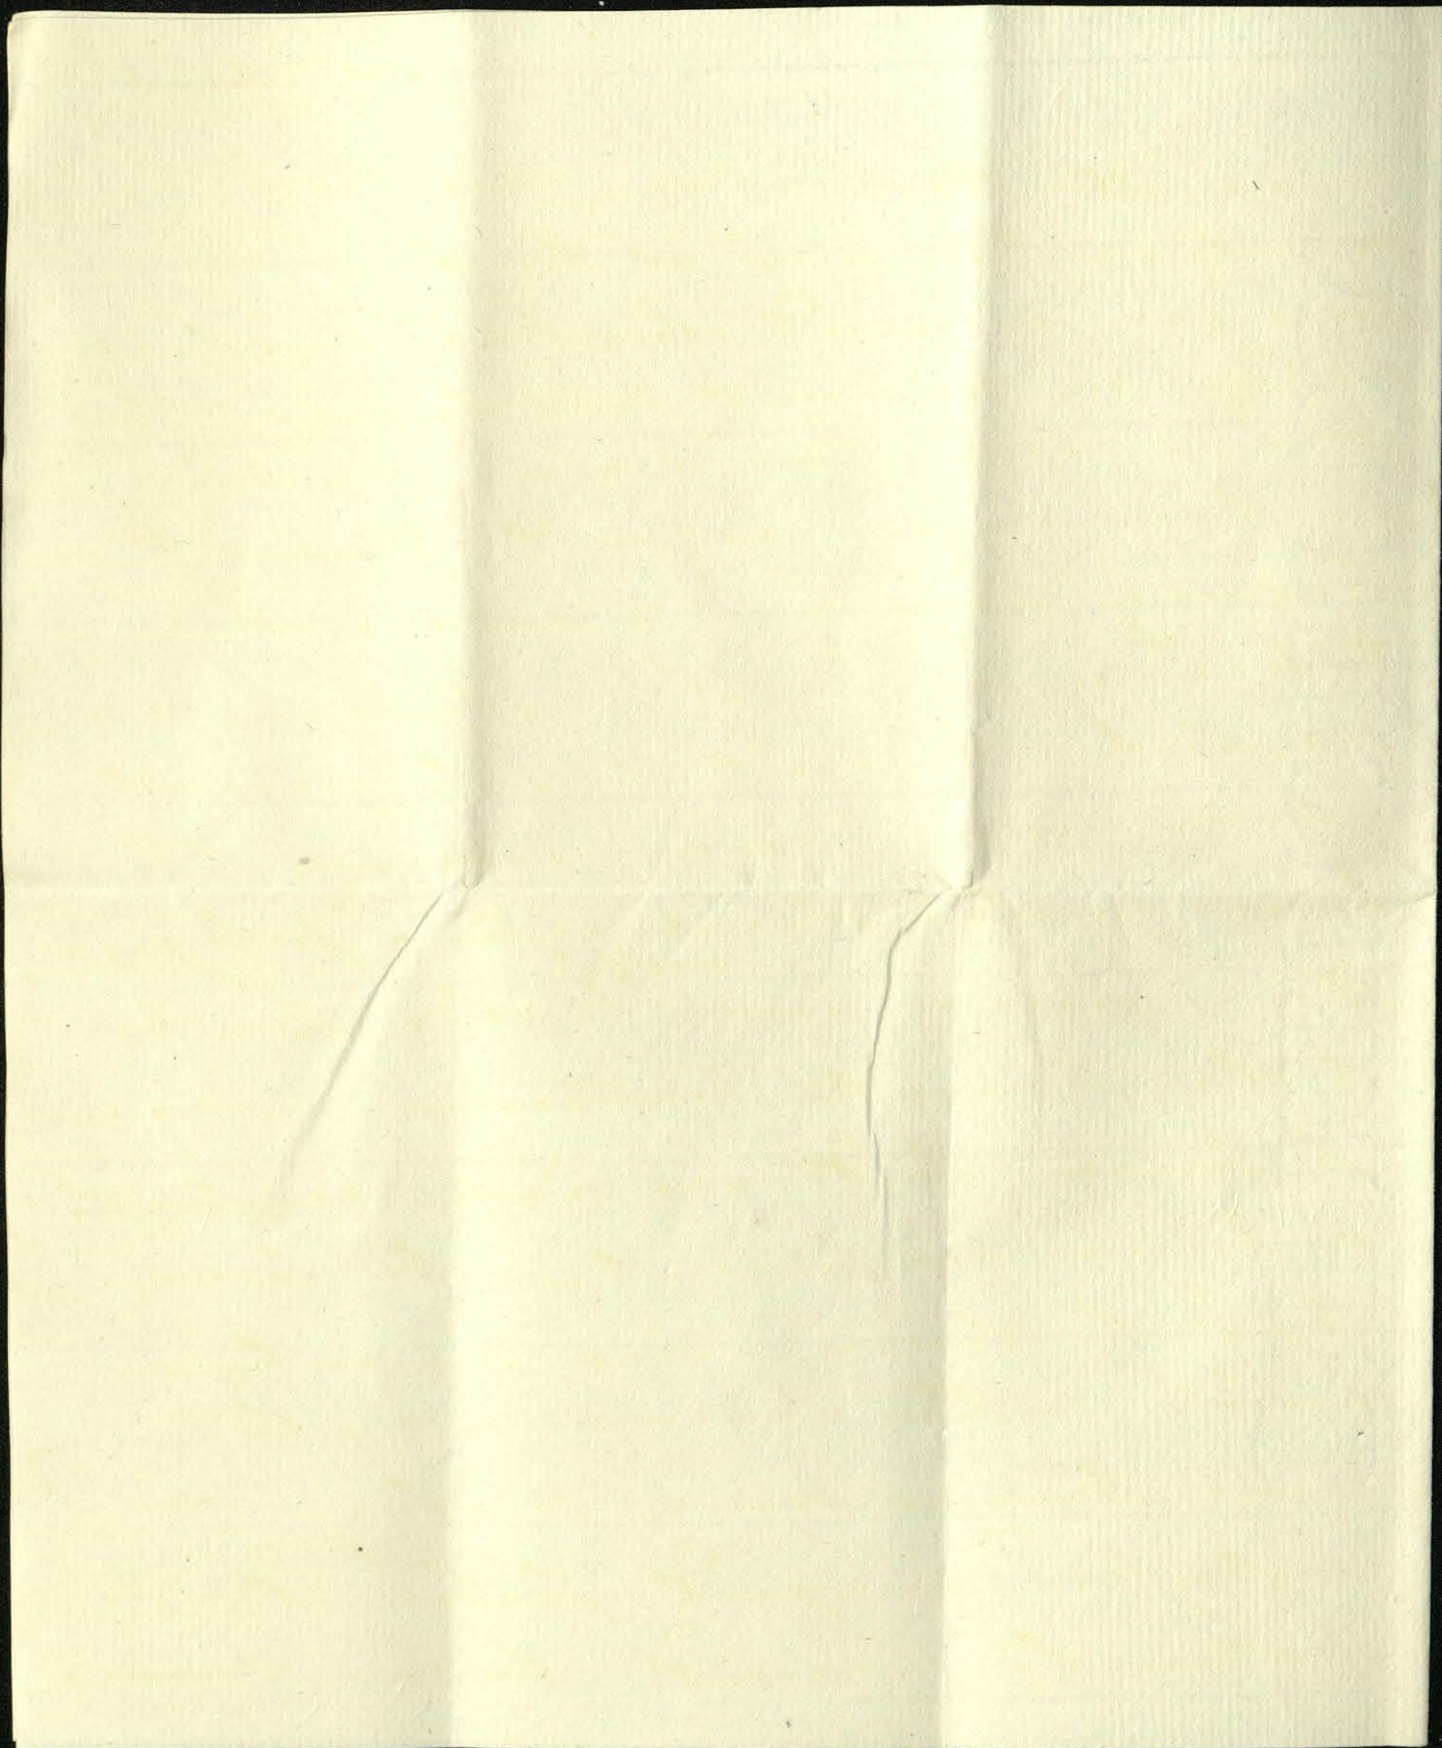

My dear Brother This has been a very quiet day very many as to the burial, but I am very satisfied with himself. He fell a sleep at three o'clock & did not awake till 4 o'clock he became very restless & stirring & was carried to bed at 5 o'clock in a great tray, but when rollers came up he seized the King and inclined to sleep - He has expressed some desire to stay of people talking to him it distressed his head - I hope King & rollers certainly make some secrets of these old fools in the bed than Boston does

Yours

Mary

BRITISH MUSEUM

ME017/6/183

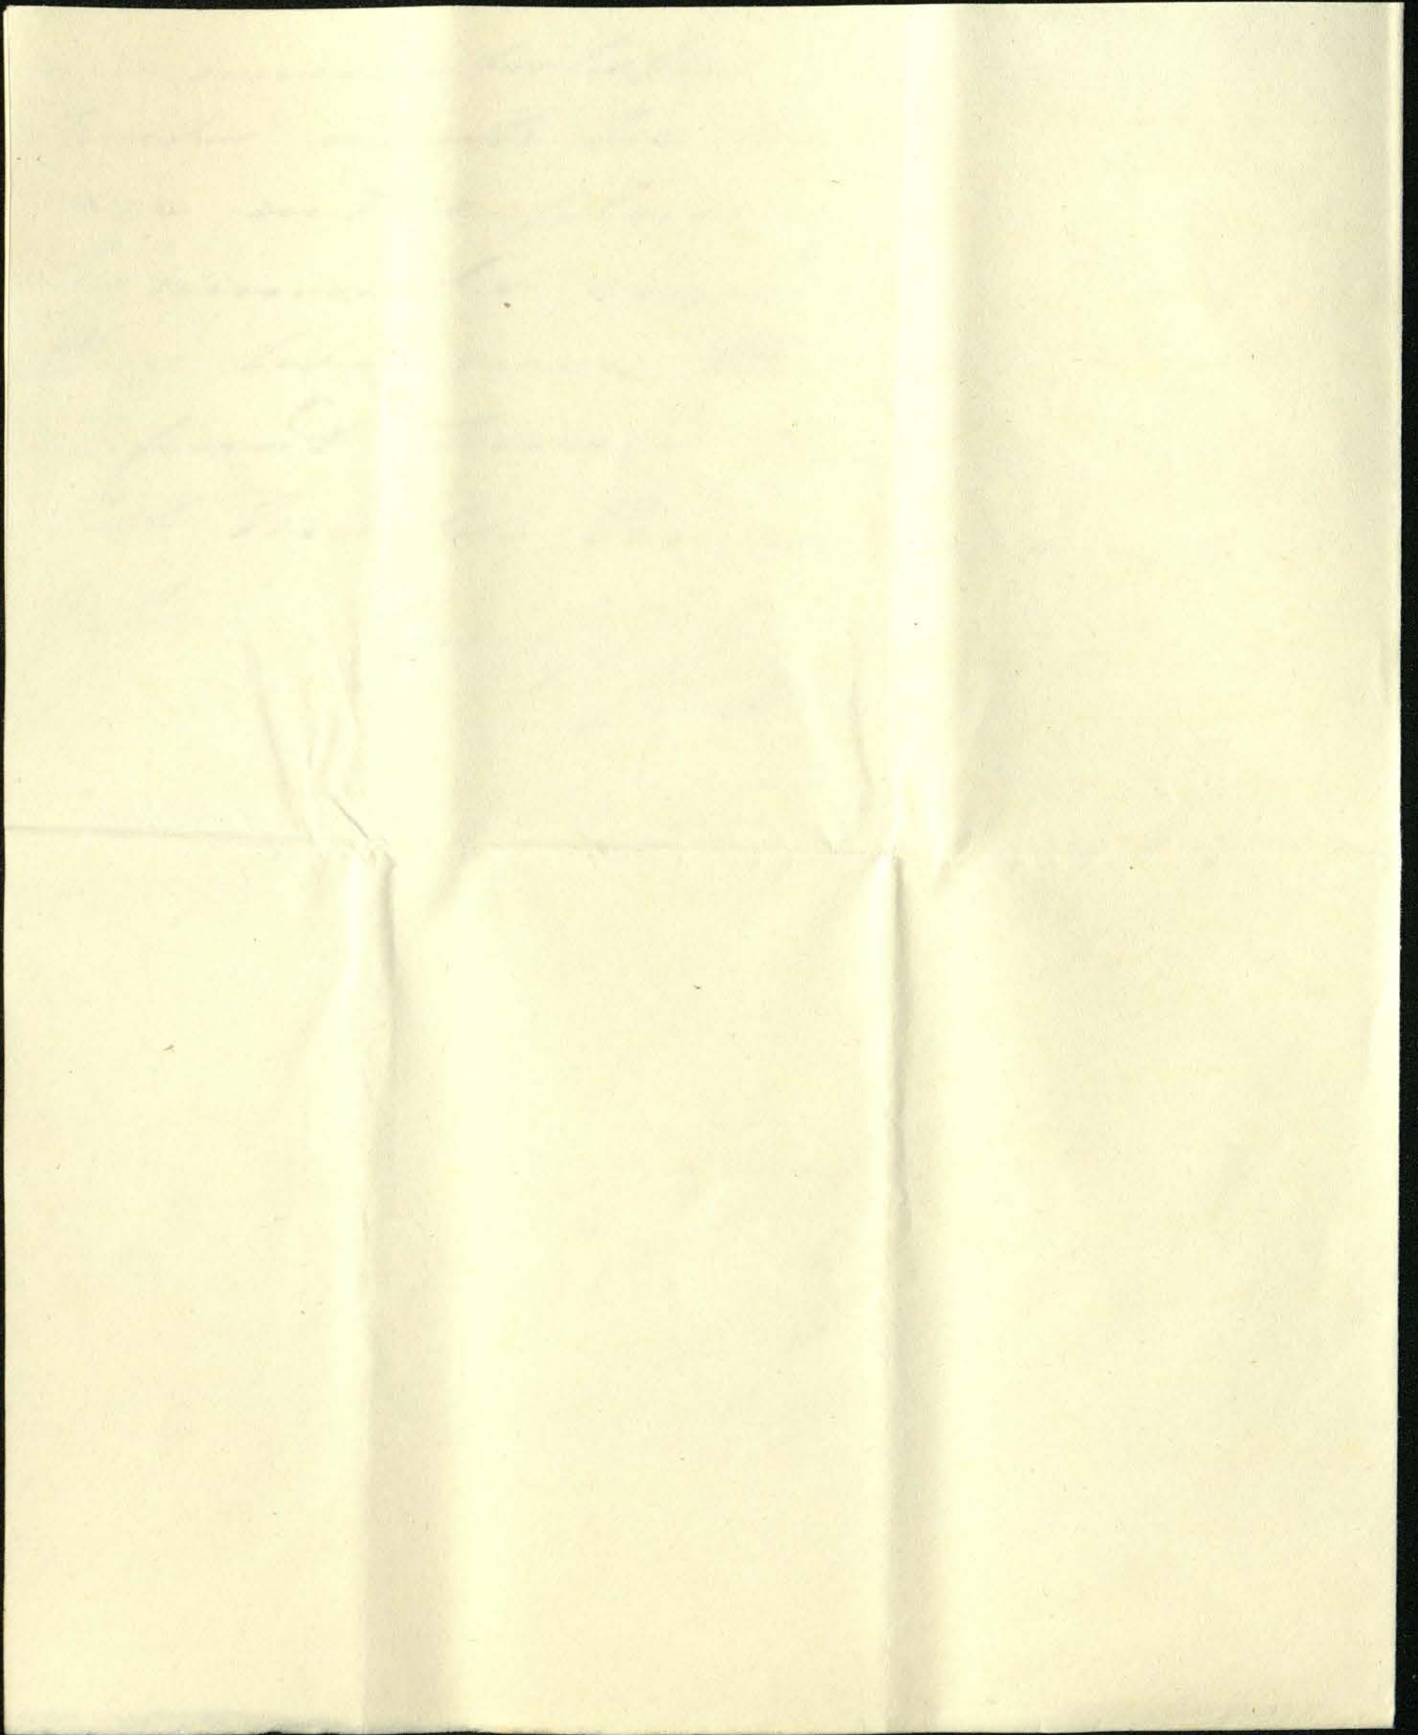

Oct^r the 18th -

My dear Brother nothing can have been more than this day as the King has been in a most dreadful irritable state, but no transit was kept off till five o'clock this evening, when he became so violent that it became necessary & was not taken ^{off} again till between 7 & 8 o'clock - He went to bed quietly which was more owing to being quite done up & fatigued than from being ^{really} calmer - As to the conduct nothing can be more lost in all respects in more confusion - He has begged to have his head rubbed with lavender water since there was to day and expressed comfort from it, he certainly cannot have more my unimpaired full in his hand which he will not in case not explain - Thomas & Symonds came to dinner they were near the King at different times this evening but made no remarks as yet -

George Macey

Handwritten text on the left edge of the page, including a large '2' and other illegible characters.

Faint, illegible handwritten text or markings on the right side of the page, possibly bleed-through from the reverse side.

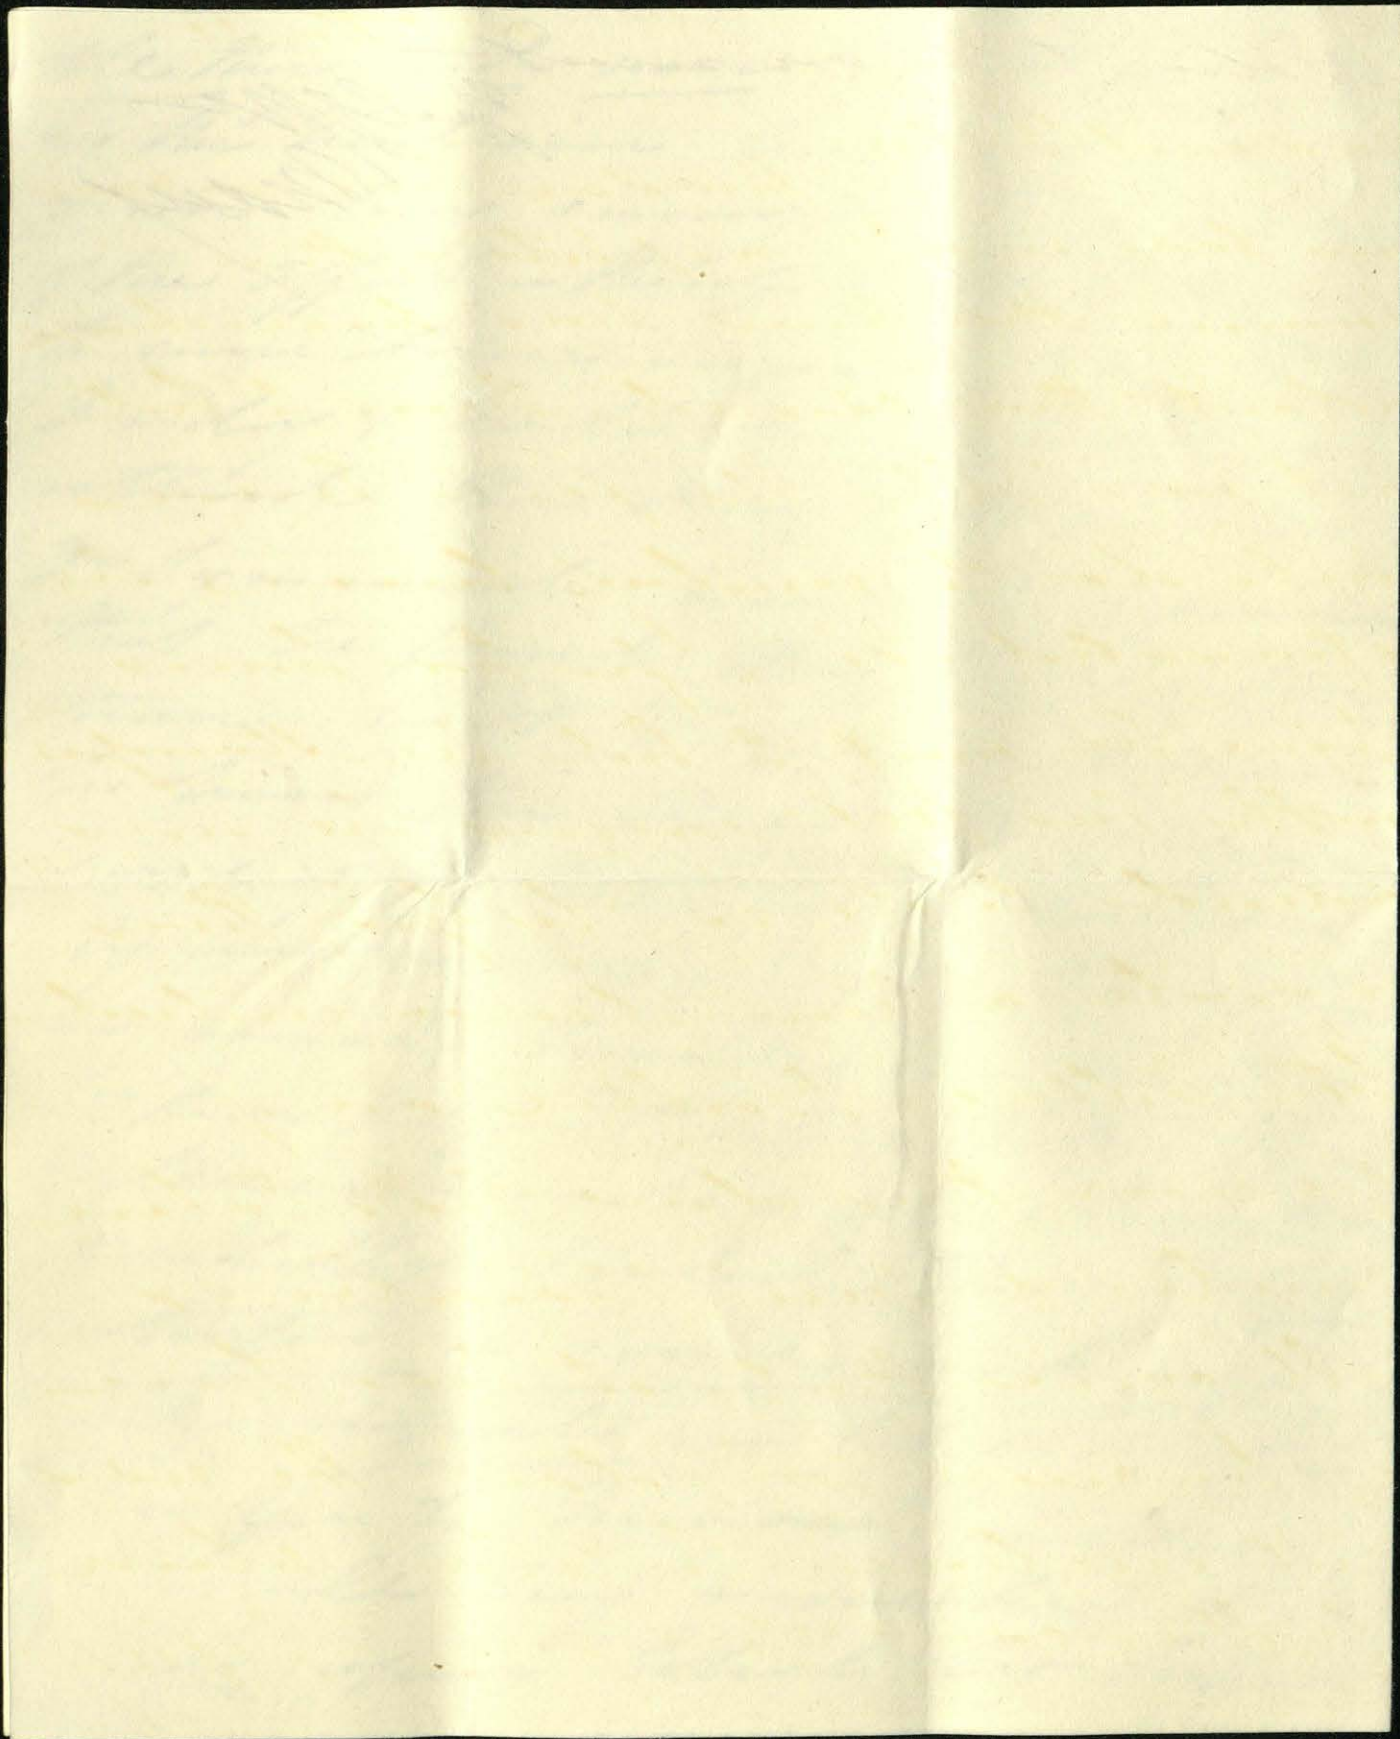

ME0/17/6/184

Oct 19

My dear Brother this day was here a very comfortable one, but not a pleasant one as the King was here at times very silent & quiet & but disturbed. The dinner was very bad & for a short time after a storm was feared but it went off & since then he has been more quiet, and to be in better humour, but began talking & laughing as after he got into bed that God's health would be well safe — The King's Council came down today they have agreed to the King's concerning as they used to do before this last violent Paragon before — they put the same questions to Quorum & Symon in writing they did last Saturday & the Queen says they answered them nearly the same that they could give her opinion till they had seen the King again to do is the decision but not here given any enough to judge of the effect - therefore they are to come down again next Friday & early enough to attend the King's dinner Dr Symonds wanted to prove that he found the King better than last Saturday because he heard the King enquire some of Dr Robertson's children by name, which the journal as usual made much of - Sir Henry Ralph & Collier Robertson Waller & Deane all heard decidedly stated they were interested a more with in all respects - but as I hope to see you to morrow I will have all my remarks & colours upon what was hoped

MEP/17/6/185

Oct 20

My dear Brother
This day has continued my bad in all respects & this morning the King has been ~~drudged~~ not that they carried down to bed & it was all the five men could do to undress him he struggled so & for two hours before he went to bed he stamped with his feet saying he was intend to do so by God, this is quite a new idea & indeed both Willis & Goulie are of opinion this day has taken quite a new character & all agree that it has been a stinking hot day - He was not inclined to sleep when Willis came up - Yours truly M. W. M. W.

Pray show this letter to Inward so it will save some the trouble of writing any other ~~letter~~

meo/17/6/186

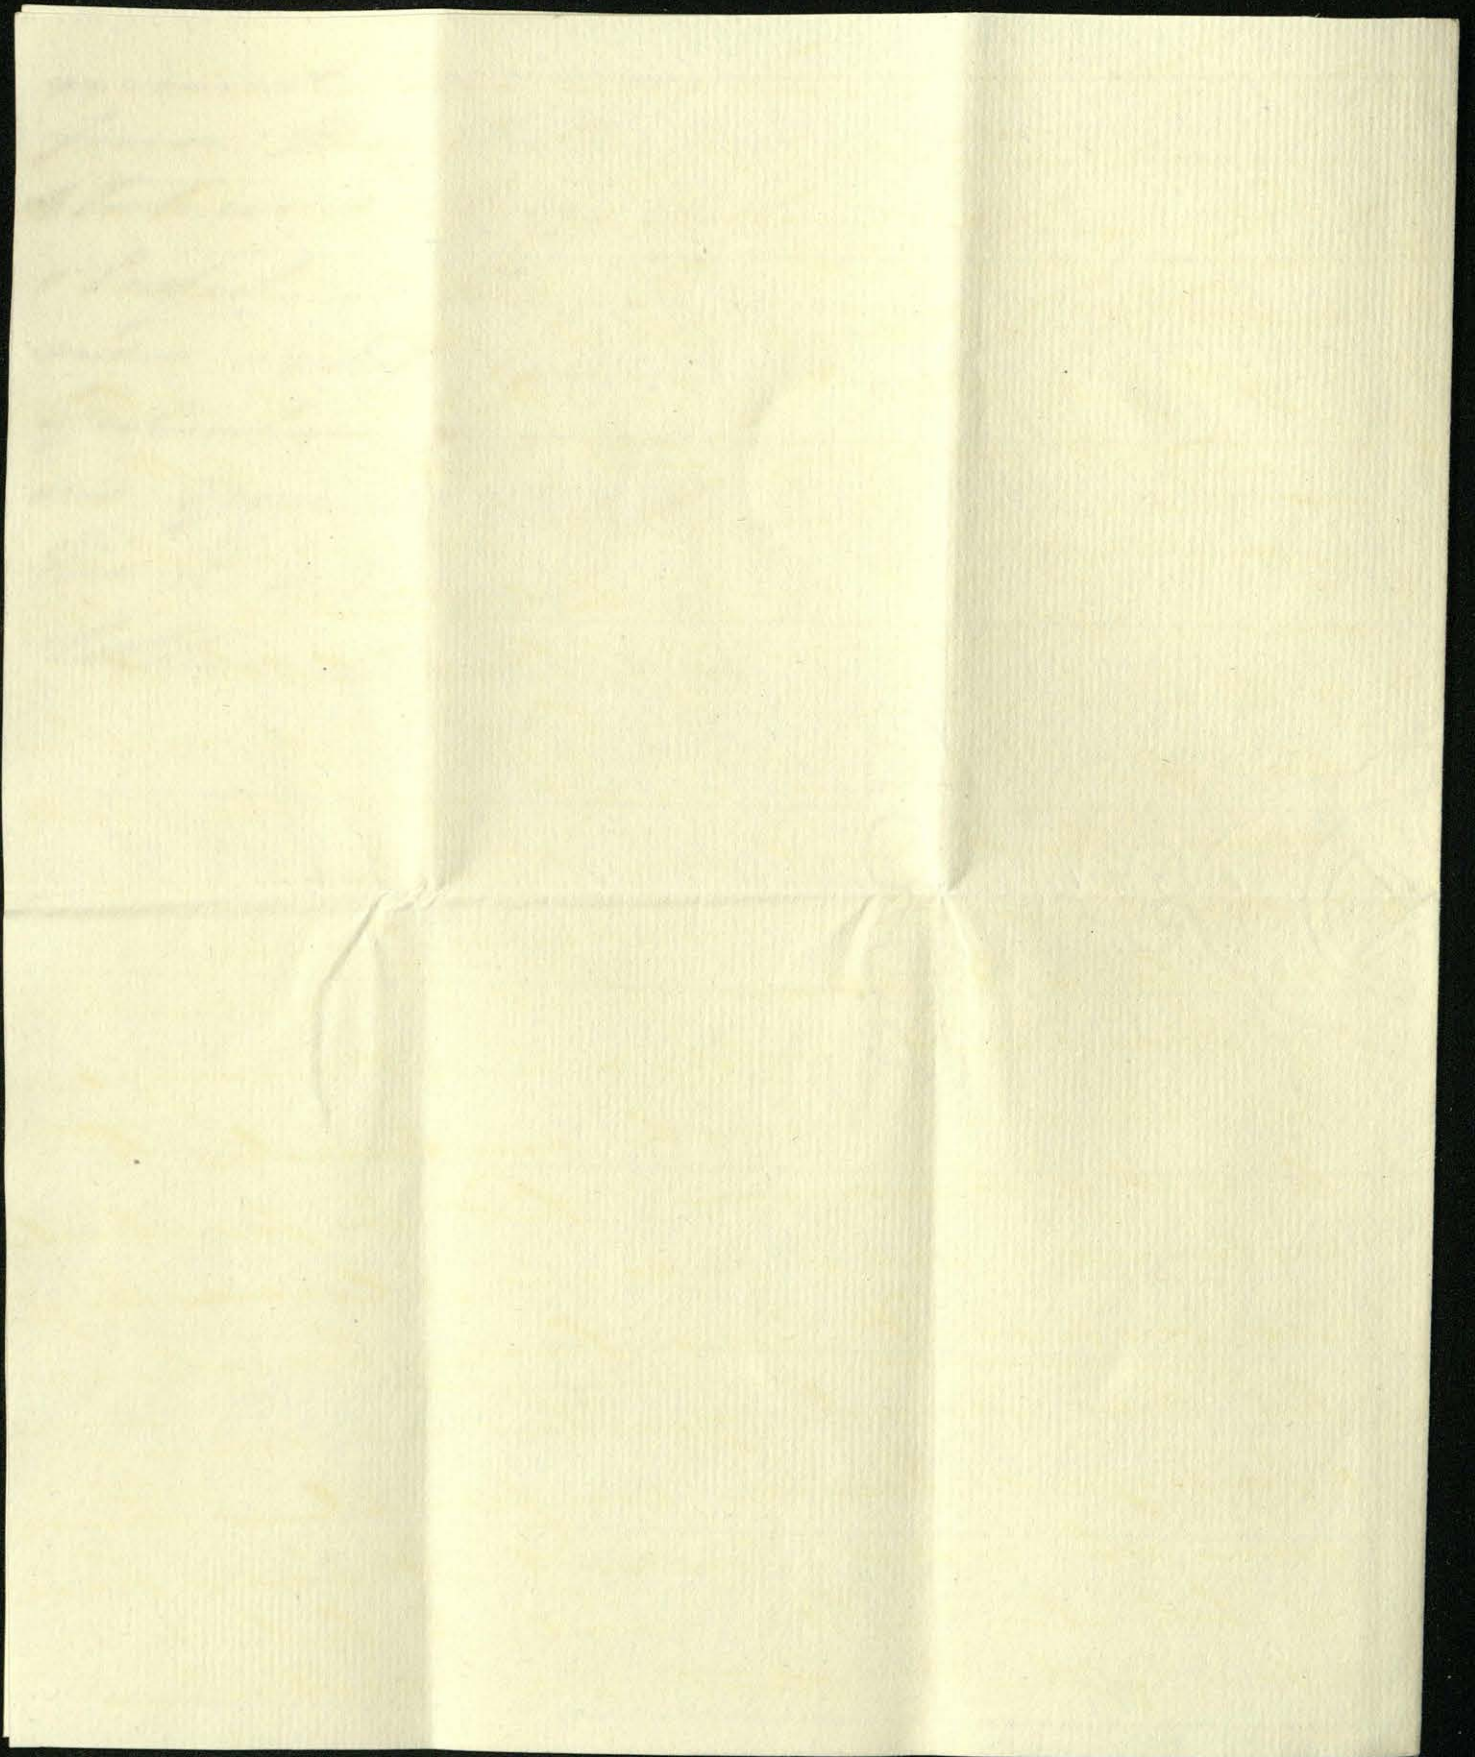

Oct 21st

My dear & Brother this has been very much such an other day as yesterday only rather less violence & the dinner was a shade better, but the irritation my great at times & the stamping with the feet came in to a great degree after his dinner at 4 o'clock he fell asleep & slept off in nearly till 9 o'clock awoke as usual in a most disturbed state walked quietly into the bed room where all the violence began & the moment he was in bed restless became uneasy as he would not keep in any thing & pulled all the clothes off the bed - therefore I suppose he will have a very hot night The King has been inclined to laugh a great deal at different times today - The dinner received an answer to your letter from the Archbishop this evening stating his orders should be obeyed - The Queen's letter was sent from Longwood yesterday & readily accepted as your little paper says I should see a copy of the letter to day -

Yours truly
W. M. M. M.

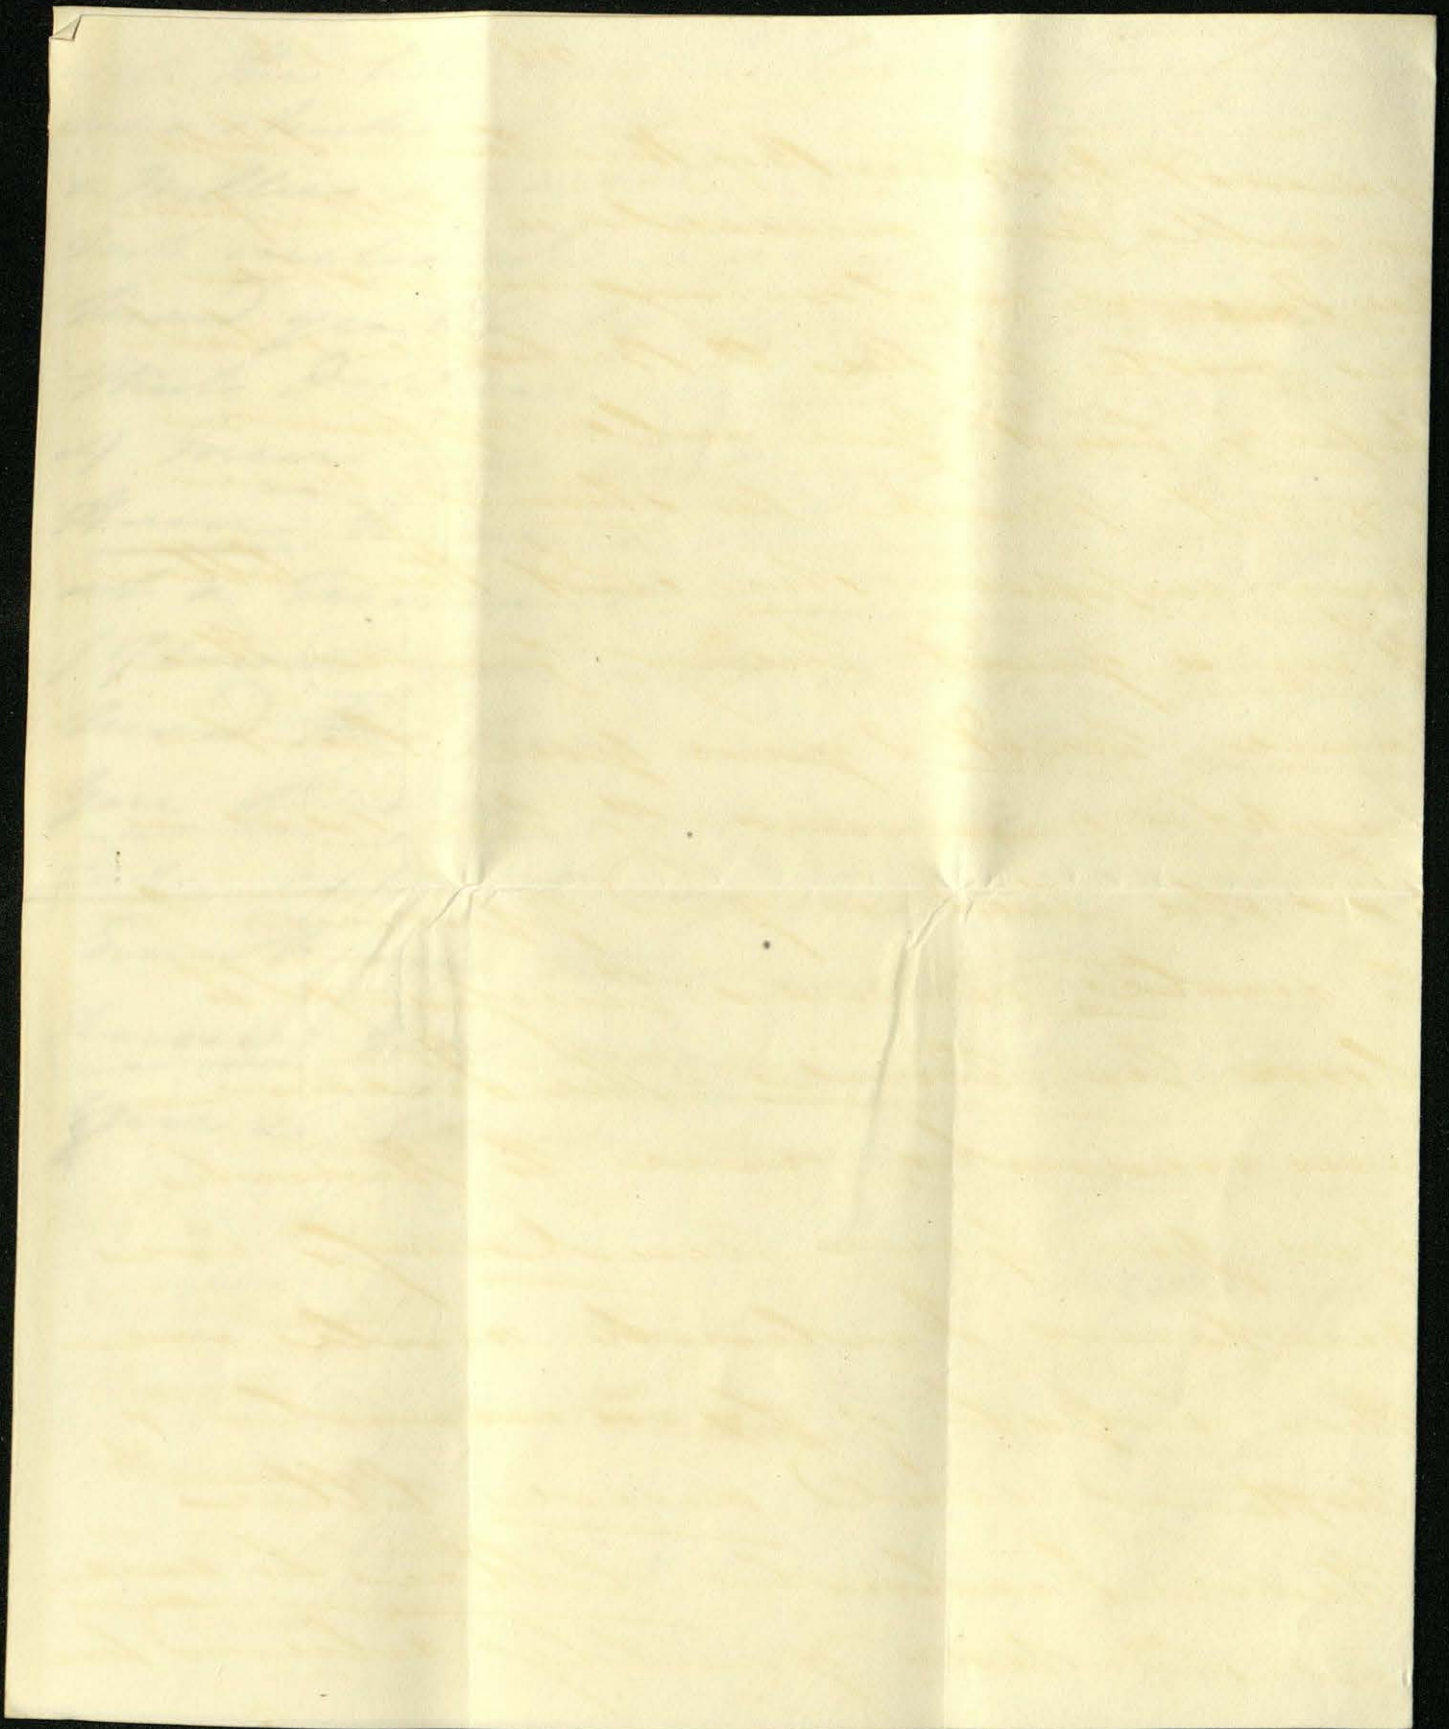

[Faint, illegible handwriting on lined paper, possibly bleed-through from the reverse side. The text is mostly obscured by the paper's texture and the binding.]

into the bed room, but the undressing was shaking us to considerable & Misses spent the day ever but inclined to sleep. I have heard quite by chance to day that Dr. Symonds was got 4 men in workings at his own House to come down with him at a moments warning, to Windsor I know you will not say you heard this from me, but I assure you it is so & above all things take care to say nothing to hurt us this subject you know my reason - God bless you & bless me yours
Mary

Impress
me
me
of our line under
me here my
me
H.
me
my

[Faint, illegible handwriting on lined paper, possibly bleed-through from the reverse side.]

ME01716/188

Oct. the 23

My dearest Brother By this time I hope you will have received a letter from the Queen enclosing me the two notes to the Archbishop which I hope & trust you will approve of & not think too strong. Your Aunt supposes she sent this letter W in a great hurry from the same time I gave you last night concerning the two cases - & as she had a good opportunity to write it was necessary to do so in time - The Queen consequently now to thank you for your kindness in making Irish notes on the subject of sympathy & nothing could arrive better than Irish letters to me as it was greatly valued by

24 I must as she flatters herself you will think she has done wisely in enclosing the letter she has wrote to the ~~parson~~ a Bishop, for she is very cunning & told me just before I received Sunderlands letter she should not put any till she heard from you. Her great object was that you should leave it in your power to inform the Chancellor when he comes to know that you had got a copy of her letter to the Archbishop & that the same messenger that took the letter to the Archbishop took the ^{copy} letter to you.
As she was in confidence I will tell you how I heard this most wonderful manoeuvring, nothing can be as well done as your handwriting Ireland notes & delighted that I saw any thing & read the poor creature quite comfortable to bed - He had passed a very comfortable bed day any evening at times, but not quite so well as the day before - He arrived in a most shocking state & the disease was particularly bad in all respects stamping with his feet & talking of leaving which off we had lasted all day he fell & sleep at six o'clock & awoke in pain at 8 they had come to bed he walked quickly into the bed room, but was pained in undressing - The heavy frosts that arrived of proportion in a severe disturbed state. He when he left us -

Pray excuse the long short paper & when we are together

Mary

The Prince Regent
Carlton House

He finds the King here & looks & looking much older & more ill in that face than when he left us Saturday, it is the general opinion of the Queen, Poyer & Taylor that the last fortnight has been worse & more but this last week since last Saturday the King has been doing by looking ground much is the general opinion his Majesty, Poyer & Taylor & this has been strongly confirmed by Sir Henry Hallifax & they also never has left the King room & is going to rest up to night that he seems to be able to have any particular to state to Seymour & himself to dinner & be up to all the questions the general may ask since Saturday The Queen was delighted with your truly kind letter in answer to hers & she appears quite happy you

meo/17/6/190

Oct 25

My dearest Brother through this day began so stormy & so violent, the King calmed down by degrees & all things considered this has been the quietest day that the ^{King has passed} ~~King has passed~~ this week, which is truly unfortunate. The French they were being at Windsor, Lord John Grey, Dalrymple & others say that if James & Symonds have any sincerity about them, they have seen quite enough to prove the absolute state of the bound & that the general health is much shook with the inevitability of the last week - the King eat but very little dinner & all the errors have been strongly marked throughout the day, but in a violent manner - he went to bed quietly & slept a sleep at 10 o'clock - he has complained some times once to day of feeling any pain & loss, which for Henry stands as the affair of the Indecence & a strong proof why it might be the last - as yet Symonds & Munro have made no remark as to how they found the King - but Symonds went out of his way to tell Wallis he was very sorry to find any request of his to the Council had given so much trouble Wallis must wisely said he did not understand what he meant, for all he had heard in the report was that the order the Council left with them last Saturday was done away by her other he needed ~~particular~~ hearing & then by that Wallis went it to Symonds & Munro Munro expressed some Symonds had made any request to see the alone & without leave as he was, in case and to the Sir Henry & Wallis think your judgment is that he has heard from the Council for he has hardly spoke at all & kept mouth more tight than the last time he was at Windsor The Queen has had an answer to her letter to the Archbishop but even an acknowledgment that he has received it which he certainly might have done without saying one word more God bless you

God bless
Mary

[Faint, illegible handwritten text, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.]

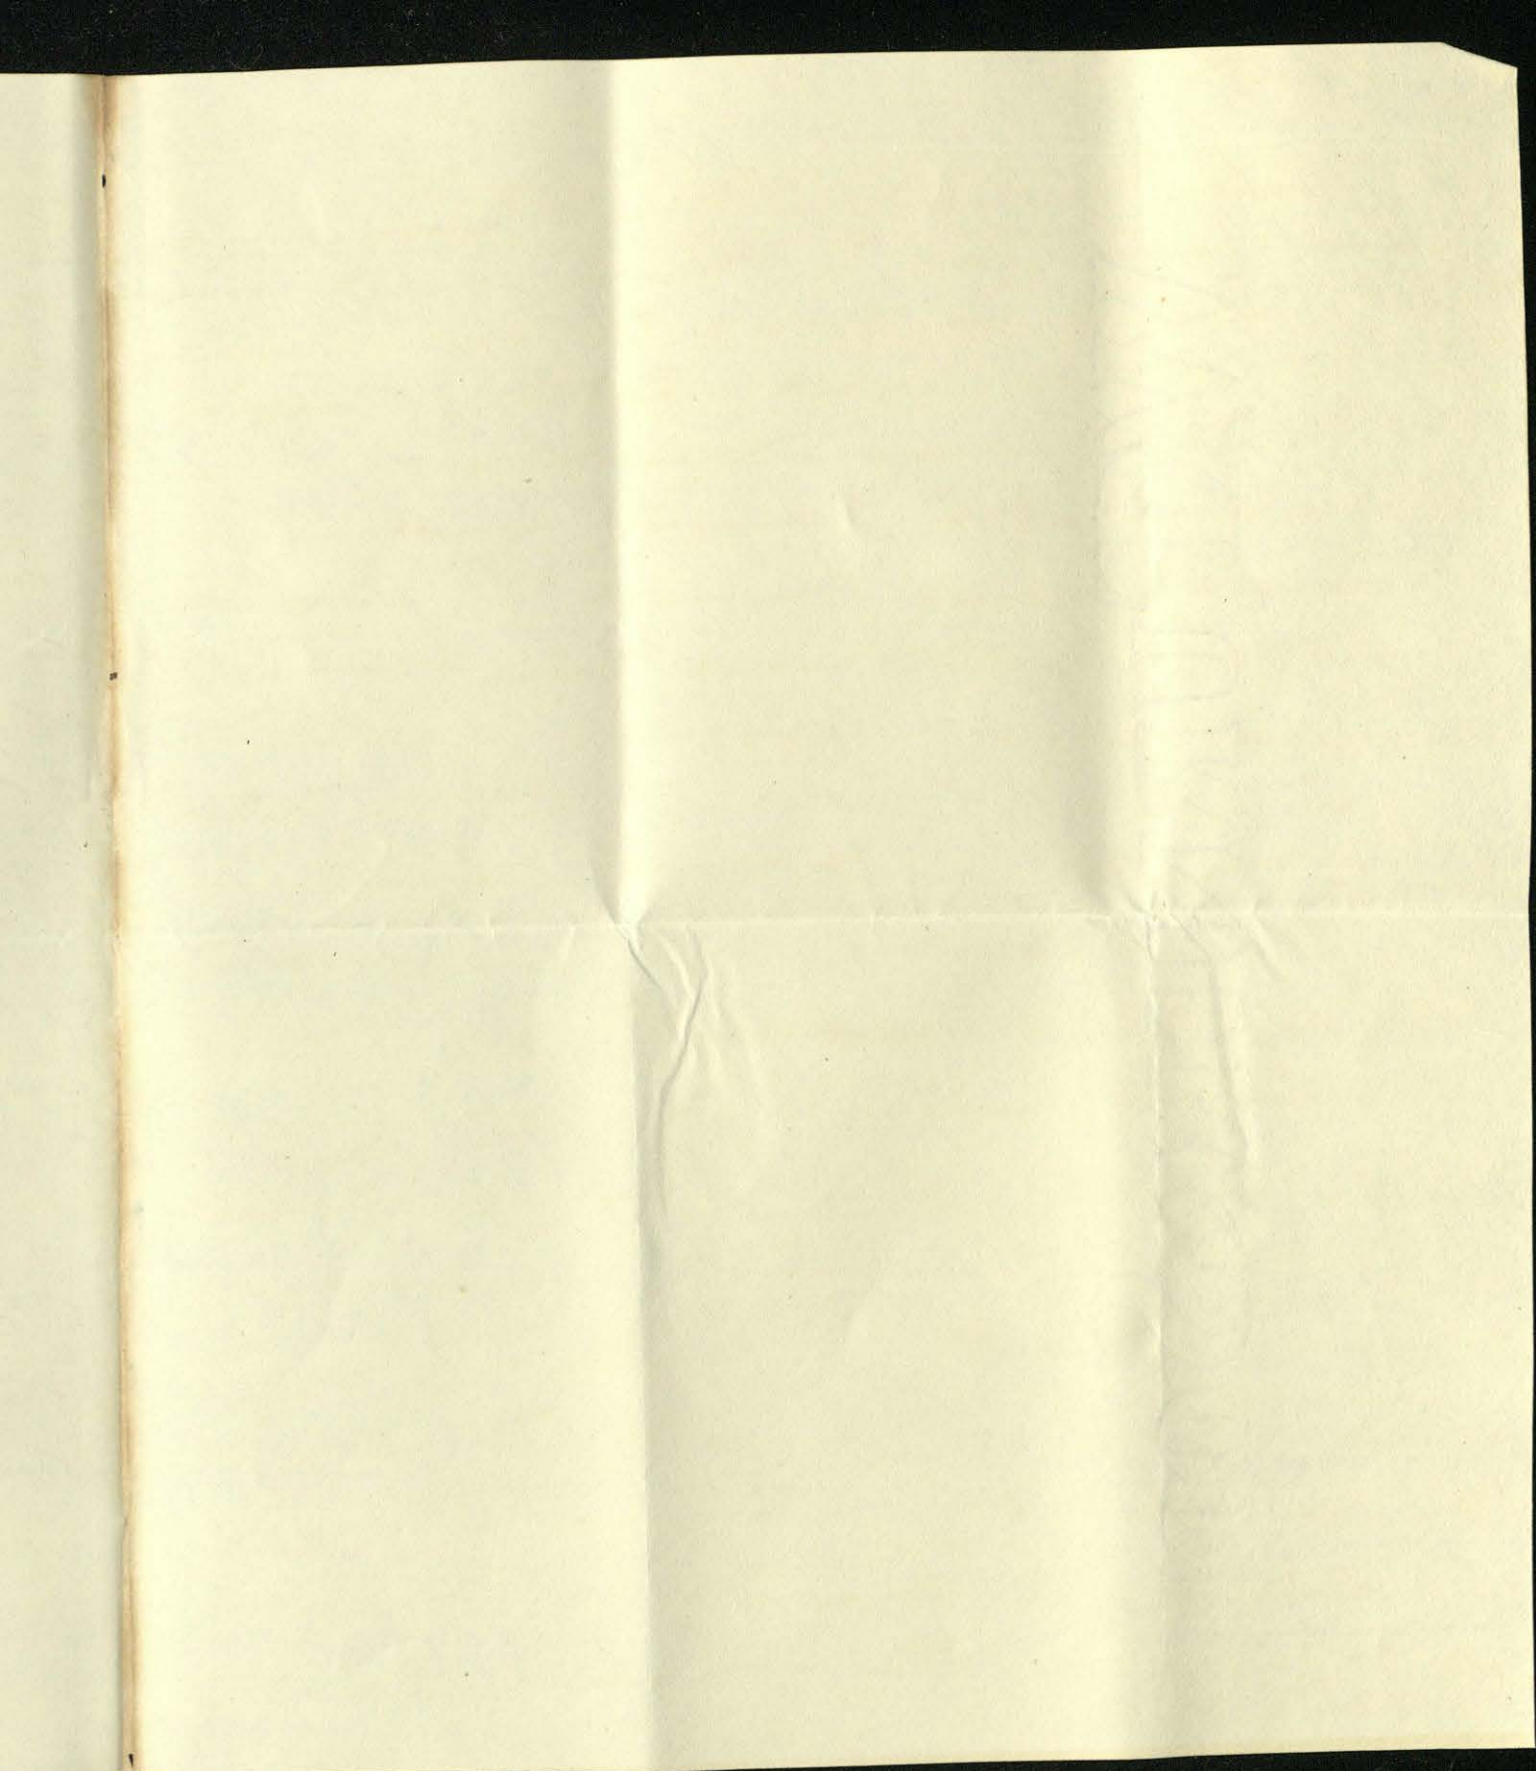

MSO/17/6/191

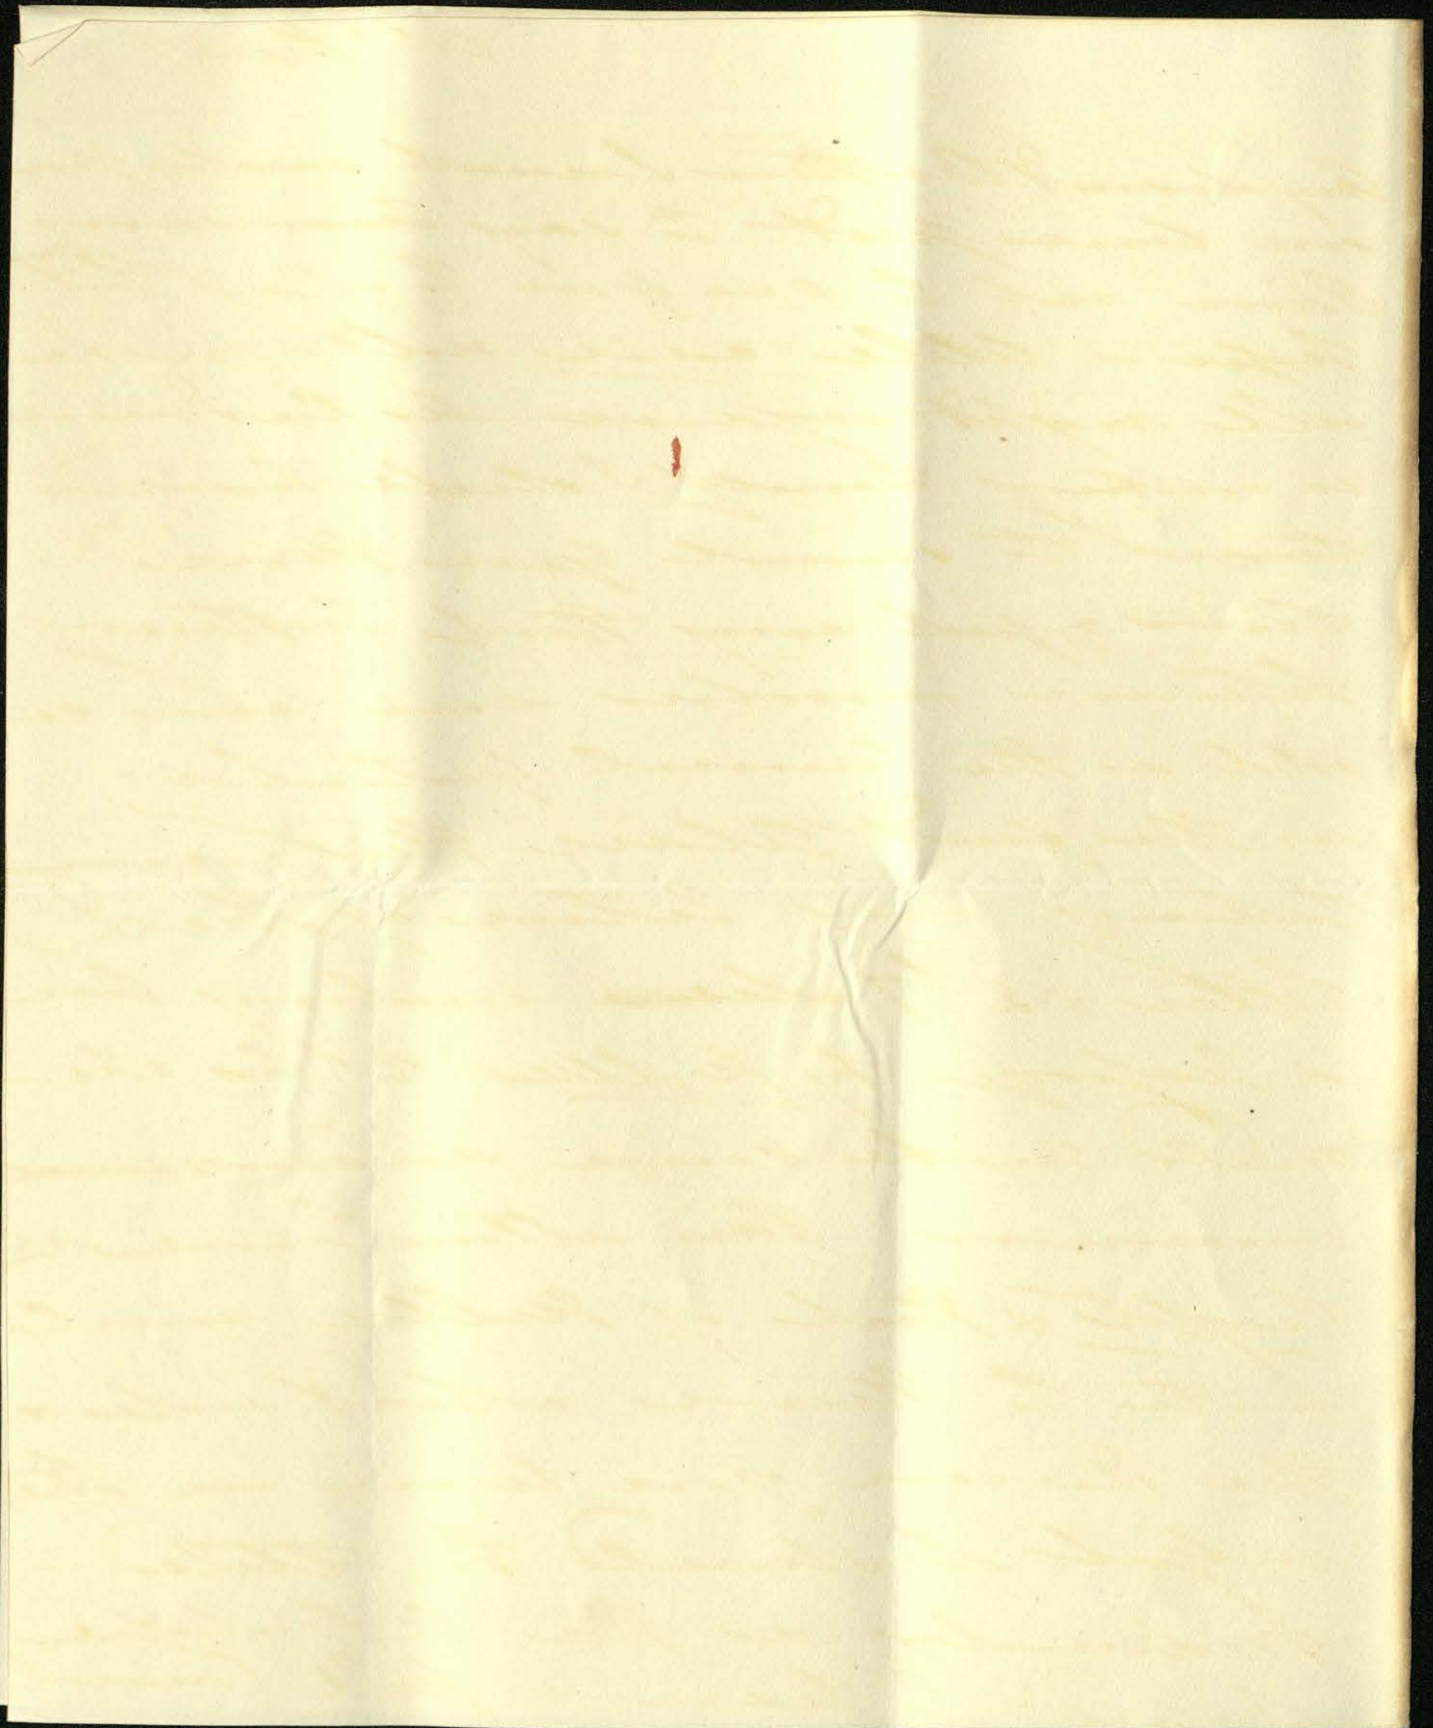

Oct 27

My dear Mr. B. I have this day as I told you in my letter which went by your servant by your strongy, but after the King got dressed & went into his great room he calmed down & the day was very quiet & silent since, what
- ever he had said perfectly wrong but in volume - He dropped a sleep at of this evening & did not awake till 9 when they desired him to go to bed which caused a silent I think he was carried to bed & when Muller came up the K was not inclined to go to sleep -

Yours
W. P. Mackay

The new idea taken up to day is that of George Hall is falling down & part of the Servant he had spoke of it often but with perfect indifference.

Ms0117/61/192

Oct^r the 27

My dear Mr. Brotherton I must write you one line just to say how sorry I am not to see you to day but hope a little ease will make all right again. As the Queen is unwell herself I shall have to send you some lines to put my kind greetings between ourselves even as old as the journal yesterday in the first place the Queen taking any notice of the Letter & 2 by Miss reading her a message by Miss & by she will make some arrangements concerning her attendance at Bright & that if Miss will write to Miss about unless the Queen goes down on the subject it should be settled Wednesday as the Archbishop hoped to have a full Council

I hope you will give your opinion strongly to the Chancellor & do & make no secret that you have got copies of all the letters the I had write to her journal & that the I read them to you (which is a fact) before the a Barber could have received her's from her — & I trust you will show all the letters on write with temper — the R is in a mind over the state to day & leaped a shanking but might in all respects — I have write & send you need but show her the letters

Yours
M. J.

[Faint, illegible handwritten text, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.]

meo/n/6/193

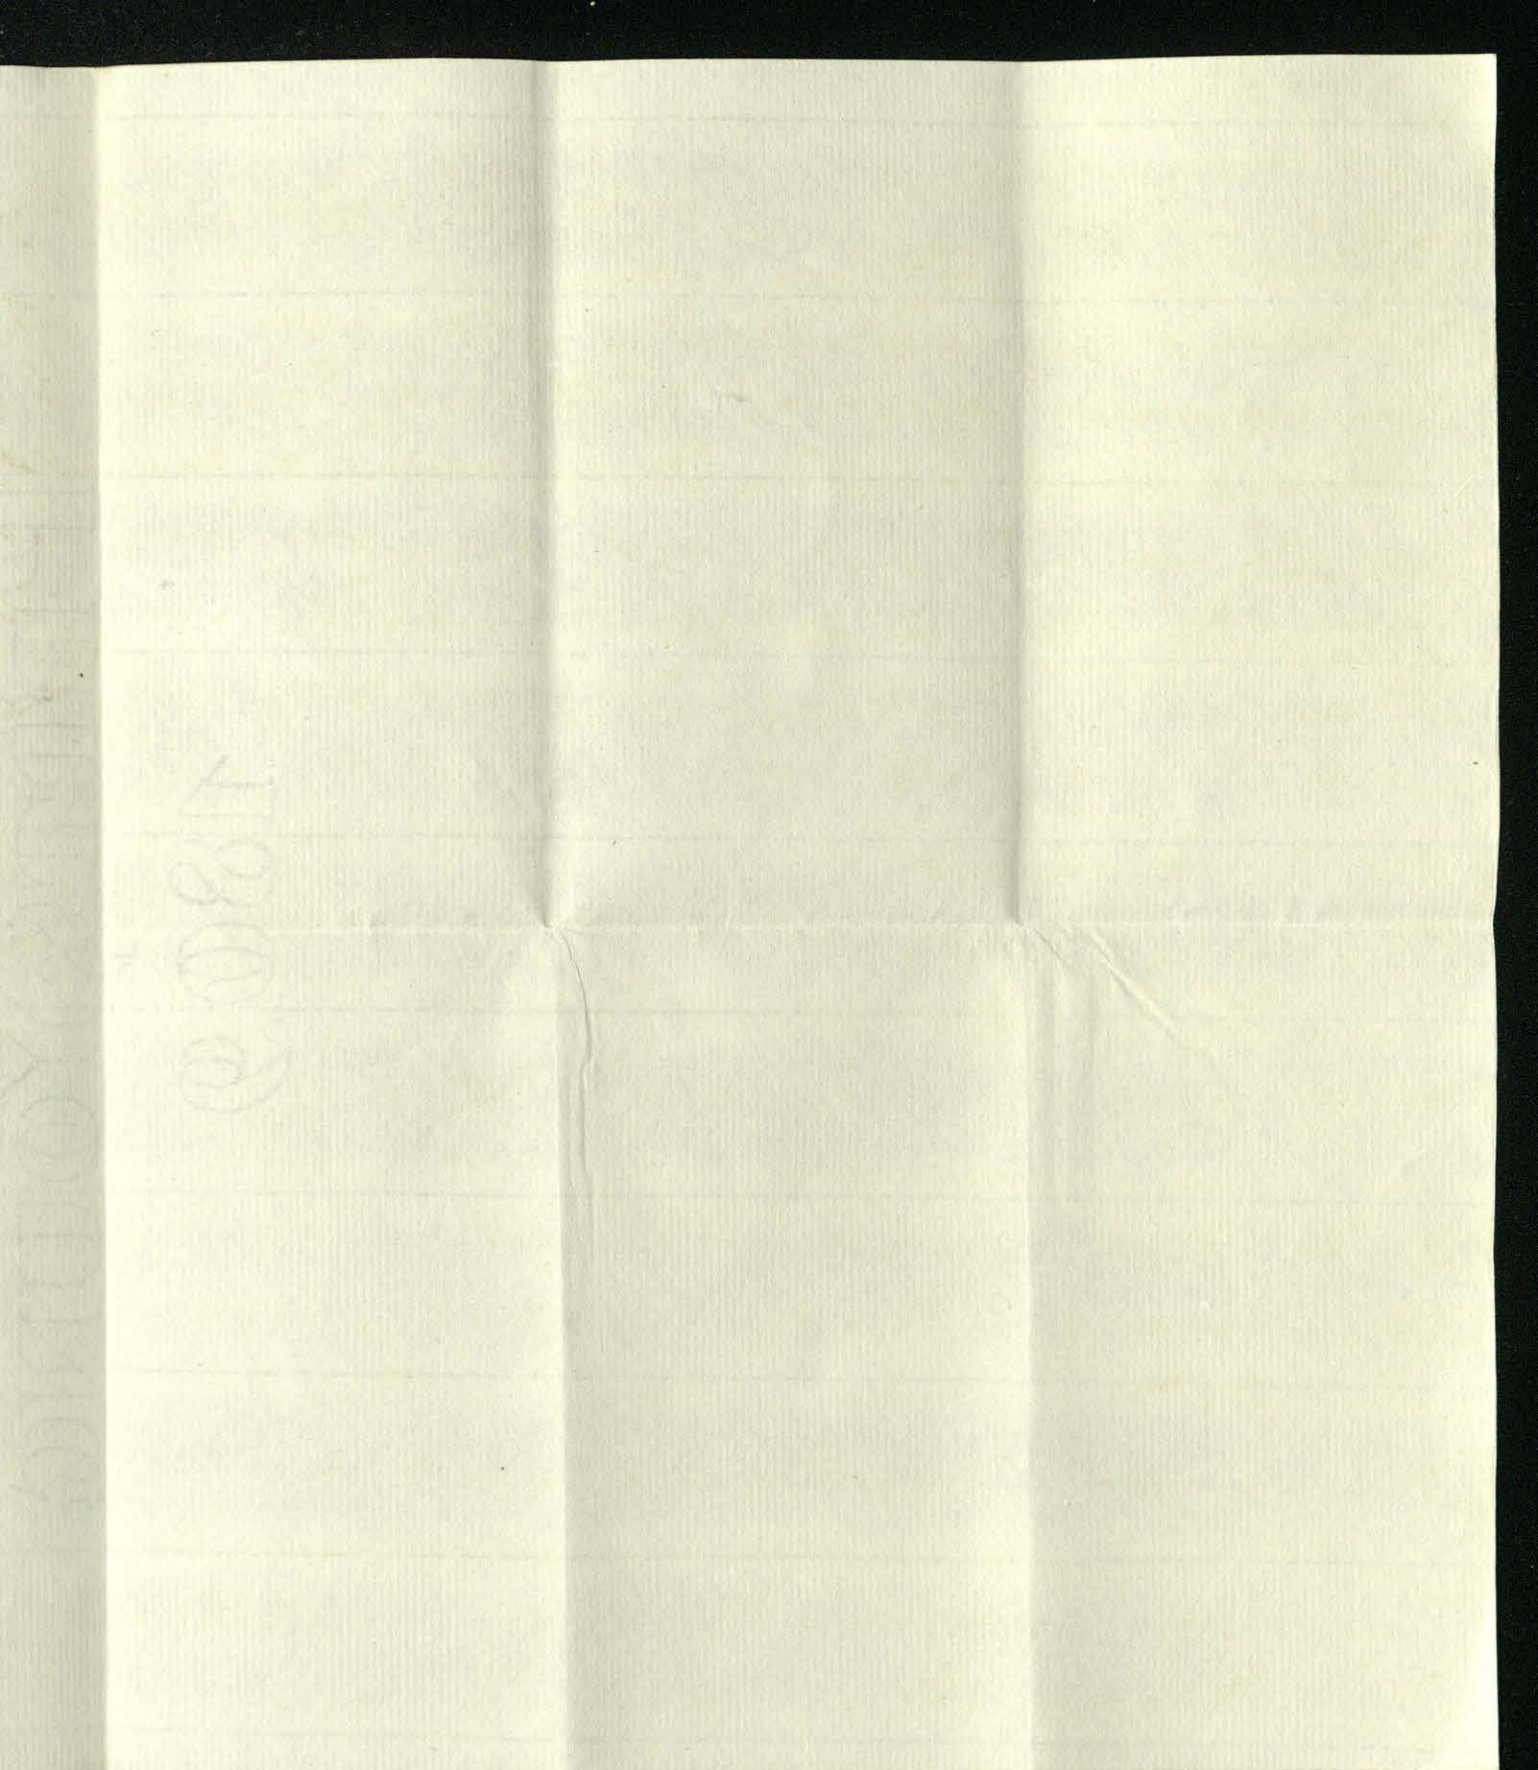

My dear Brother

I have written very hurriedly to you but that the R. would be told quietly & dropped a sleep at 10 o'clock - The mind is just in the same state certainly no better in appearance for the quiet of this day -

Yours
W. J.

out - the 2d -

[Faint, illegible handwriting on lined paper, possibly bleed-through from the reverse side.]

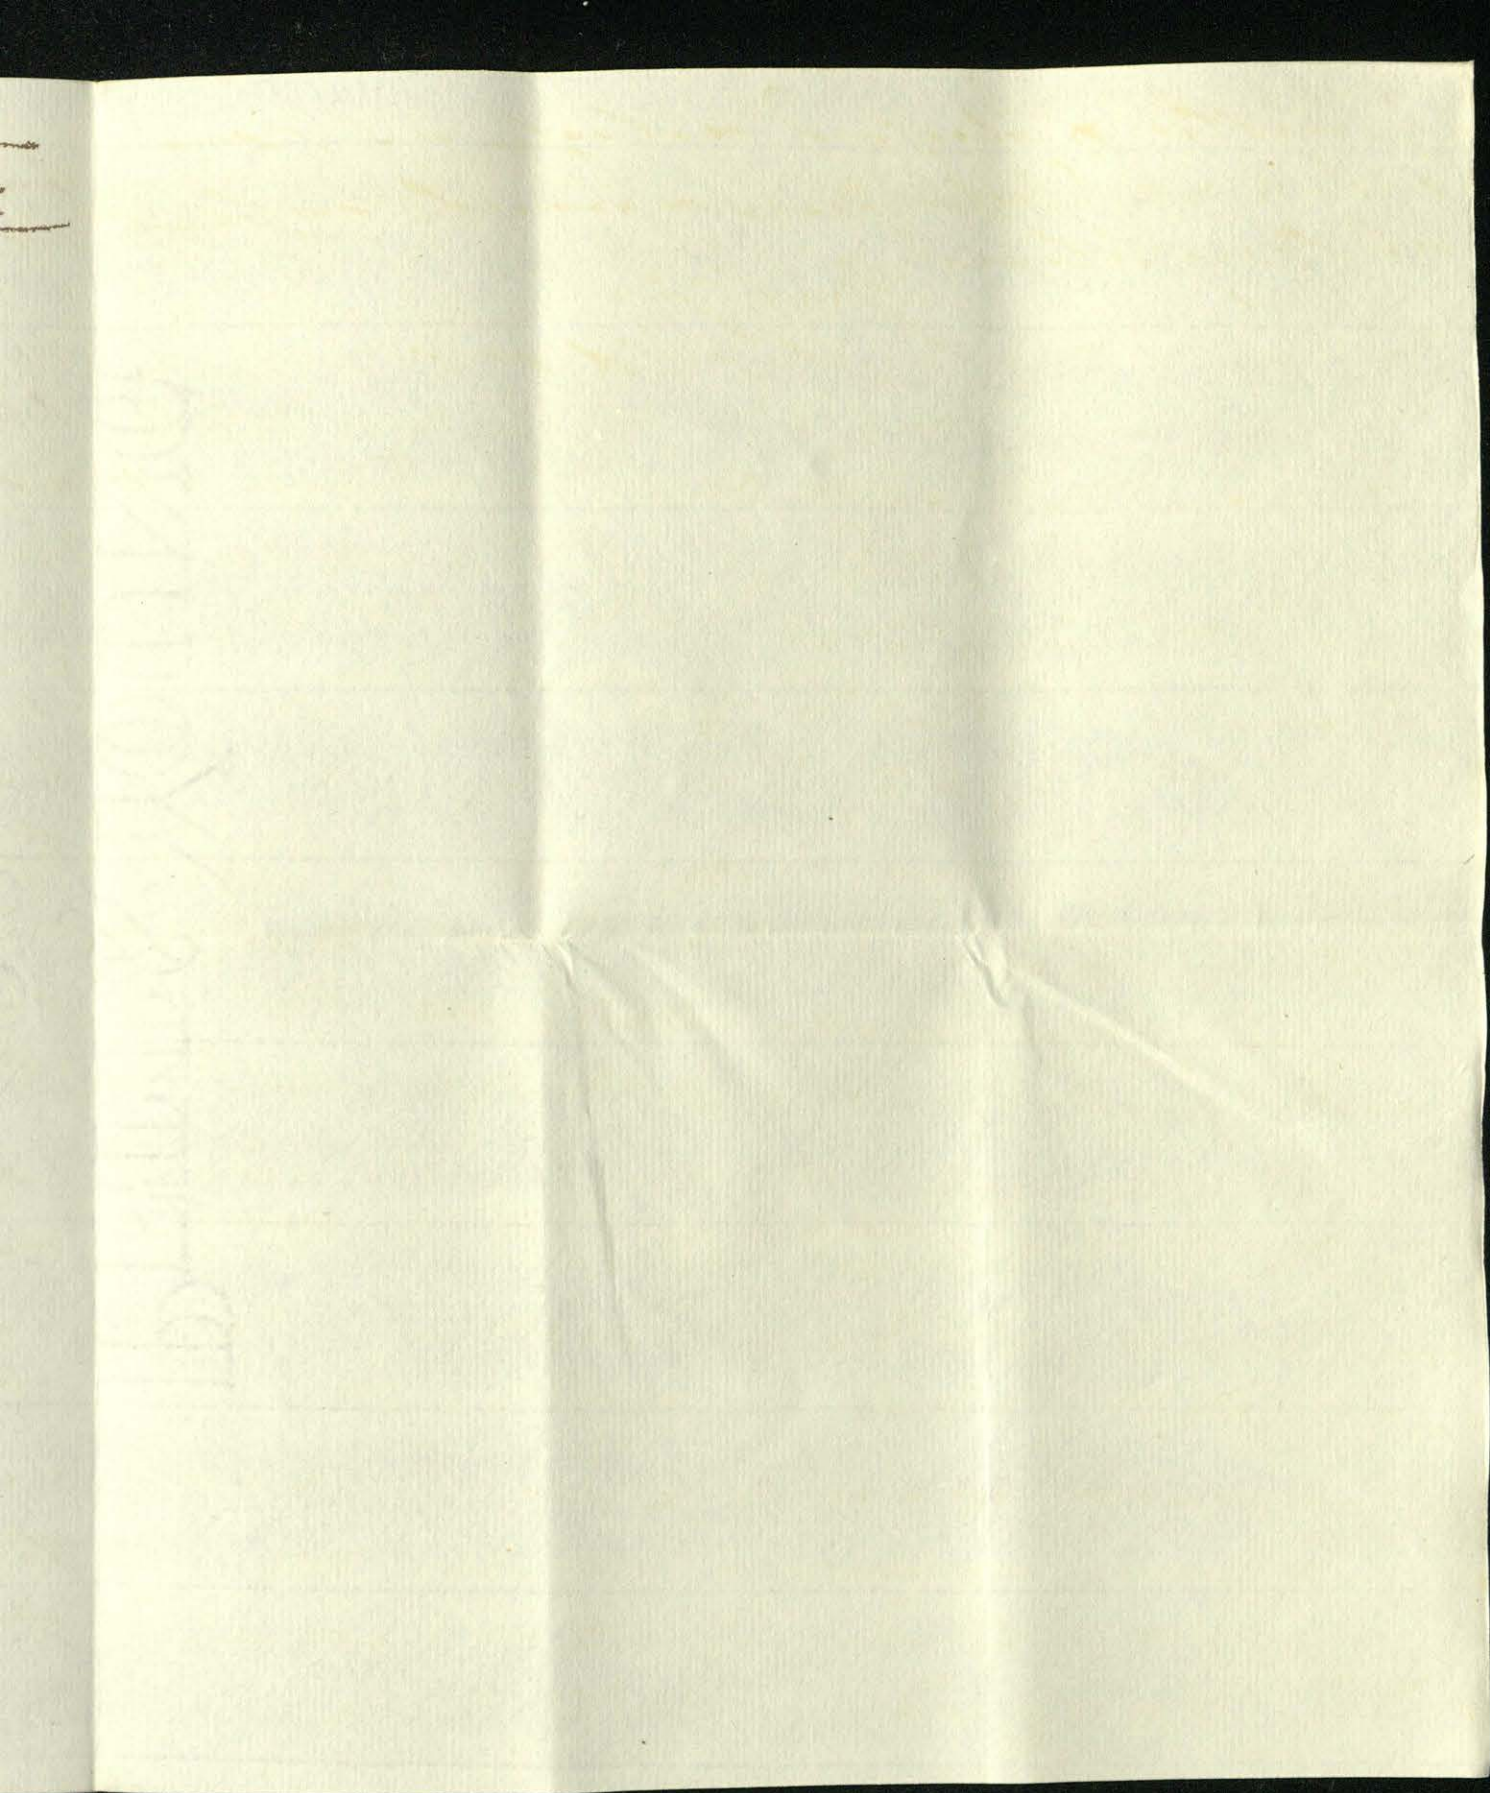

no 017/6/194

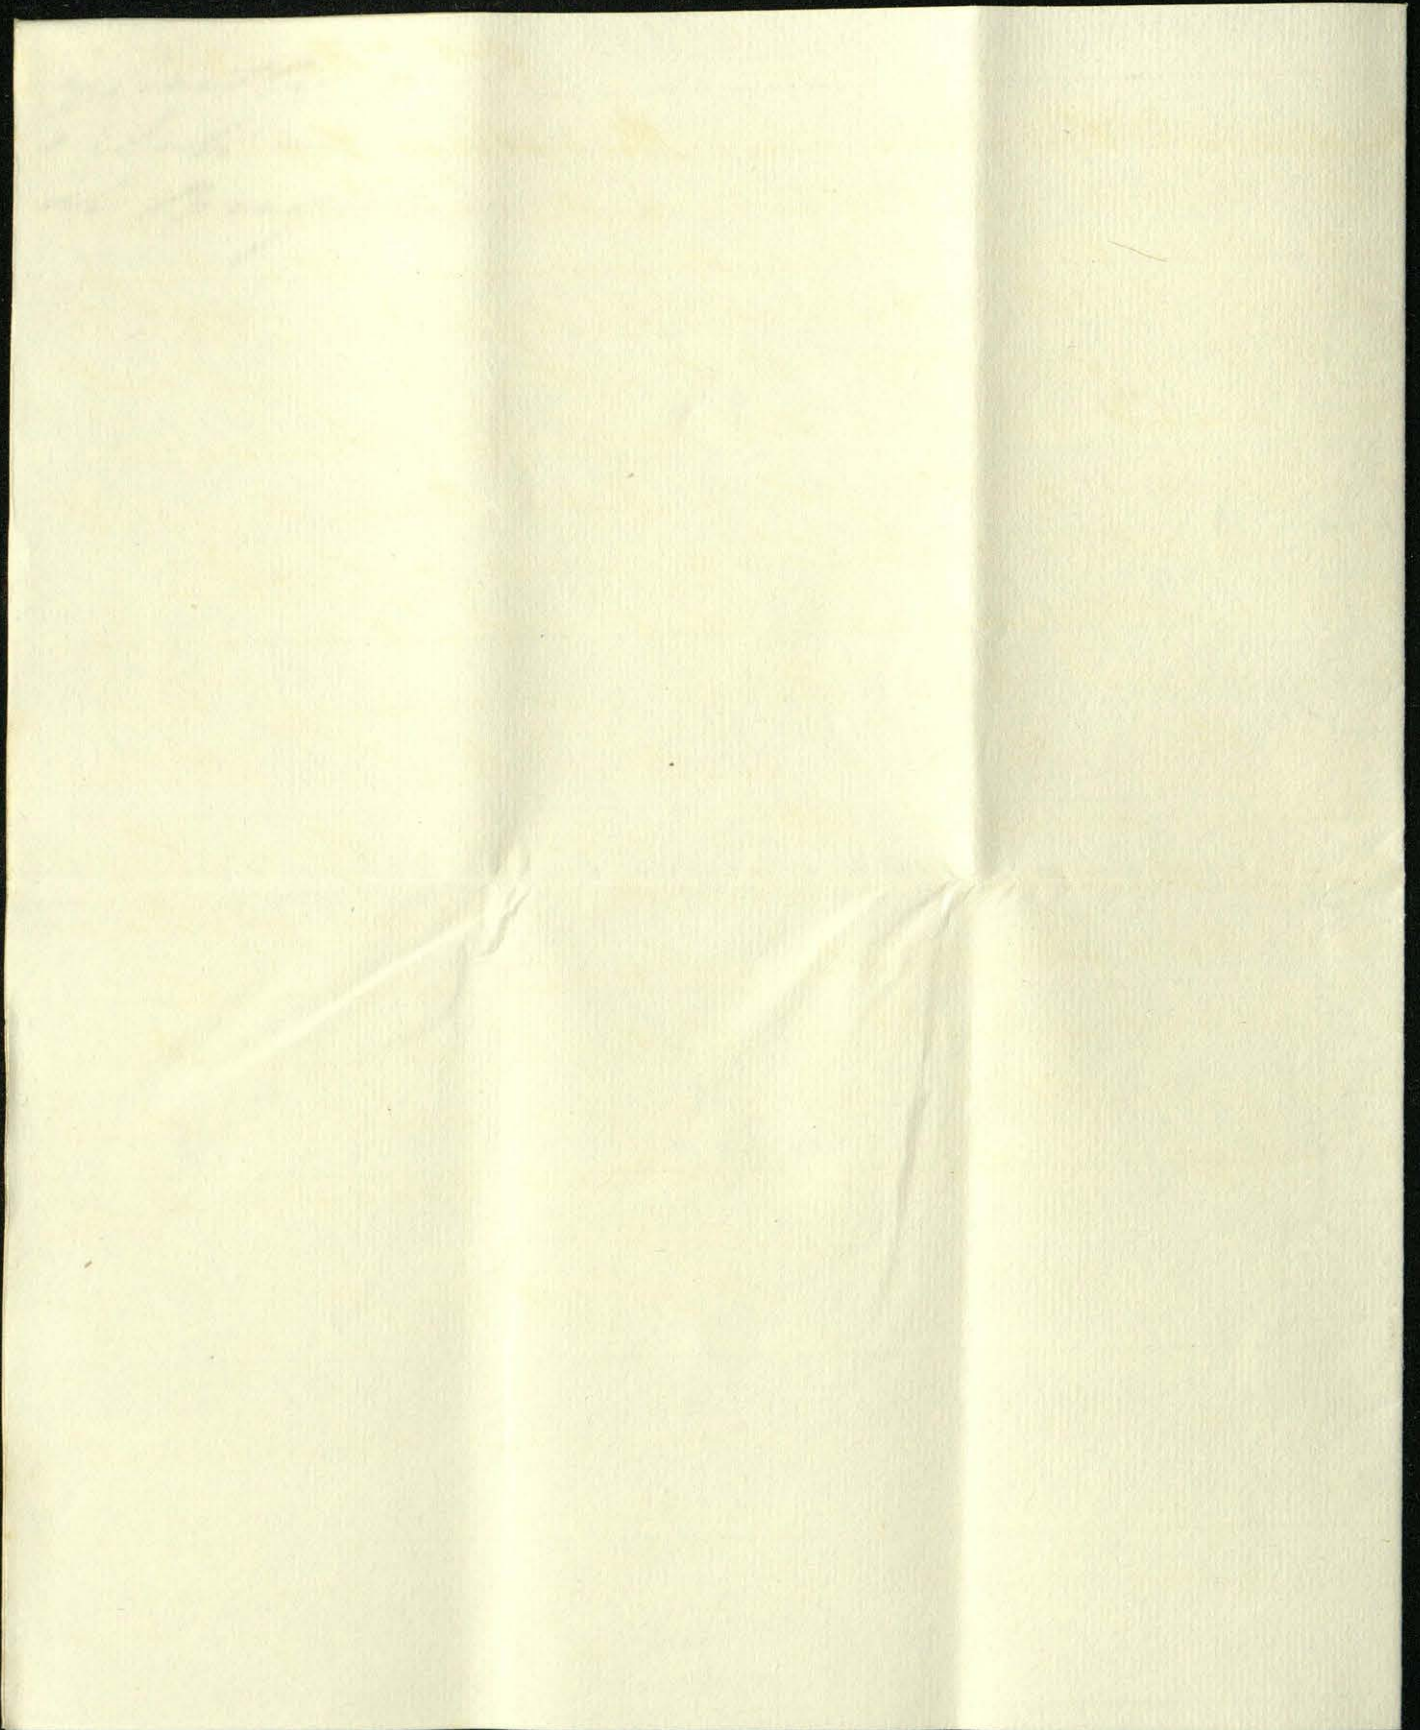

sat 29

My dear Brother This day began so very unpleasant that it was feared it would be a bad day, but since the King's illness he has been very composed & silent Whatever he has said has been as wrong as possible & Walter says more wrong expressed to day than yesterday, but certainly the quiet since one o'clock, likely to recreate the strength. — The two most striking things that have happened to day is that early this morning the King complained that the light affected his head & eyes & this evening he desired to walk round the room which he did spitting first one side then the other & then lasted till he was tired & then desired to rest down again. — He thinks all his holes are dead to day — He went to bed quietly to droped a leaf at 10 o'clock - I hope you arrived safe at Brighton

Yours
Mary

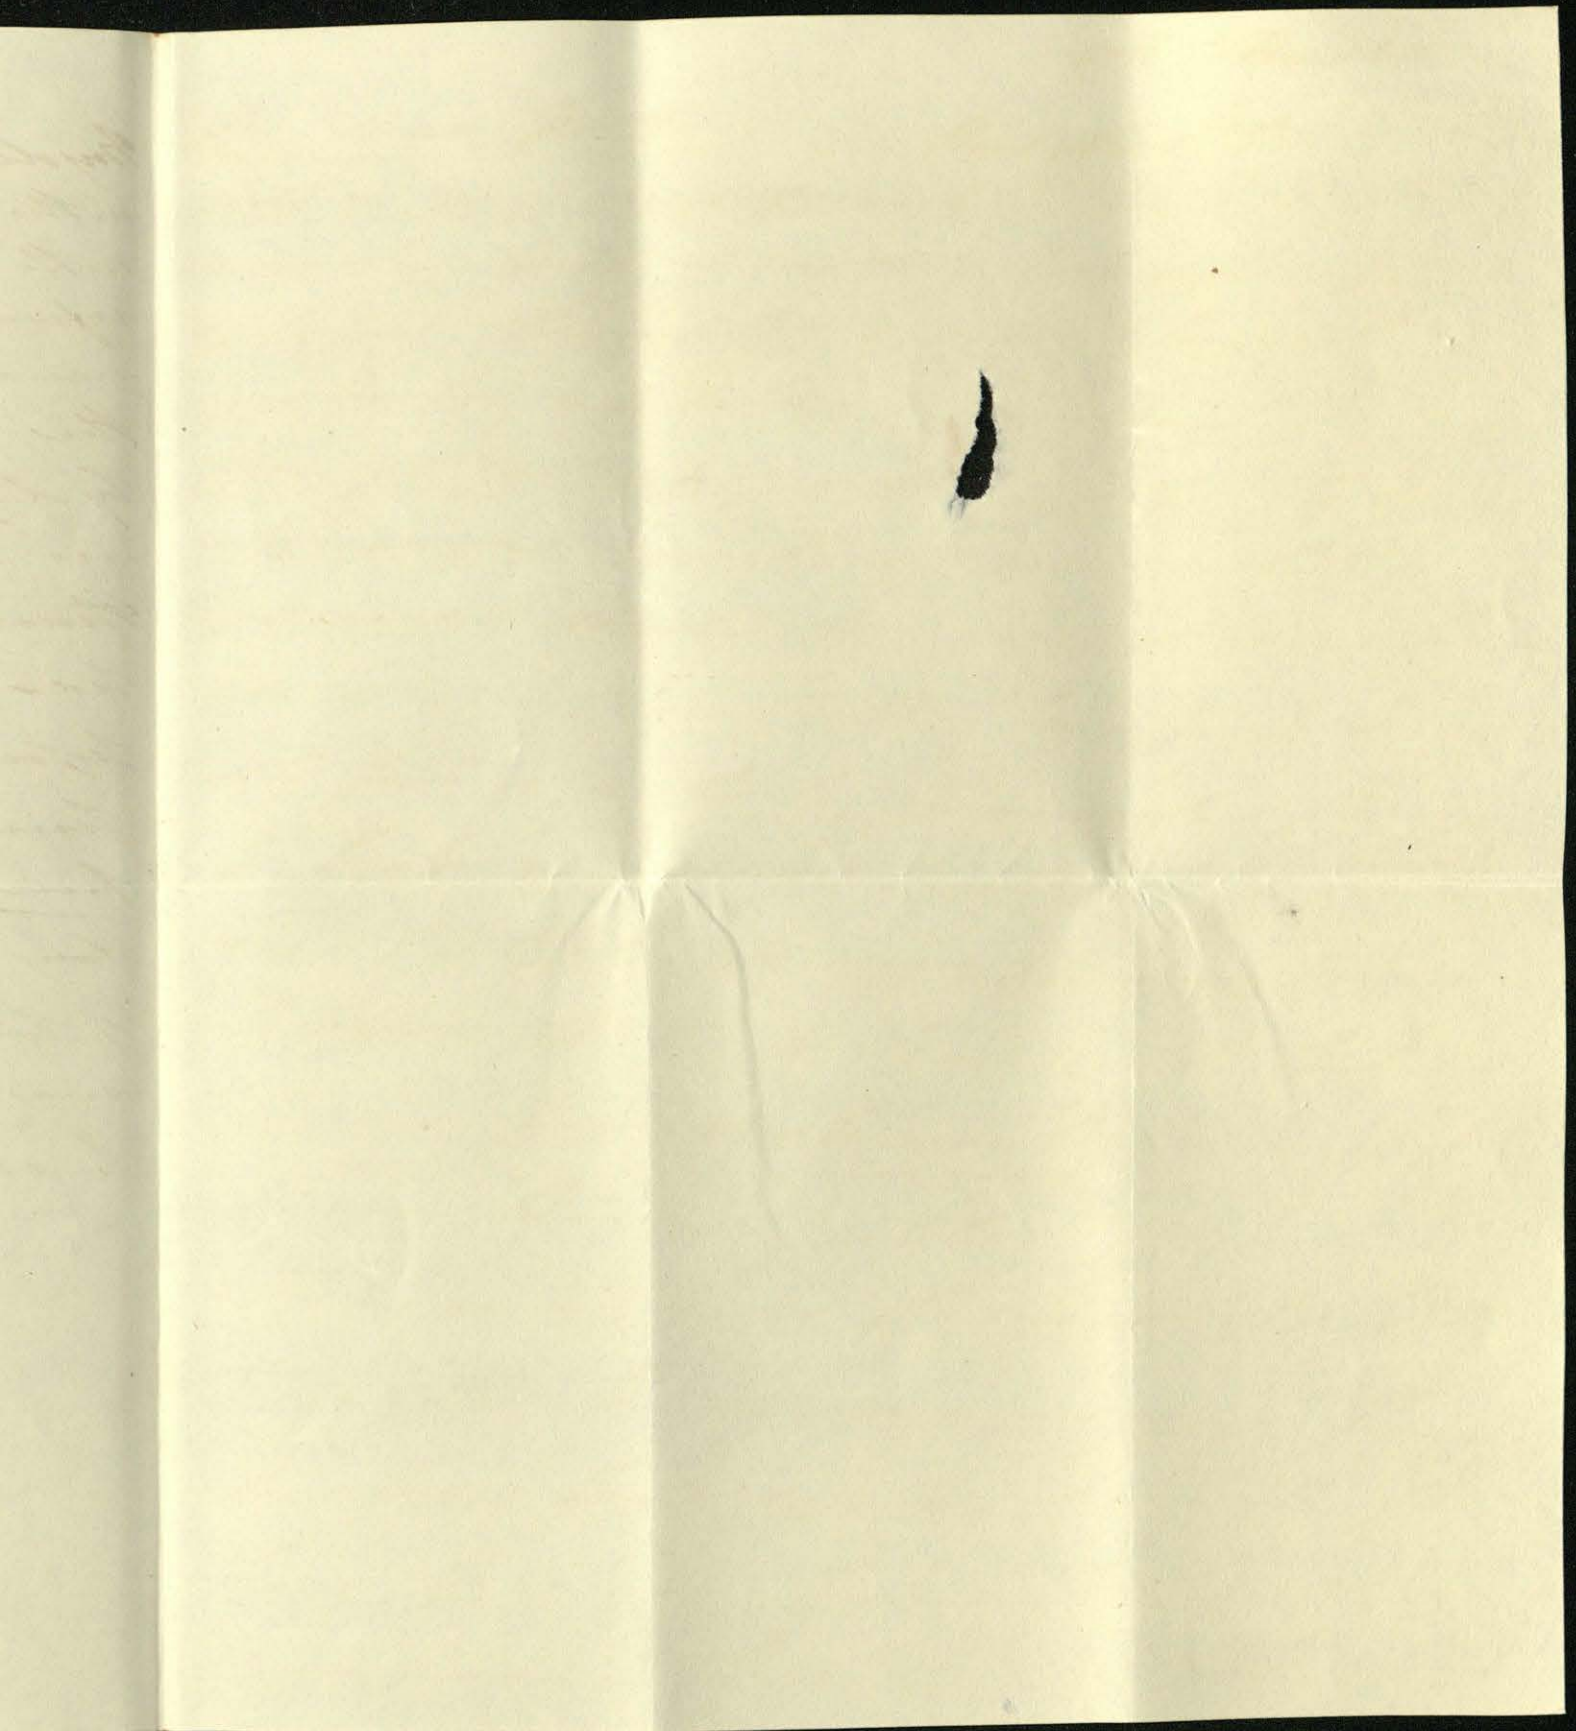

MSO 17/6/195

Oct - The 30

My dear Mr. Butler — This day began with much irritation & the conversation with the King was full of errors — The King refused to be shared & argued with much difficulty, but after he got into the next room he calmed down by degrees & the day has been a quiet one on the whole & more so than I have otherwise, but what can be said has been as wrong as possible — He has walked ten or twelve times round the room by order four times — In the course of the day has dropped off & on nearly 4 times — I tried to hold to length my quietly, but was not inclined to sleep when the King came up

Yours truly
W. M. M. M.

[Faint, illegible handwriting on aged paper, possibly bleed-through from the reverse side.]

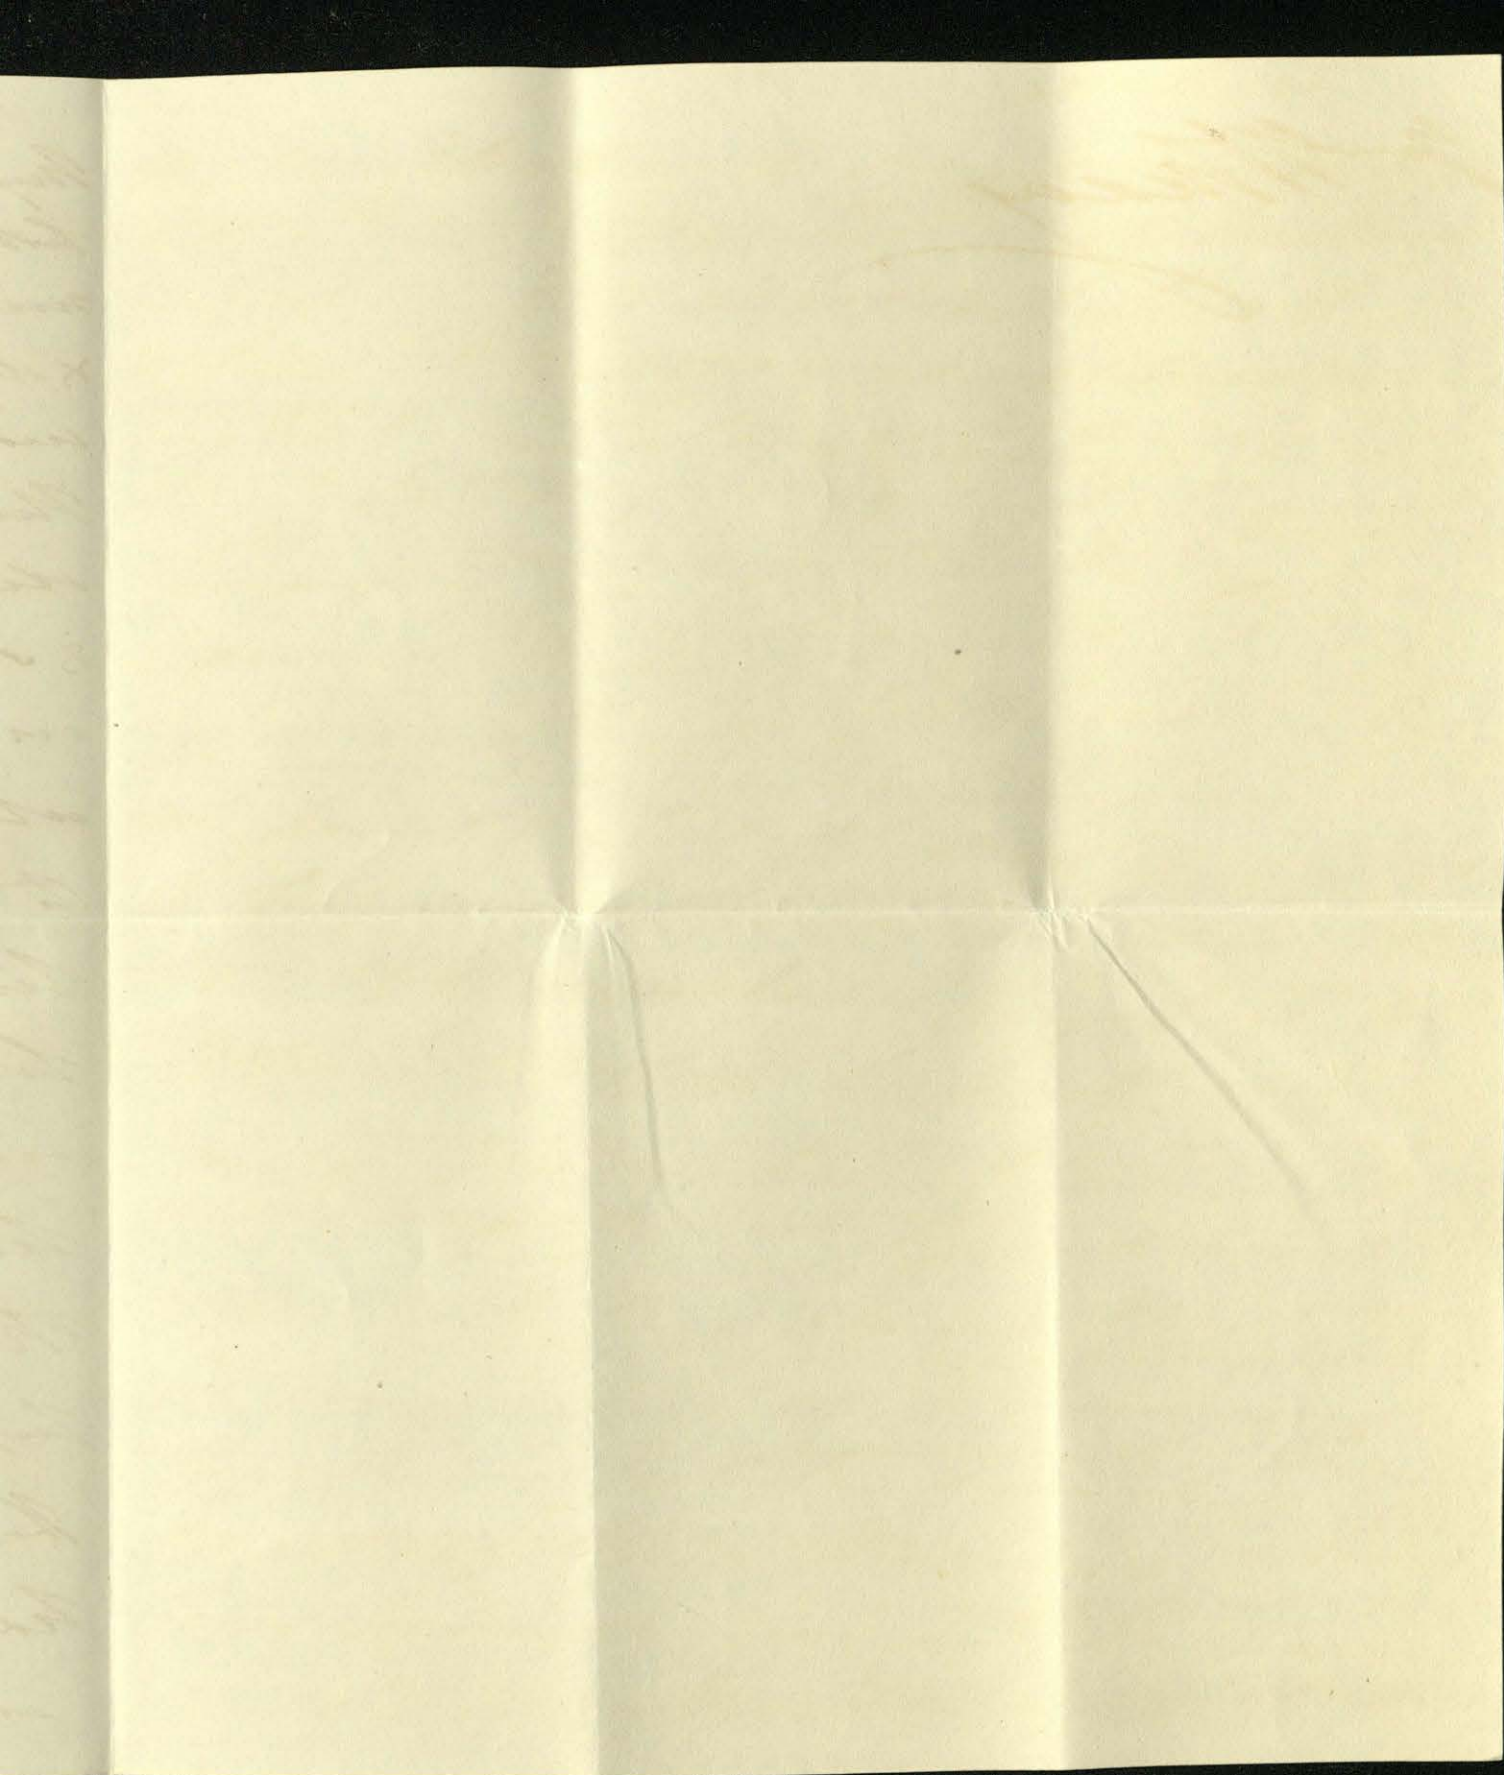

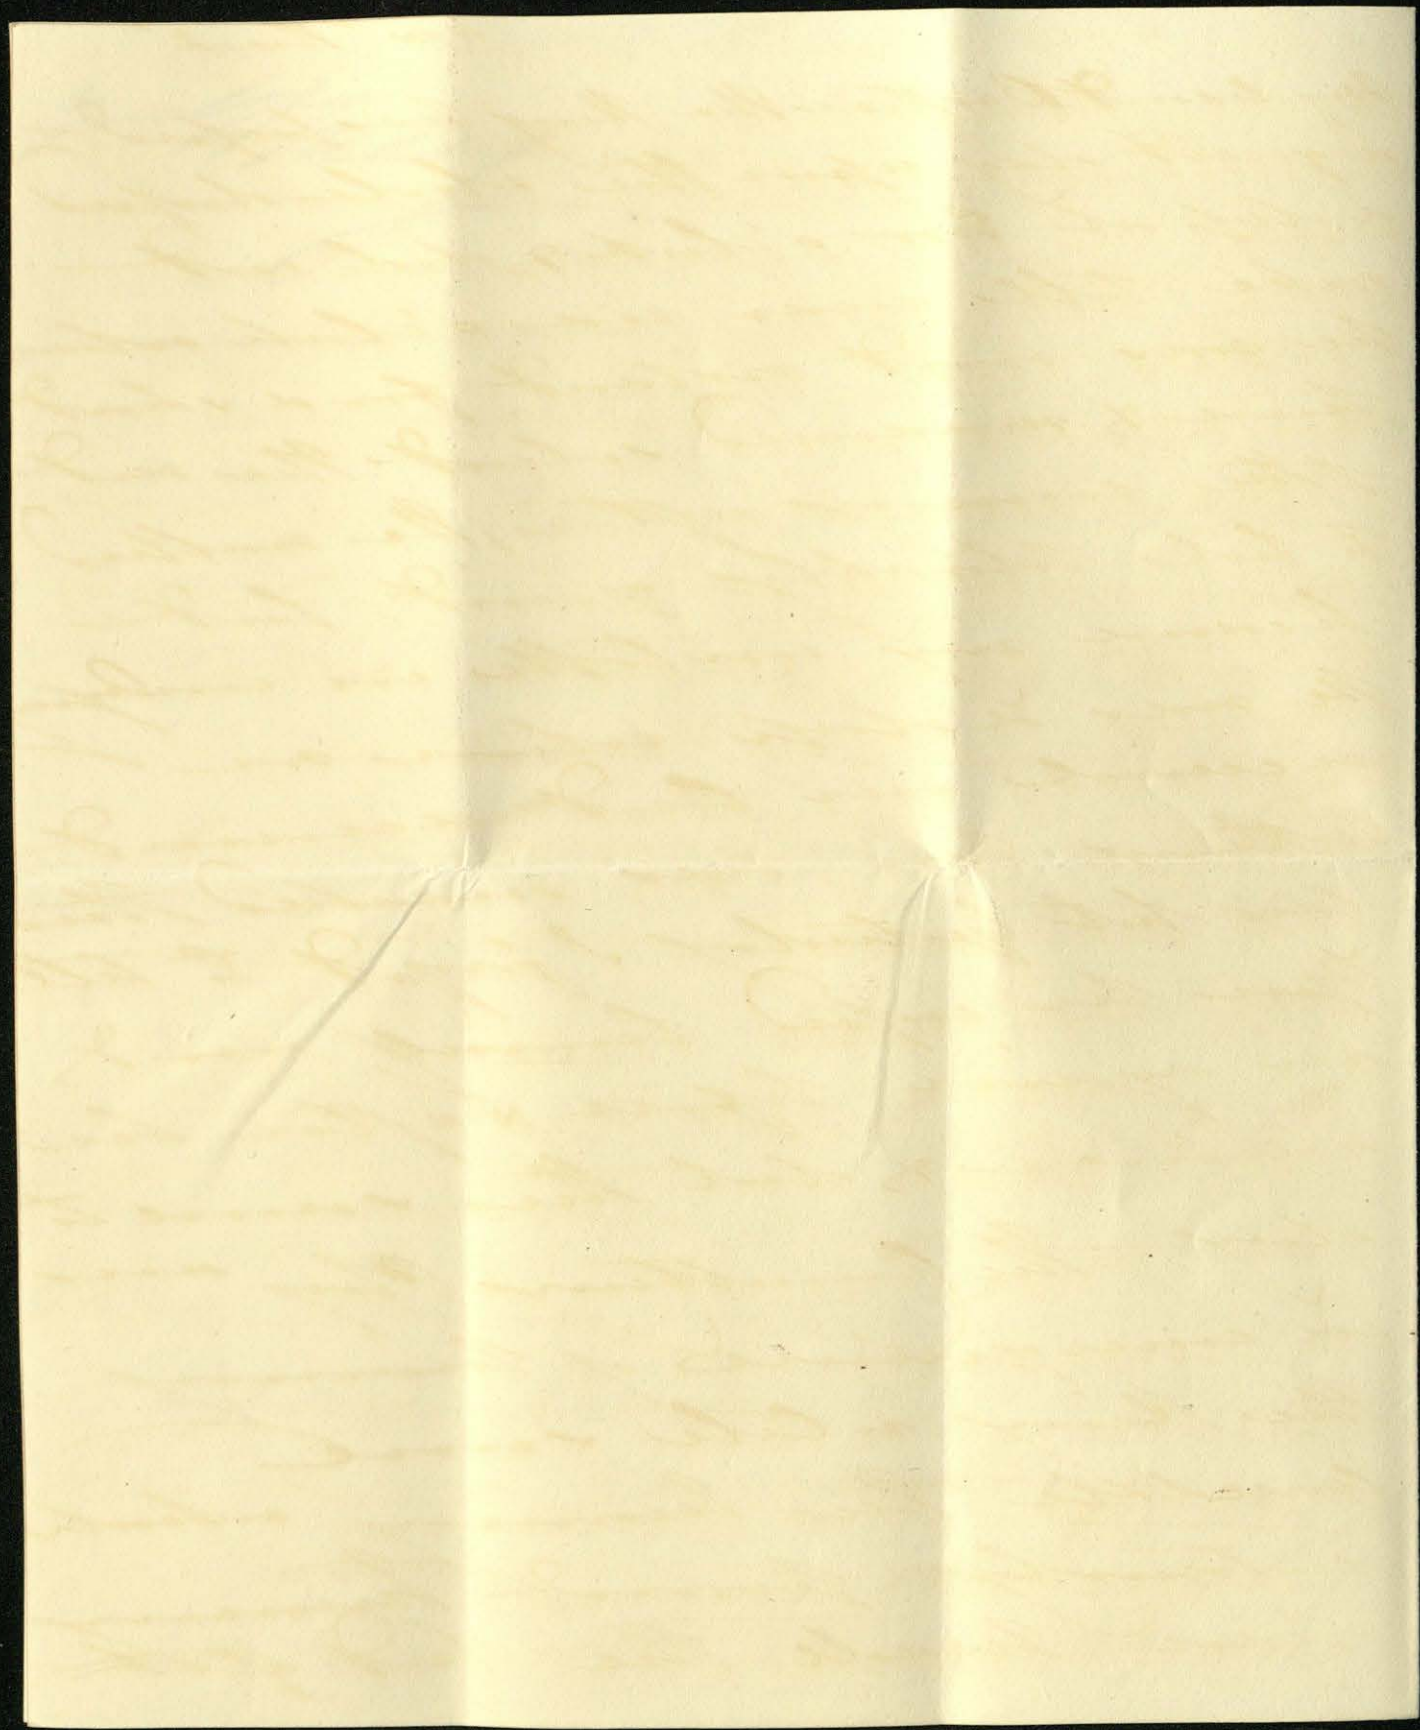

MS. A. 1. 1. 16 / 196

Oct - the 31 -

My dear Brother this day has been but a very unimportant one. The King's mind full of errors, but got up & slept tolerably & was shaved.
We had our table dinner. He was thoughtful & quiet, but the dinner went off very ill & since that the King has been in a very wretched restless state at five o'clock desired to go to bed & as he pulled off all his clothes, it was thought better to put him to bed more for restraint and have been called for attention, as it was hardly possible to discourage him.
He has not spoke since he has been in bed, but has inclined to sleep yet —

Genl Mearns

MS. A. 1. 7. 6. 1. 97

Nov 2nd

My dear Brother the King has passed a quiet day upon the whole dropped a sleep at two o'clock & did not wake till near six o'clock when he was most violent for a short time & remained silent the rest of the evening after, he walked to bed tolerably quiet, but became very restless in consequence He was a sleep when we received our Lord's account Nothing new was wanted this day but yesterday I forgot to tell you he confided himself over & our eyes before & after his services & did the same to day - The Courtship Play was in consequence of business the King will take some anecdotes this morning which entirely proved business was made the best of to those of the Council who came to day. What of course caused much conversation at the Council - Symonds & Dunro they examined first & in consequence of the report these Gentlemen desired being of a more formal nature than the ^{usual} they in constant attendance could for some time very few questions were asked them but all that passed was to explain why they were so nauseous to say so much before the first minutes attention the King your Highness in conversation & that as a reference may be completely damaged & yet keep the business, it was amenable to the Hon. Lord Willes & Deane that the Council could be over a way with what really happens every day to some poor unfortunate people who have been shut up years & years — The Chancellor is the Minister they had for Council on Wednesday as was intended & today came down to day that the a Bishop of Winchester and Bishop of Norwich The same question was put to the Council they were by the Council as before & the Bishop told the I the answer to these questions by means & means answered as usual & have tried to see the Rayner read Friday - Dr. Johnston with and ^{of the Council} his colleagues tried to put 4 questions to the committee. They were an orderly & serious as these given at Sir Henry Hall's House at one of the said committees all on the subject of Disengagement The Council gave them time either to answer them to day or but till next Saturday which was was very agreeable to them & they tried to have time to consider our three questions as I suppose we shall but have them till Saturday - The old part of the story is that the Council never told me word of the Rebulet's having asked to put these questions on that they had agreed to his notes to the Queen she was told it by Sir Henry & Mullis. In consequence of finding from Seymour & Norris they did not intend to make any motion before Saturday Sir Henry before all.

The play was so much attended as asked Seymour & Norris as how they of they had any thing to propose depend on the way of management or if they thought ~~for~~ had not been done the Henry & Co they declared they had no care of the papers & approved of every thing, but still would not answer the questions to day - I blame for this has wrote themselves very account of what has passed - You will see for I will not take up your time your time there to answer you of long W. M. W.

[Faint, illegible handwriting in cursive script, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page. The text is mirrored across the page and is mostly illegible due to fading and the cursive style.]

Mr. [unclear] to be

*The Prince Regent
Carlton House*

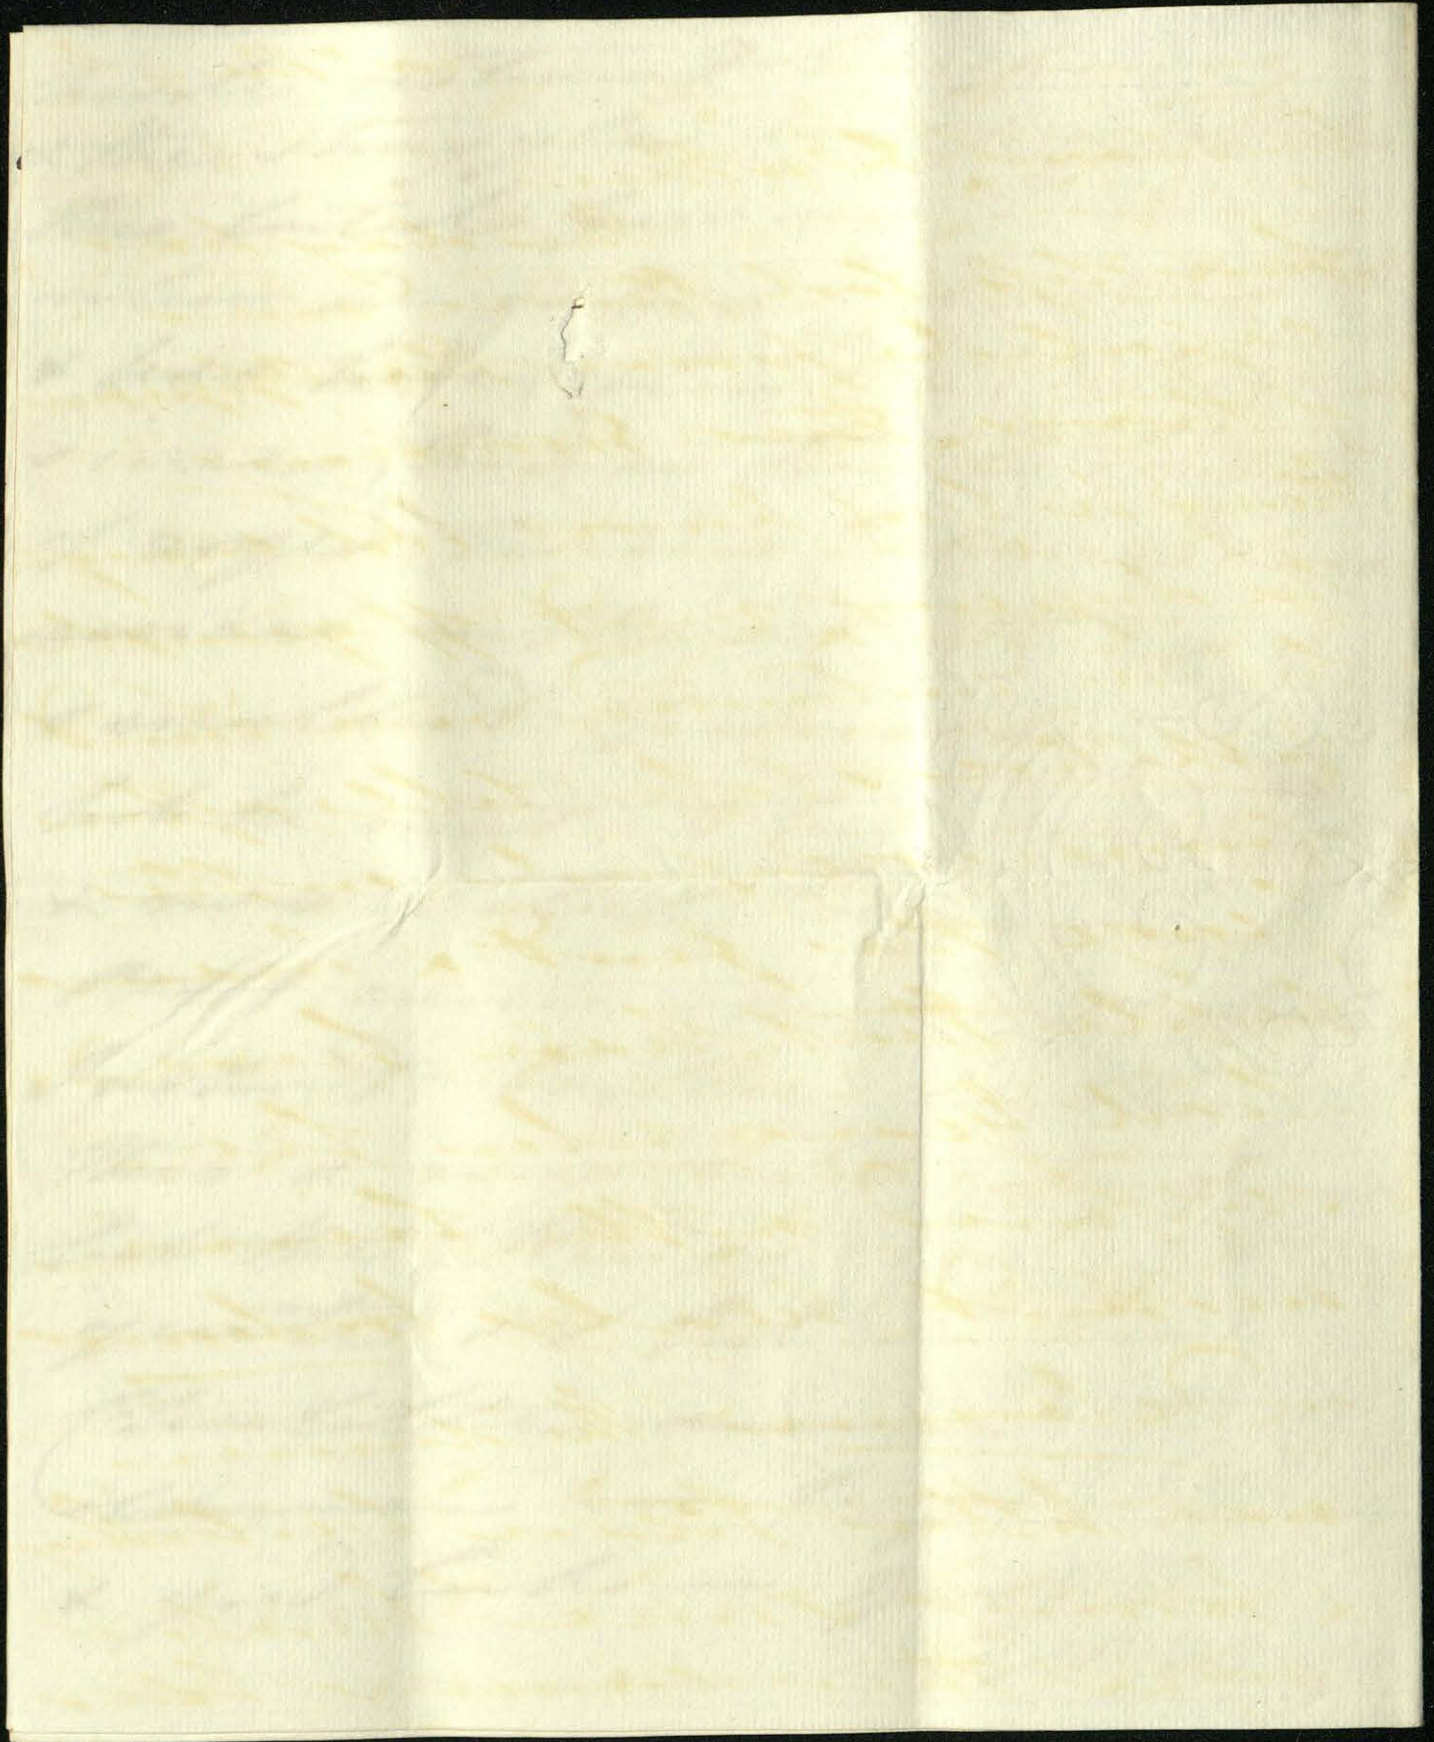

ned/17/6/198 Nov 2nd 9th

My dear Mother your letter to the Queen made us all laugh & I trust sincerely should I imagine like you of some of that happy & amily departed we none of us should hush our hearts upon that occasion This has been a very mixed day after receiving the May was our good friend the King's defect with a mumble constitution as to have his letter formal in & the whole was carried into the great room The dinner went off hand particulars ill. The flour into a volcano of peaked the dinner table down & hit Pennington in the same which of course people not want to receive & the struggle was frightful this lasted for an hour when he calmed down & had been silent & sullen since, then in three hours I was taken place and without the smallest provocation but he must be held quietly & was a slave when I got home at 11 o'clock I was called to bed this a very medical day but the Kings were quite as well as ever Charlotte arrived to dinner in high spirits & good looks —

Yours
Mary

[Faint, illegible handwriting in cursive script, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page. The text is mirrored across the central fold.]

MEB/17/6/199

Nov^r the 4th

My dear Brother

This day has been less hot than was expected from the appearance of things this morning — though God knows how enough the dropping wind off generally but he continued in a most talkative state till after dinner occupied on the George the 2nd & reading people that have been dead years when he supposed on the dinner was but very bordering on delirium The dinner was better than yesterday & having some hints of joy the evening was have good. He went to bed without any storm & sleep a sleep a quarter before 10 o'clock but complained when undressing of feeling very much & fatigued.

The conversation has been very hot to day & the eyes in constant moisture.

Yours
W. M. M.

It is a great relief to me & I that she shall see you before next Saturday as she intends to talk me every thing that may be brought forward the best way, & we all you have to propose & advice, for it is clear something is going on - as to Dr. H. H. H. my opinion as well as your I know has been made up about being but really I don't understand the journals connected to Dr. H. H. H. & Waller's last interview & I begin to believe they want to turn them all out

[Faint, illegible handwriting on lined paper, possibly bleed-through from the reverse side.]

MCO/17/6/200

Nov^r the 5

My dear Brother - This has been a day of great mental turbulence upon the whole more quiet than otherwise, but but without fits of rage every hour & there - The King has here made out of the conversation in general without the smallest reason he received the Play was much out of temper this Sunday & then out in a most violent unprovoked manner with Dr. Hurdless because the King said to day was Thursday the 2^d which to set the King right by opening him it was Tuesday when the King called him a Bustard & atheist & a liar which of course ended the conversation - After he got into the seat room, he attempted to break the strings of the Harpsicord of course he was stopped which caused a storm for a short time, but the manner in which he did it was curious for he first struck the key as if he was going to tune the instrument then broke the string & entrusted the wire & sent it under the other rollers till time broke two before he spoke to him & then asked him what he was doing & upon the 1st saying out

The Paragraph was inserted among some 4 o'clock the R has had nearly three hours sleep. He complained of being fatigued at half past 2 & went to bed, he was not asleep when Willis came up. I do not doubt you can be more than the Quintessence — God bless your people Wally

What an infamous Paragraph appeared in the Summary Part of the ^{when out of} paper the Stamford Paper. I should hope & please will immediately introduce it of what Willis feels sure he will but it is a most shameful attack upon those that were attended the R for this last year —

Will you give the account of the R to Grant for I have not time to write to him to night — ly

&
F
e
y
ly
to
ly
le
at me
the r

[Faint, illegible handwriting on lined paper]

[Faint, illegible handwriting on aged, yellowed paper, possibly bleed-through from the reverse side.]

ME017/6/201

No 2 the 6 -

My dear Brother After one of the very worn nights the King was papered & to violence, & very large & etc the day began in a most irritable state, he was in relaxant when the King was used in they could hardly speak to the King Heberden would attempt to get the King's pulse upon which the struck at him - Treats of rage have taken place off & on all day the A year was in a more lost state than to day, conversing with people that have been about years & years & flying out for nothing - He has attempted to visit his friends often, but had so much from violence as inconstant loss of time, & always thinking that was time to go to bed - In the night I forgot to tell you that the Duke went his head that they had changed his bed & put some clothes on because these usual complaints of falling quite opposed - in consequence

The bed was made twice in the night & that added to make him more restless, he was under restraint & spent part of the night - Puller thinks some ~~more~~ increase of Porphyria is coming in & hardly in a condition for the King has not eat so well these last two or three days, need has some irritation about urine & is here last He went to bed without a stomach, but was not a sleep when we heard last

Yours
M. J. J.

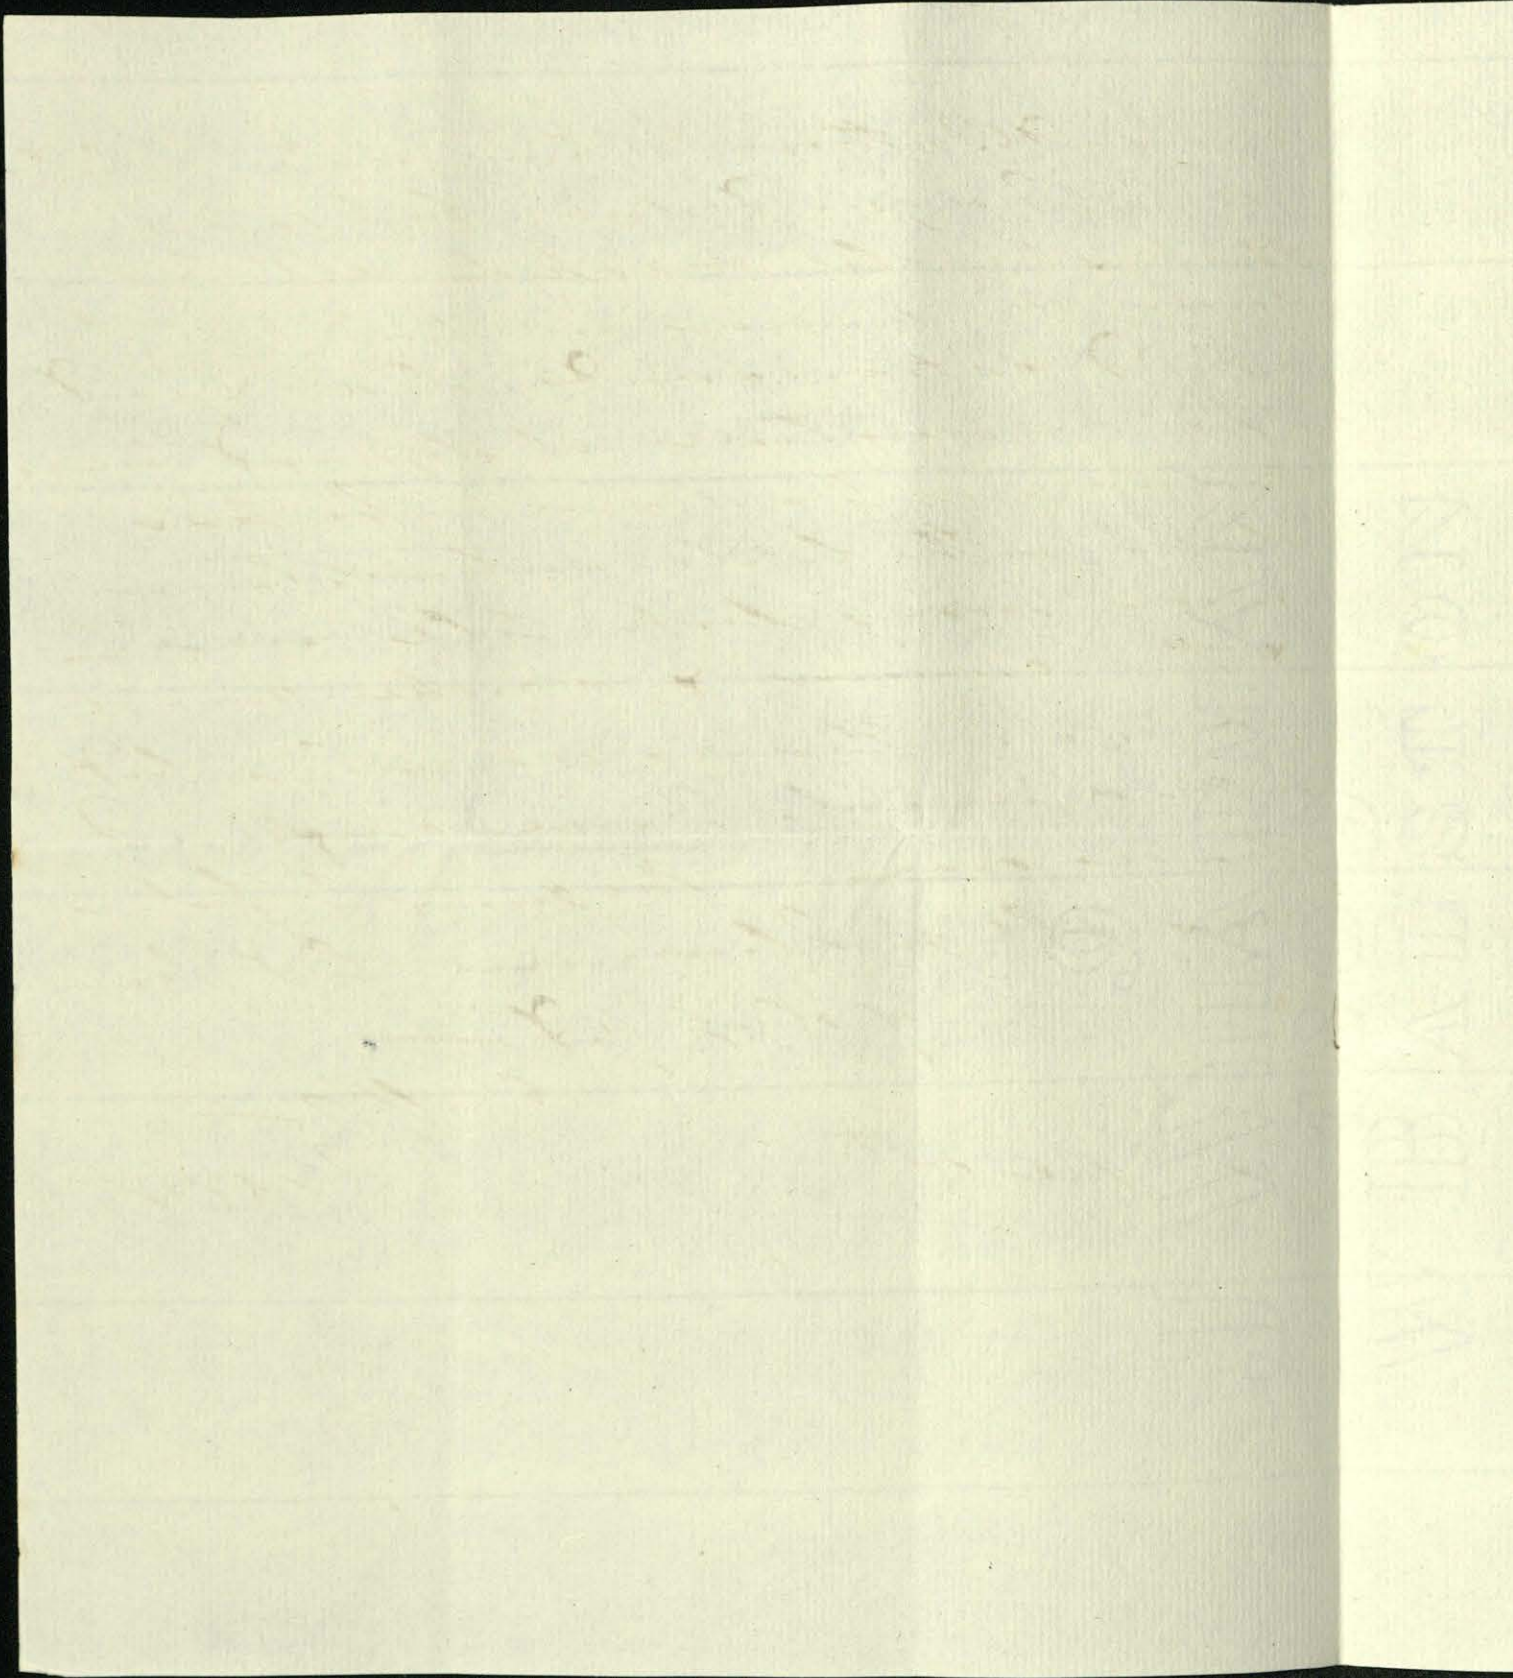

[Faint, mirrored handwriting, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page. The text is illegible due to fading and bleed-through.]

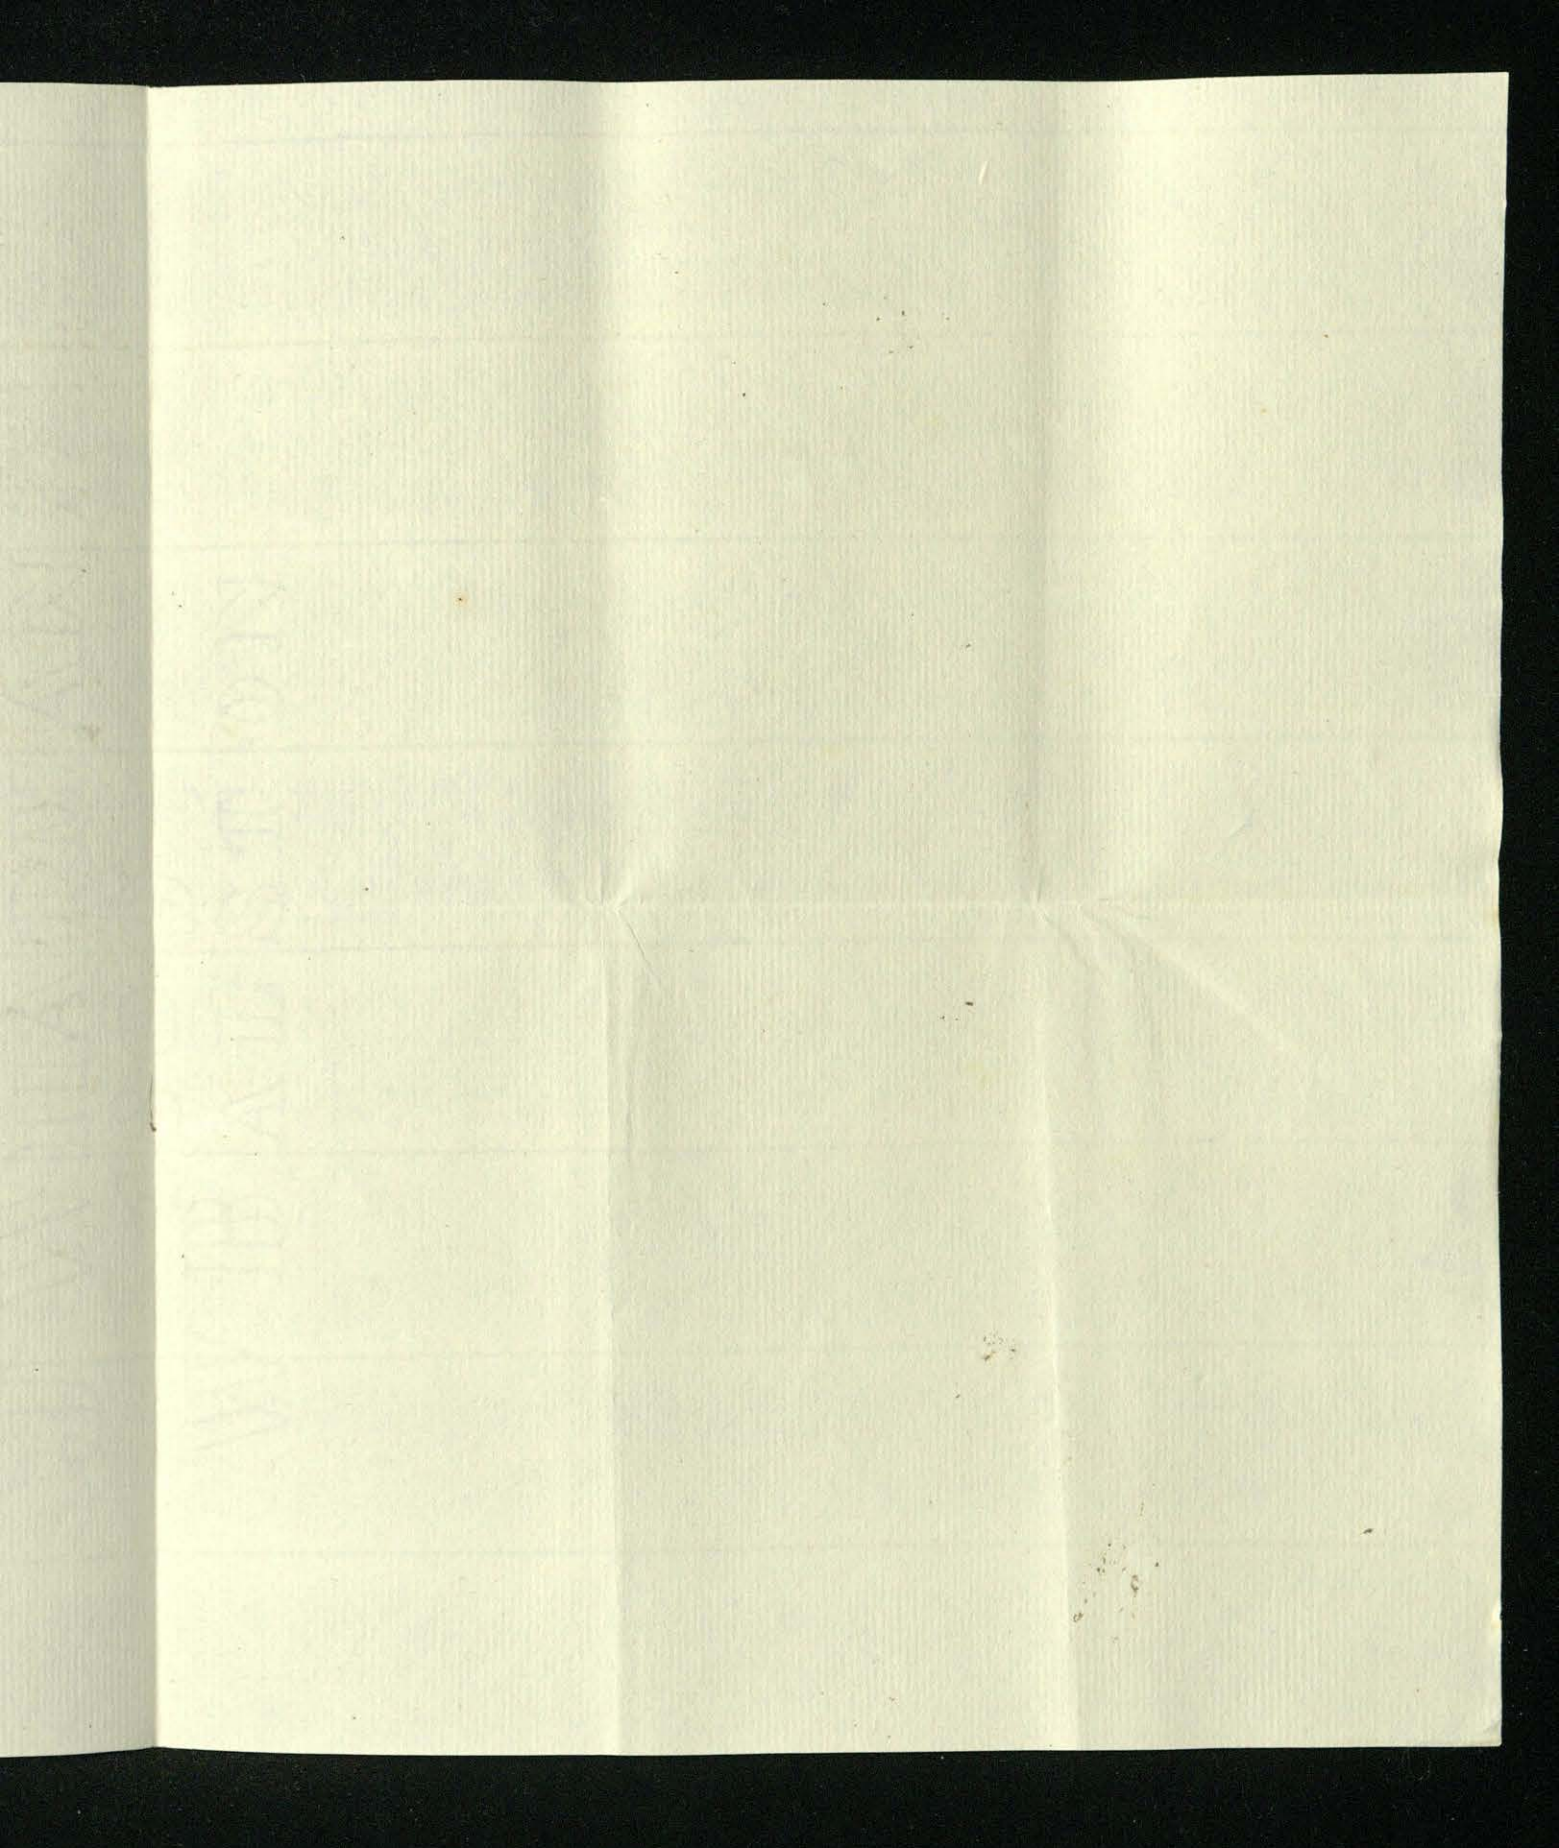

ME017/6/202

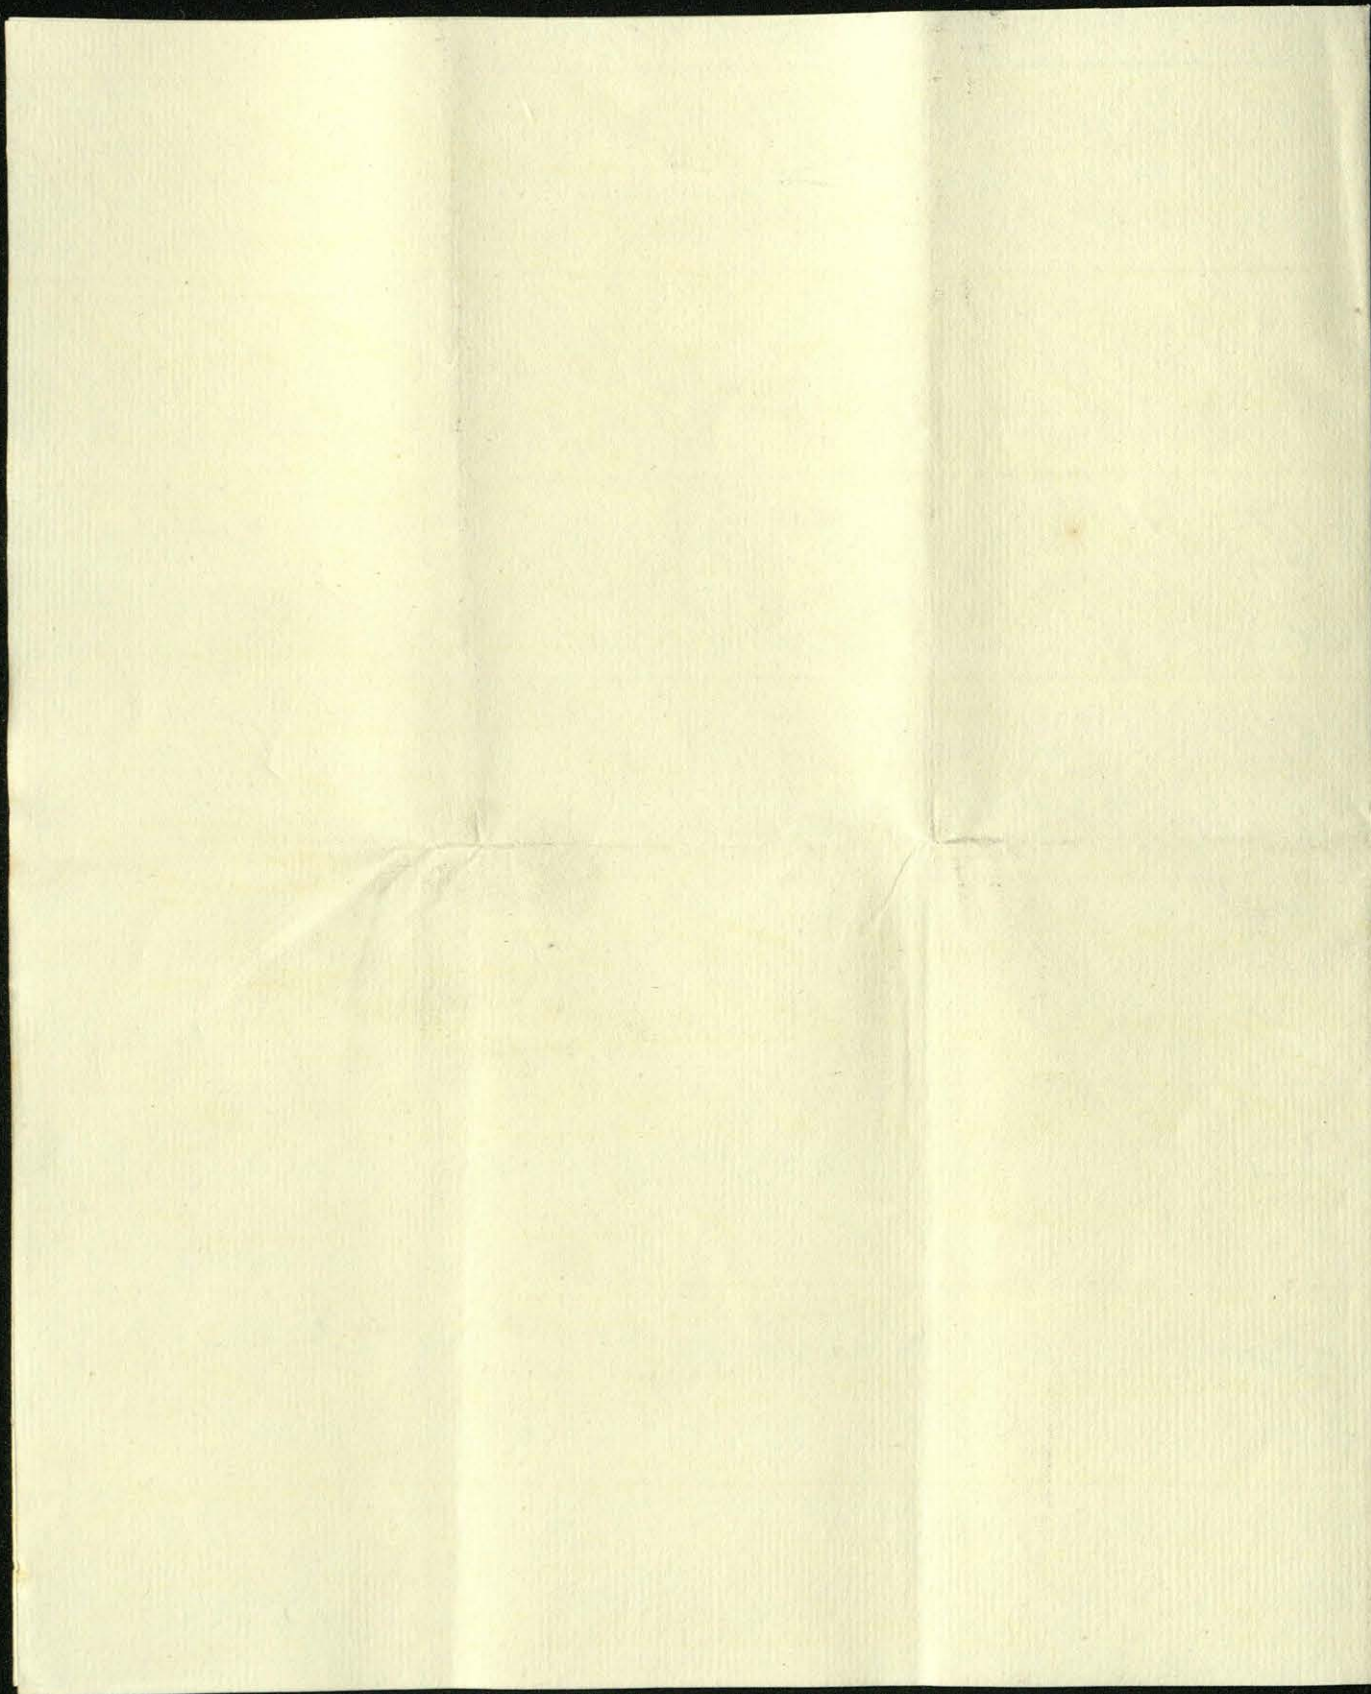

My dear Mr. Butler - The day in the whole has passed a quiet day, but one that strongly interested all his views - The dinner was full of wild & most extraordinary ideas & part of the conversation at different times to day grew to a degree - He has slept with little interruption from three o'clock till near 8 this evening & awoke more composed than usual, but with a mind never composed thence ever - The party to bed was all good humoured, but had experience of sleep yet -

Yours &c of the

Edw. M.
Wacey

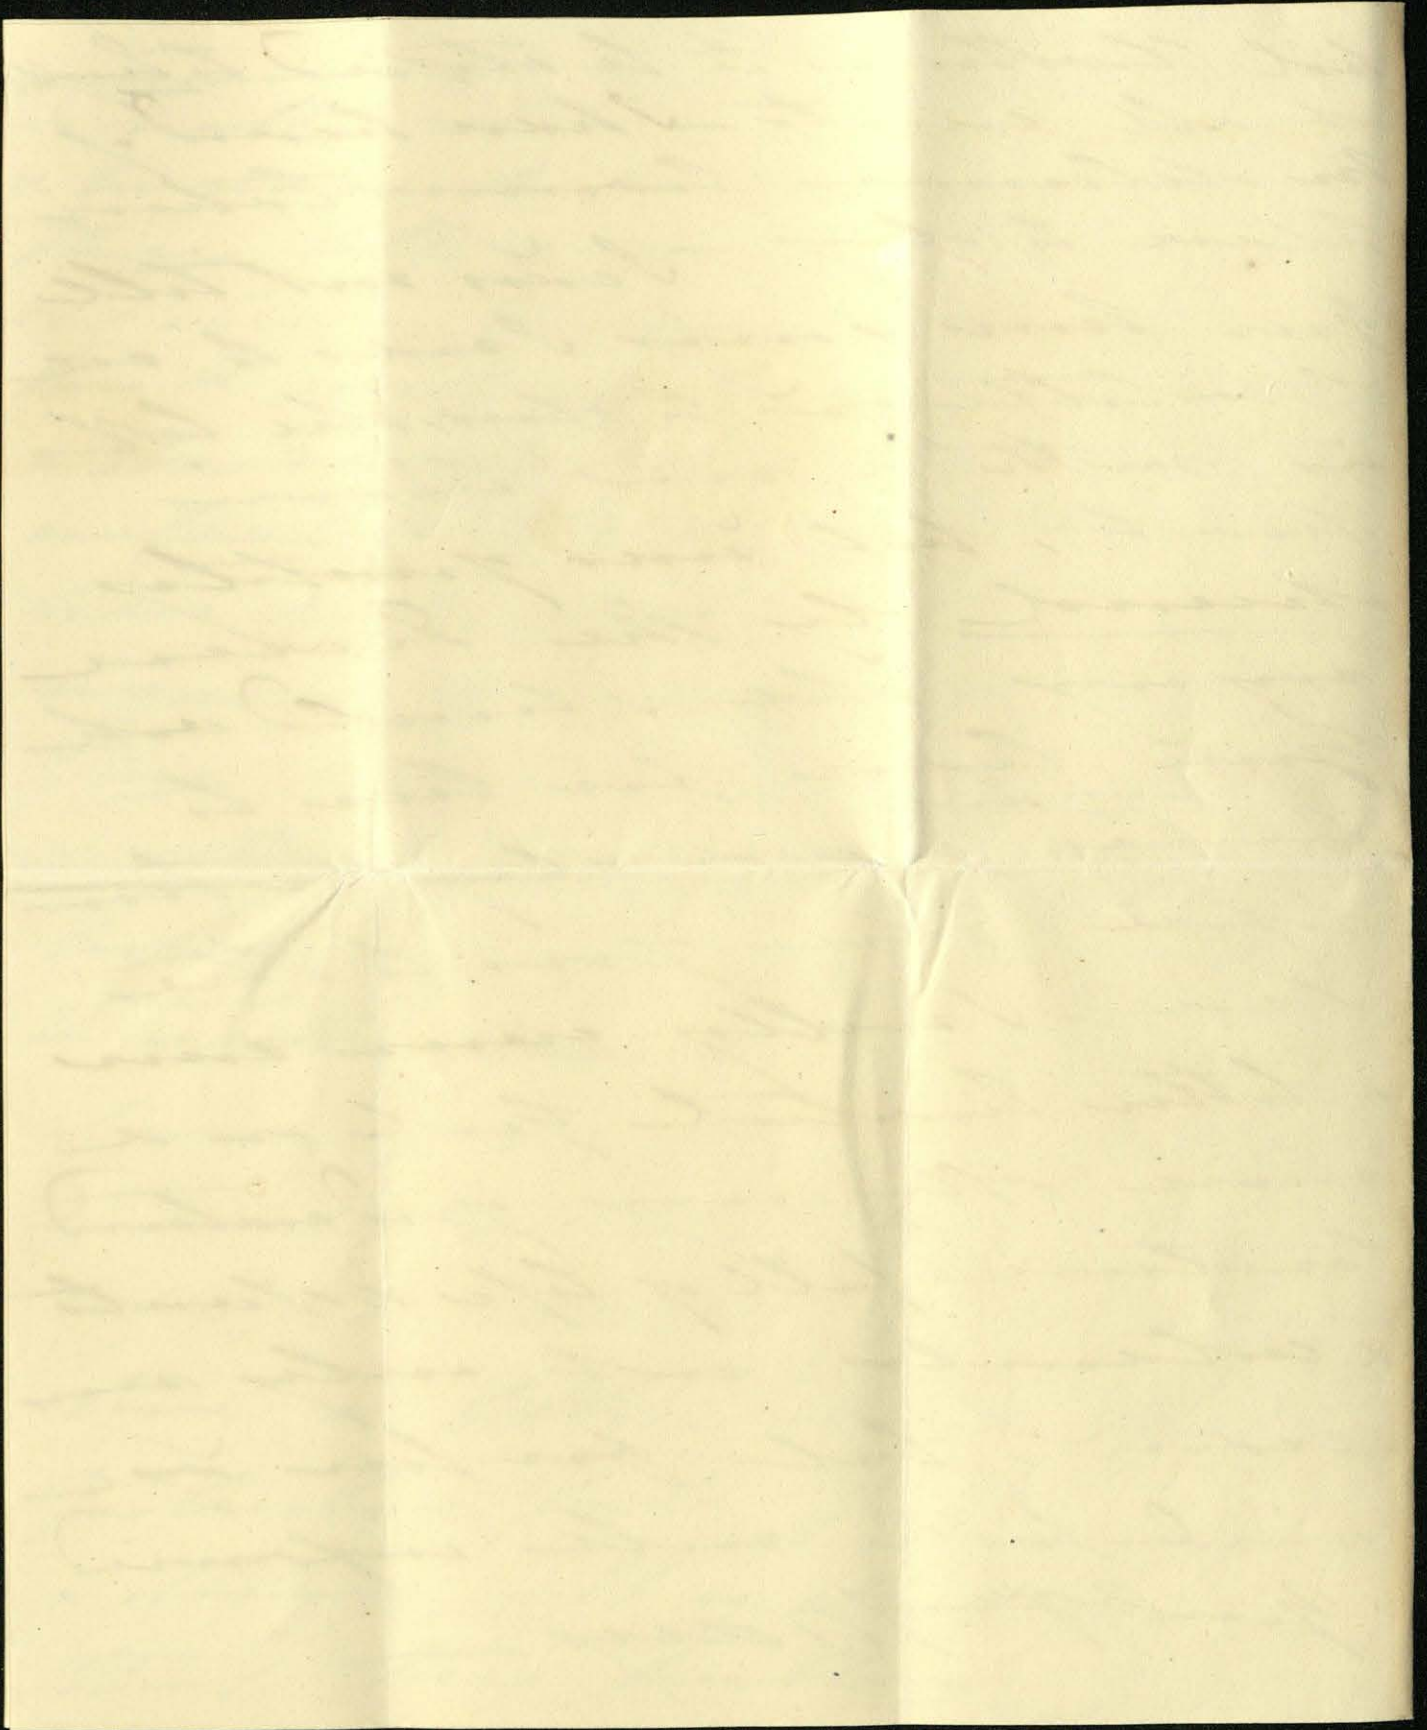

MSO/17/6/203

My dear Brother the early part of this day began very ill as the King was more hurried in his manner & disappointed in the very truly & very things - he had but an hour & a half sleep in the night & the rest of the time was taken up in pulling the bed clothes, in consequence Dr Keble's found it necessary as soon as the R was brought to retirement to advise that he could not let him go on integrity however in such a way, & therefore that while such of course sent him out of business & he advised Sir Henry & Keble's when they came in together I wrote to myself - but in this state of half controllable he not (rather is to be stopped) to light at all events. I have heard of the delicious honey taken place to day - I can not tell you how sorry I was to see Charlotte go to day, she left us with a very heavy heart, but was greatly observed by the Duke any way she should ask you leave for her to come for a day or two before she goes to the sea - I really never saw a better hearted girl or a more obliging & generous creature full of life & spirits & certainly not only very clever, but for her age wonderfully well informed Your aff^o M^o -

To satisfy or please him in any way, at the end of these weeks I expect you will not look well. - God bless you

Yours

Mary

[Faint, illegible handwritten marks]

[Faint, illegible handwritten marks]

private property without you — This day has passed off very quietly my little invention but both ways great borrowing, in putting about two days on all other subjects a good day —
Yours
Macy

Handwritten text on the left edge of the page, including the letters 'G' and 'P'.

BRILLIANT ROMANCE

